LEGISLATURE APPROVES M. S. C. BILL

After meeting opposition which threatened to send it to oblivion and returning to the field of battle somewhat disguised the bill to change the name of the College was passed by the house of representatives by a margin of six votes at about nine o'clock on the evening of April 13. As it was approved by the house the law makes M. A. C. the Michigan State College of Agriculture and Applied Science, or at least it will make it that when it becomes effective on May 13 and provided that it is approved by Governor Groesbeck as it is expected it will have been by the time this is read.

One of the first bills introduced in the house was one offered by Representative A. C. MacKinnon, '95, the purpose of which was to change the name to Michigan State College. This measure was reported out by the committee on the agricultural college and was threatened with defeat unless some means was devised through which the word "agriculture" could remain a part of the title. An attempt was made to get an agreement on an amendment which would meet with approval without causing too much debate but this proved fruitless as each man seemed to have a pet idea he wished to have accepted. This situation prevailed for some time until the matter was allowed to drop entirely and no further work was done to convince the members of the house that the bill should be passed. When what was believed to be the proper time arrived, the new bill was introduced in the senate by Senator Norman B. Horton, '02, a farmer and son of a farmer who had also been prominent in state affairs.

There was little time or need for intensive work in the senate. The upper branch of the legislature seems to be in perfect accord on some questions. The bill revising the name to the one finally approved was sent to the committee on the agricultural college, of which Horton is chairman, and was immediately reported out favorably. It went through all of the regular formalities incident to passage in the upper house and was approved by a unanimous vote.

It was then sent to the house where, in the meantime, there had been some progress made in a canvass of the members to learn their stand on the proposal. Here it was likewise referred to the committee on the agricultural college and that committee headed by Representative W. P. Strauch, of Vernon, father of an M. A. C. graduate and uncle of a senior student in engineering, reported it favorably for action by the house. It went through the program of first and second readings and committee of the whole consideration without noticeable opposition and when it first came up for a vote so many of those known to be friendly to the measure were absent that it was put over for the day coming up again on April 13 when it was approved by a narrow margin. Just how narrow that victory was will never be entirely known. Several representatives believed to be in favor of the bill voted no at the last minute while several others whose stand was not known added their votes to the affirmative side.

In the first place the effort to have the bill approved was furthered by alumni who wrote letters to their representatives and senators and signed petitions, it was helped by personal appeals to members of the house from friends of long standing, it was aided by a letter setting forth the arguments for the change and carrying a list of supporters impressive individually and collectively, it was also helped by the opposition presented by a farm journal which went to such lengths that it lost what little prestige it might have had.

Probably the most telling support given the bill came from President Butterfield and L. Whitney Watkins, '93, who as chairman of the State Board of Agriculture and commissioner of agriculture was in a position to do much for the measure and who worked loyally for it. President Butterfield's early pronouncement in favor of the change strengthened the position of those who favored it and gave them a prestige which proved very valuable. A former member of the State Board of Agriculture, William J. Oberdorffer, was another staunch adherent of the plan in the house. A peculiar feature of the voting was the faction favoring immediate action on reapportionment of representatives was lined up with the strongest opposition to that measure when this bill came to a vote. Mrs. Cora Reynolds Anderson, representative from the upper peninsula, and prominent member of the Grange, was another who aided in putting the bill across. The nays came almost entirely from men whose children had not attended M. A. C. and who had never had a distinct interest in the institution.

A restaurant near the Campus promptly changed its name from M. A. C. to M. S. C. on the day after the bill was passed by the house. That place of business does not labor under the restrictions placed upon some established organizations in altering their titles. The M. A. C. Association can take no such step for some time, the M. A. C. Union, a corporation must go through the necessary formalities before it can join the crowd and the M. A. C. Record will probably follow in the steps of the M. A. C. Association. Other organizations must await the proper time. The athletic board has appointed a representative committee to recommend the form of award to be given athletes under the new regrime.

STUDENTS ON HOLIDAY FOR CELEBRATION

All classes were automatically excused on Tuesday, April 14, for there were not enough students in attendance to make the day worth while scholastically. Just before 8 o'clock early risers among the students gathered at the entrance of the Campus and posted a sign notifying all that classes were to be excused and designating the day "Bolshevik Day". Fragments of the band appeared with instruments and the parade to Lansing and the capitol was on in earnest. Street cars were filled to the limit and venturesome spirits perched on top for the ride into the city. Others walked or commandeered passing automobiles or resurrected dilapidated flivvers and loaded them to the last pound they would carry. The trail to Lansing was comparatively short for most of the crowd and they were soon gathered at the west front of the capitol with their battered cars and other equipment holding the stage. Cheers and songs occupied the attention of the crowd while they awaited the arrival of the speakers they sought. Governor Groesbeck was taken from a meeting of the state administrative board he was attending when the special student committee broke in on its deliberations and requested his presence on the outside. The governor said: "I like your pep and enthusiasm, I like your new name and expect that when the bill is presented to me I shall sign it." Senator Horton also appeared and was given his share of the applause. Representative MacKinnon was not at the capitol at the time but his name was cheered as loudly as if he had been on the steps. The band led a march through the halls of the capitol and the parade dispersed to find its way back to the Campus, many marching the return journey through lack of transportation of other sorts.

In the afternoon the student council sponsored a dance at the gymnasium as an outlet for excess enthusiasm and the following day found classes again resuming their orderly ways.
Alumni Opinion

Editor of THE RECORD:

At the last meeting of the Seattle M. A. C. Association the question of changing the name of the college was discussed and the following resolution was passed.

The vote was practically unanimous although there were some expressions of regret, that it should seem expedient to make a change.

"Whereas, the name Michigan Agricultural College does not give adequate recognition to the other courses of the college, we believe that it would be to the best interests of the college to change the name to one which would be more inclusive and more representative of the various departments.

MARY ADELAIDE SMITH, Sec'y.

Editor of THE RECORD:

In looking over an old copy of THE RECORD (Feb. 23) I noted an error which I thought, even at this late date might be worth calling to your attention, though that may have already been done.

Among the items under "Close Beside the Winding Cedar" mention is made of the Student Volunteer Conference at Grand Rapids and the statement is made that this movement was started at M. A. C. in 1921. I cannot state just when the Student Volunteer movement started at M. A. C., but I know it was long before that. There was a Student Volunteer band at the college during the years that I was there (1913 to 1917) and I was one of quite a large delegation of our students which attended the conference at Ann Arbor in 1915 (I believe it was), this being open to all those interested in foreign missionary work, as well as to members of the Band. My brother, Ralph W. Powell, '11 was a Student Volunteer at M. A. C., as was also his wife, Maude Nason Powell, '13. I do not know how many years the organization was in existence before that, but do not doubt that the first Band was formed many years ago. The Student Volunteer Movement has been a great force in the colleges of this and other countries and has recruited thousands of the best students of these institutions for the great work of spreading Christianity in other lands. I am sure that a number of the alumni would be interested in seeing a list of those graduates of M. A. C. who have gone into such service, published in THE RECORD.

I enjoy reading all the news in THE RECORD, but why is it that nothing is ever said about the work of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Surely those organizations are not dead, are they? We who were interested in their activities in college days would like to know what they are doing now.

ALICE M. POWELL, '17.

Editor of THE RECORD:

M. A. C. alumni in this vicinity are far from dead. Any one wishing to see a real country should call upon us here at the entrance to the Cascades.

During the past week we were entertained at a delightful dinner given by Mrs. A. R. Wilcox at her home in Eugene. Those present were: Winthrop C. Hall, '87, now president of the Eugene Concrete Pipe Works; Mrs. W. C. Hall, with '03; A. R. Wilcox, '08, now forest examiner on the Sinslan National Forest; C. M. Granger, '07, district forester of the North Pacific district, and L. A. Carter, '24, junior forester on the Cascade National Forest.

A most enjoyable evening was spent recalling the days spent at old M. A. C.

Needless to say, we are strong for THE RECORD and would have a hard time without it.

Very truly yours,

L. A. "SPIKE" CARTER, '24

Oakridge, Ore.

A. C. Burnham, '93, on a trip around the world, sends greetings to his M. A. C. friends from China.
After May 13 the College will be known as Michigan State College of Agriculture and Applied Science. Its title in general usage will be Michigan State College, but its official title will be broad enough to indicate to the public some of the broad field of education in which its efforts are put forth. The name M. A. C. was placed on the statute books of the state in 1909. Before that the official title had been Michigan State Agricultural College and earlier it had been known simply as the agricultural college. Dr. Beal's statement years ago that the name was not broad enough and his forecast that new divisions would be added have been proved true to the majority of alumni. The name should stand for more in the eyes of the public after it is officially changed, it should stand for more in the minds of alumni and the efforts of the institution to perform its duties should be aided by the new name. At least it is certain that the work of the College cannot be injured because of the new name and every indication points to greater efficiency and greater service.

Culmination of the movement to change the name of the College was the result of alumni effort. From the time last June when the general association approved a resolution endorsing the change in name to the final passage of the bill by the house of representatives the proposal was furthered by and its entire strength centered upon the active support of members of the M. A. C. Association.

This effort took the form of letters to individual senators and representatives, petitions to the house at large, letters, copies of which were sent to each member of the house and the process, long and tedious, of interviewing eacher member and learning his individual viewpoint with the possibility of breaking down his objections to the measure. Its doubtless the first display of alumni strength in the capitol, that is it demonstrated the influence of the graduates of M. A. C. in public life, not the influence of a chosen few but of the general organization of graduates and former students. This development has great possibilities so long as this power is brought to bear only when its results are beneficial. It is beneficial to the organization, however, for it shows graphically the work which can be done when there is purpose behind the workers.

With alumni strength a more or less known quantity the work of completing the Union Memorial building should be much easier. Those who can take into any task the confidence of proved strength have an opportunity to gauge the difficulty of their objectives and prepare accordingly, those who are not yet aware of the force they can bring to bear must waste some effort in learning their own strength. In response to insistent demand to the expressed will of the organization and to the sound reasoning developed over a period of years, the bill was passed and it is expected that it will be made a law by the signature of Governor Groesbeck by the time this edition of THE RECORD is in the hands of its readers.

The first stop of the Lansing pilgrimage was at the state office building where L. Whitney Watkins, '93, commissioner of agriculture, was urged to come out but the best the students could get was an acknowledgement from a window on the seventh floor.

When the invasion of the capitol found the senate not yet in session the students demanded speeches from some of the senators and were rewarded. The members of the upper branch of the legislature laid aside their dignity as a closing tribute and cheered lustily for the students.
Inability to obtain the requisite financing has caused the cancellation of the proposed concerts of the Chicago Symphony orchestra at the College.

Enrollment for the spring term kept up the figures set in the fall and winter by maintaining a gain of more than 250 over the figures for the same time last year.

Future Campus problems will be considered by a congress of students organized by President Butterfield with representation from each organization connected with the College.

In laying out the new road on Grand River avenue the west entrance to the Campus was shifted slightly east and should result in more safety for the motorist either entering or leaving the Campus drives.

Grange lecturers met with President Butterfield and Mrs. Stockman, of the State Board of Agriculture, on March 25 to consider the advisability of establishing a short course to train men and women for this type of work.

The College was well represented at the meeting of the Michigan Academy of Science at Ann Arbor during the spring vacation. Several members of the botany, bacteriology and zoology departments read papers on the subjects in which they are doing special work.

While Governor Groesbeck was describing his pleasure at the enthusiasm of the students during their demonstration before the capitol on the day following the adoption of the Horton-MacKinnon bill, telling how he liked the change and the manner in which it was received, one of the students demanded information as to how the governor liked the latter's new tie. This sally drew a round of applause, and the governor beamed.

Lieut.-Col. T. L. Sherburne, commandant of the College military units will again have charge of the R. O. T. C. work at Camp Custer during the summer. This is the third year that Col. Sherburne has handled these duties.

In a joint concert at the gymnasium on April 28 the College band and glee club will make their first local public appearance of the year as concert organizations. The band is in excellent shape for this event and the glee club has already presented several programs in towns close to the College as well as on the short trip it made during the spring holidays.

The annual tournament for high school bands will be conducted under the supervision of Professor Clark on the Campus on May 23. Prizes will be offered for the best uniformed organizations as well as the best musicians.
FIRST USE OF NAME ALUMNI NIGHT

WKAR Program May 13 First Under Altered Title of College; Hays Composes Song for Occasion; Station Will Be Heard Throughout U. S. and Canada; Event Scheduled to Start at 8 O’clock Eastern Standard Time.

For the first time, officially, WKAR will report on the air, May 13, from Michigan State College of Agriculture and Applied Science. The name will probably be shortened to Michigan State College when the official announcer gets under way for the evening. This occasion will be further marked because it will be the time of the alumni night program scheduled for the anniversary date of the College. An anniversary celebration might be dull and uninteresting except to those who relish the statistics and statements concerning the progress of the institution, it might be lacking in general appeal were it not to have the inspiration of a new College president, who is also an alumnus, an active alumni president and two toastmasters of rare talent to carry out the spirit of an after-dinner program.

One of the features of the evening will be selections by the College quartet. This organization will present for the first time a song composed by James Grant Hays, ’11, and dedicated to the event. The nature of this song has not been entirely disclosed while awaiting the protection of a copyright and other protection will be accorded the author after it is heard. Hays will be relieved of some of the more strenuous tasks of the evening through an agreement with Howard Rather, ’17, who will shoulder much of the burden of conducting the program. The men in charge of the program announce further that one of the novel numbers will be a series of trips to well-known Campus classrooms where classes will be heard in session. It is needless to discuss this offering further since its promoters are well versed in the art of giving an audience what it wants. A faculty meeting will be heard just before President Butterfield takes over the microphone for his message and other interesting events will be disclosed through the course of the program leading up to the chief speakers.

It is a simple matter to tune in on WKAR. Its voice has been heard throughout the United States and Canada. The wave length is 285.5 meters, an item which is often overlooked by the possessors of radio sets who seek the station among the greater lengths. This is the first time an effort has been made to reach alumni with the present set in operation. It is the first time that WKAR will officially operate from Michigan State College. It is President Butterfield’s first radio message. It is President Rogers’ first message over the radio. It is the first time Rather and Hays have done their stuff before the microphone. It will mark the first time that Hays’ new song has been heard either over the radio or through any other source, it may also mark the last. All these items mark the program prepared for May 13 as the one alumni should gather to hear in spite of previous engagements. At 8 o’clock, eastern standard time on the evening of May 13 all of these remarkable features will be offered for your approval or disapproval. In any event, whether you expect to stay and applaud—through the mail—or drop the earphone or turn off the loud speaker before the program is concluded it is worth while being in on part of this program. Mark the date now Prefacing an interesting address on government with the remark that he was as well pleased with the change in name as were the students Lieut. Gov. George Welsh won his way with the convocation audience on April 15 and kept the crowd interested through a speech which might have been dull if delivered by a less magnetic speaker.
OPPOSITION FAILS TO CONTEST BILL

A number of students and alumni had gathered in the chamber of the house to watch the disposal of the name change bill and when the clerk announced 57 "ayes" there was prolonged applause. There was a strange atmosphere throughout the voting. There was no debate. The speaker announced "the question is now on the passage of the bill." Representative MacKinnon moved that an affirmative roll call be attached but the negative voices were too numerous and the clerk was ordered to call the roll. With the completion of that task the struggle of alumni and students over a long period of time found its reward.

There was evidently no seriously organized opposition to the measure except that personal feeling which some of the legislators had in common and the attempt by some organizations to influence the members to vote in the negative.

Weekly reviews of the cadet units, customary during the spring term, began on April 13 when members of the state senate occupied the reviewing stand. On April 20, College officials were scheduled to attend the ceremony. April 27 women's club of Lansing and East Lansing are the invited guests. State military officials have been invited for May 4 when an exhibition of anti-aircraft work will be given by the artillery unit. The May 11 parade will be in charge of the cavalry unit and visitors are expected from several points in the state. Special stands are erected for the reviewing party and the crowds which attend these events often number two thousand or more.

Professor F. C. Koch, authority on physiological chemistry at the University of Chicago, addressed the East Lansing section of the American Chemical society, April 16, on "Biochemical Studies on Secretion." The members of the society met the speaker of the evening at a dinner in his honor previous to the lecture.

Necrology

MRS. RICHARD HAIGH

Mrs. Cora F. Haigh, wife of Richard Haigh, '69, died at her home in Dearborn, Michigan, on March 9. Haigh was connected with the College as assistant secretary and acting secretary from 1870 to 1873 and Mrs. Haigh was well-known to many students and faculty members of that time.

The following account is taken from the Dearborn Press:

Mrs. Cora F. Haigh passed away at her home, 402 Garrison ave, Monday afternoon, following an illness of several months, aged seventy-six.

She is survived by her husband, Richard Haigh, two sons, Charles R. and Paul H., a daughter, Mrs. Arthur P. Clark, of Evanston, Ill., and a sister, Miss Jennie Fish, who has been one of the family for many years.

Mrs. Haigh was a daughter of Rev. Lemuel B. Fish, a Baptist divine who held many pastorates in Michigan and the south, and was born at Brooklyn, Mich., Sept. 16, 1848.

She met Mr. Haigh in Lansing and they were married in 1870. Since then the family home has been at South Haven, Paw Paw, Kalamazoo, Detroit, and finally back here to Dearborn, the Haigh homestead, for her declining years.

Mrs. Haigh was never a robust woman and had been a physical sufferer more or less for thirty years. She will be greatly mourned by her family and friends and missed by those who knew her in the community where, while her health permitted, she was a dominating influence in church and civic affairs.

The interment was in the family lot at Northview, Wednesday afternoon.

MRS. BENJAMIN J. HOLCOMB

Mrs. Jeanette Wright Holcomb, wife of B. J. Holcomb, '14, died March 21 from the effects of burns received when a medicinal preparation she was heating caught fire and the flames spread to her clothing. She rushed from the house to prevent injury to her infant child and when the flames were finally extinguished she had received fatal burns. From her home in Plymouth, Michigan, she was taken to Harper hospital, Detroit, where she died. She was matron of the local chapter O. E. S. and well known in Plymouth.

DAVID GLENN CARNegie, '23

The following notice of the death of D. Glenn Carnegie has been received: Glenn Carnegie met his death in a fall from the second story of a building in Miami, Florida, on January 30, 1925. He was a '23 graduate in forestry, and an honor man in his course being a member of Xi Sigma Pi. He formed many close friends while at school who mourn his untimely death. His home was in Detroit, Michigan, at 750 Hazelwood avenue. His parents, one brother, and a sister survive him. His father is vice-president of the Dime Savings bank in Detroit. Services were held at Miami, Florida, and the body brought back to Detroit for burial.

The forestry department of the College made maple syrup in the river woodlot this spring, the sugar bush not having been operated last year. Last year was the first time in nine years that the sugar bush was idle. It was not operated because so many orders had been received for trees from the nursery that it was felt best to start shipping the trees as early as possible. This year, however, the syrup season began early. The flow of sap was the heaviest that has been reported in the College woods for some years.

After the passage of the bill to change the name, Representative Howell of Saginaw moved that the measure be known as the Horton-MacKinnon bill and his suggestion was voted unanimously. Shortly after this Representative MacKinnon moved that the act be made effective May 13, the anniversary of the College and this too was given full approval.

MARRIAGES

MORRISON-VINCENT

Gordon Morrison, '23, and Mattie Vincent, '22, were married on June 7, 1924. They are living at Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, New York, where Morrison is research associate in genetics at the station for experimental evolution of Carnegie Institute of Washington.

JOHNSON-BARNETT

Merritt Johnson, '24, and Grace Barnett of Ferndale were married March 25, 1925. Johnson is assistant village manager of Ferndale and he and Mrs. Johnson are living at 516 Rockwell avenue East.

MINOR SPORTS WINTER AWARDS ANNOUNCED

The following have been granted service sweaters in hockey:

In freshman basketball the following were awarded numerals:

George T. Jagnow, captain, Jackson; Roy E. Jagnow, Jackson; Stanley Johnson, Muskegon; LeRoy G. Russo, Jackson; Mervin C. Farlemann, East Lansing; Koester Christensen, Escanaba; Oliver E. Hood, Ionia; James A. Lewis, Owosso; Kenneth L. Drew, Adrian.

Service sweaters:

Weston A. Edwards, Howell; Maynard J. Tracy, Saginaw; Joe Bendz, Hamtramck; John W. Kelly, Grand Haven; Milton D. Burgh, Three Oaks; Howard S. Rommell, Sturgis.
The following wrestlers were given numerals:
- Foster K. Mohrhardt, East Lansing;
- Leslie L. Cornetet, Elkhart, Ind.;
- Wilfred D. McCully, Pittsford;
- Leslie L. Dulude, Midland;
- Bennett Black, Caro;
- Harry A. Kurrle, Owosso;
- Louie J. Rosie, Muskegon Heights.

The following were awarded numerals in freshman swimming:
- Melvin C. Robinson, Saginaw;
- Rinehold Thomas, Detroit;
- Sherwood Chamberlain, Highland Park;
- Charles J. Kurlanski, Grand Rapids;
- Donald M. Rochester, Ionia;
- George B. Yarn, Lansing;
- George Scott, Eaton Rapids.

SOIL SURVEY EXPERT CALLED TO SCOTLAND

J. O. Veatch, research associate in soils, has been requested to visit Scotland and explain to the agricultural authorities there the soil survey system in use in Michigan. This activity has been fostered by the College since 1919 and the results have achieved wide recognition. M. M. McCool, professor of soils, is in charge of the soil survey work and has developed the plans now in use with the aid of several members of his department. The request for Veatch to visit Scotland came through the federal department of agriculture and is a mark of distinction for the College as well as the individual.

WAKEFIELD HOLDS ARMOUR HITESS

Harry Wakefield, '26, Bad Axe, was in great form in the first game of the season when he faced Armour Tech and pitched M. A. C. to victory failing to allow the opposition a single hit or run. That his record was absolutely without question is attested by the entire lack of errors on the part of his support. He gave two passes, thus robbing himself of a record of more than unusual brilliance. On the other hand Captain Richards and his helpers made a total of thirteen safe hits and the leader accumulated as his share a double and a home run in four trips to the plate. The scoreboard registered 9 to 0 when the last man was put out on the Chicago diamond.

The team also faced St. Viator's and Wisconsin, in that order, before returning to East Lansing where it is scheduled to match wits and skill with Olivet on April 21 in the first home game of the year.

CLASS NOTES

Recent information regarding John Park Finley gives his address as 336 West 58th street, New York city.

1979
Orrin P. Gulley writes from Box 977, Northwestern Station, Detroit, Michigan: "I spend my winters in Florida for health, fishing, and hunting, and have all three in a bountiful measure. In summer I keep in the same condition in making garden and cutting down the household expenses."
'82
Alice Weed Coulter writes from St. Augustine, Florida: "Am leaving this land of flowers and sunshine so will ask to have Record sent to 457 Union avenue S. E., Grand Rapids, Michigan."

'85
J. D. Towar sends his blue slip from 1212 West Kalamazoo street, Lansing, Michigan, with the notation that a recent communication from O. O. Dunham of McBain, Michigan, indicates that he will surely return for '85's fortieth reunion.

'88
Louis A. Bregger is prominent in grange and farm bureau work at Bangor, Michigan. He is a director in the Bangor fruit growers exchange, and the cooperative association. He says he doesn't give a hoot what the institution is called as long as the men and women turned out are real live fans for service.

'90
A blue slip indicates that E. J. Frost lives at 904 W. Michigan avenue, Jackson. His son Barry L. Frost, M. A. C. w'24, was graduated last June from the University of Michigan as an honor student in architecture, and is now in Jackson with the Consumer's Power company.

'91
Robert J. Crawford has been in the work of the state welfare commission for the past eighteen years as county agent for Macomb county, with headquarters at Armada.

'92
N. E. Dresser is a carpenter at Litchfield, Michigan.

'93
Luther H. Baker is the newly elected mayor of East Lansing.

'95
Walter J. Goodenough is living at the Engineers' Club, 32 West Fortieth street, New York city.

'98
Leon J. Cole is professor of genetics at the University of Wisconsin, and may be reached in Madison at 1903 Rowley avenue.

'03
W. M. Brown is vice-president of the Brown Hutchinson Iron works at Detroit which furnishes structural and miscellaneous work for anything you want. He claims that he has the best shop in Detroit for their line of work. They are located at Clay and G. T. R. R.

H. M. Eaton is still associated with W. E. Moss, 710 Union Trust building, Detroit, in the operation of various gas public utilities. He was recently elected secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Central States Utilities company of Detroit operating in Monroe, Coldwater, Hillsdale, and Grand Haven. He holds similar positions with the Winchester Gas company of Winchester, Virginia.

"I wish to congratulate the association on the improvement of The Record during the past few years, and especially for the information you are able to present in the way of letters from the older members," writes Howard C. Baker from 213 Michigan street, Toledo, Ohio. "I have been in the housing and power plant work almost ever since I left M. A. C., and for the past six years in business for myself. During the last year, we have been in the manufacturing business." Baker enclosed a leaflet showing the Karl-Freeze garage heater with which they are having good success.

G. H. Collingwood writes from Battery Park, Bethesda, Maryland: "I am finishing my second year with the Extension Service and the Forest Service of the Department of Agriculture. While helping to develop forestry as a project in agricultural extension, I am having a splendid opportunity to see M. A. C. folks in both lines of work. Recently I saw Bruce Hoffman, who was with the forest service in Alaska for a number of years and is now in the district office at Portland, Oregon. Hoffman spent several weeks here in Washington on special detail. Some of us wonder why the alumni secretary does not do more to bring in touch with one another, folks from the college who are traveling, and the various M. A. C. associations. Recently we learned of an M. A. C. debating team which toured several of the southern universities and colleges, so that the boys were within striking distance of Washington. The Washington alumni association would have enjoyed meeting these boys, we would have had a luncheon for them, and I think they could have made the trip through this city with little if any additional expense. Why didn't the alumni secretary see this opportunity and let us know about it? I hope he does better for the associations that are nearer East Lansing."

'C. H. Dickinson notes on his blue slip. "Just returned to work in the city after three winters on our new powdered fuel plant at Trenton channel. My three co-eds are thriving nicely and preparing themselves for a wonderful four years at M. A. C." Dickinson lives in Detroit at 3241 Hazelwood avenue.

INTERESTING FACTS OF HISTORY

Do You Know

—that Monticello, Jefferson's estate on a hill overlooking the University of Virginia, is being restored by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation and will be maintained by them for the American people?

Thomas Jefferson was born on April 13, 1743. He framed the Declaration of Independence. His associates, among whom were John Adams, Benjamin Franklin and John Hancock, knew that Jefferson could do this satisfactorily and they signed it, with minor changes, as it expressed the minds of the American people.

Jefferson and Adams both served as President of the United States for opposing parties. They became fast friends, and by a singular coincidence both died on July 4, 1826.

Facsimile copies of the Declaration of Independence for framing are obtainable free on request from the company.

The John Hancock Mutual is particularly interested in insuring college men and women and obtaining ambitious college graduates for the personnel of its field staff.
