And what is college without Freshmen?
See New Day in College Music Department

Work of the Department Makes Tremendous Progress Since 1919, and Now Reaches 300 Students

For those who delight in watching the break of a new day at the College there comes from the music department a thrilling story of courageous development. It is a story of seven years of continued progress, beginning when Prof. J. S. Taylor in 1919 was the only member of the music staff with only a few small rooms in the gymnasium in which to conduct his classes. The story ends to date with the record of eight busy instructors training over 300 college students and occupying the entire residence just east of the Union building plus a half dozen or more rooms in the Home Economics building.

Prof. J. S. Taylor, head of the department and a product of five years at Oberlin and two years at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago and special training under such eminent voice instructors as Carlton Hacket, has built his department on strong fundamentals. He first arranged that no extra fee be charged music students. He then made a practice of giving free private instruction to all members of the music organizations. Working on these principles he has developed a department that is drawing the attention of the entire state. His work outgrew the small quarters which the athletic department had allowed him and he was forced to move to a residence where the Union building now stands. When that was removed the department took quarters in its present location. The rapid expansion of the last two years has caused an overflow into the nearby Home Economics building.

Music instruction began and continues to operate as a department of the College and not as a school of music. No student, then, may take all music, though he may major in it if the staff finds that he is qualified to do so. Like all other department preliminary work is required before college credit can be given. To qualify as a full credit music student one must have completed three years of previous work in a single line and must pass the examination that the staff chooses to give.

Assisting Mr. Taylor in voice instruction is Mrs. Olive Dobson Henkel, product of the Chicago Musical college and a pupil of Adolph Muhlimann. For several years she has been among the most prominent soloists in Lansing.

Add Fourteen New Teachers to Staff

Fourteen new teachers were added to the College staff at the beginning of the fall term.

Among the more prominent positions which were filled are two that have just been created, John Willard, who was formerly director of extension at the Massachusetts Agricultural college, comes to the College as director of "continuing education". Mrs. Clara Powell, for three years director of religious education in the public schools of Flint, takes up the post of social advisor for women.

Three women have been added to the staff of the home economics department, Mrs. Elizabeth Whittaker and Mrs. Sarah Cooledge, ’24, will have part time positions. Roberta Hershey, ’24, reported as research assistant. Miss Ruth Cowan, an instructor in the department, has been granted a year’s leave of absence. Margaret Crawford will be field worker in sociology. Glenn Bradt, ’25, a former graduate assistant in zoology, will be extension specialist in the department of zoology and geology.

Mrs. Clark, one of the three teachers of piano, graduated from the University of Michigan School of Music and also the School of Music of Chicago. Fanny Bloomfield Zeisler and Ernest Hutchinson have also been her instructors. Mrs. Lester H. Mack, also instructor of piano is back with the department again after having taken work under Thalberg at Cincinnati. Mrs. Mack came to the department five years ago from the Bush Conservatory, Chicago. The third teacher of piano is Miss Geraldine McHenry, a graduate of the School of Music at the state university.

Miss Florence Birdsaal, teacher of violin, is from the Detroit conservatory. She comes to the College with a large range of teaching experience both in Lansing and Hillsdale. Cello is taught by Eldon Benis.

For instruction in history, appreciation and harmony the department has secured Mrs. J. C. Bouyoucos, wife of Prof. Bouyoucos of the soils department.

The band is retaining its high standard under the direction of Carl Kuhlman who took charge of the band last fall. Kuhlman also is backed by extensive band work in both Grand Rapids and Chicago.

Other new instructors are: Miss Katherine Kinkele, drawing and designing; Miss Florence Birdsaal, violin; Charles Dibble and Kenneth Arbuthnot, entomology; Ellis Heinman and James Powell, mathematics; R. H. McCaughlin, filling Prof. P. A. Herbert’s place in the forestry department; R. Wayne Newton, taxation expert; and Ross Mayer, assistant to the president.

Ivan M. Dennis, ’26, Lansing, is in the employ of the Michigan Trust company at Grand Rapids.
President Reports on European Trip

Finds Agricultural Condition Spotted; Encounters No Feeling Against Americans During Tour of Continental Nations

I am asked to make a short statement of impressions of Europe gained in my trip over there this summer. This is a difficult order, partly because of the limitations of space and partly because the situation is so complex that one feels very hesitant about making generalizations.

I went over, first of all, to attend the International Country Life Conference which was held in Brussels in July. The meeting was a success and, I am happy to say, voted to accept our invitation to hold the next conference here in the midsummer of 1927.

My second purpose was to visit as many rural life leaders as possible and to discover what is happening in other countries as well as to invite the leaders to be present at the conference next summer. I visited England, Belgium, Switzerland, Czecho-Slovakia, Germany, and France, and met perhaps twenty to twenty-five of the more important leaders who were available.

The country life movement in America is clearly in much fuller swing than in Europe. Such countries as Belgium and England and Hungary have developed very distinct associations for rural life improvement, but there are very few investigators or teachers giving full time to rural sociology.

The agricultural situation is spotted. The English farmers are clearly up against it. This applies to the landlords, to the farmers, and to the laborers. I am of the impression that land nationalism will be tried in England before long although the conservatives do not believe that it is coming in this generation at least. In eastern Europe, the peasants have come into new power through gaining possession of the land and are influencing all governmental policies. In fact, an agrarian revolution has been wrought in eastern Europe. The war has not wrought such sharp changes in western Europe, although governments have to reckon, perhaps even more than ever before, with the peasants, and the latter, especially the younger men, are beginning to migrate somewhat more than in the old days.

As far as the general situation is concerned, one may say that Europe is a long way from normal. The employment situation in England and Germany is marked and serious. One thing that is clearly happening, however, is the increasing tendency and desire of the different nationalities to confer together on all sorts of subjects. This is just as true in agriculture as in other fields. Fortunately I visited Geneva and came away with a new admiration for the League of Nations and what it is actually accomplishing. There is a great deal of talk in Europe about the possibility or even the probability of a "United States of Europe," which means, I take it, not one nation, but rather a federation of efforts and mutual aid.

Personally I encountered none of the exhibitions of hatred toward Americans that have been reported. Doubtless, there is much dislike of Americans in most of the countries but I think it arises largely out of a measure of distrust and of fear. Distrust because they cannot understand why we are not playing the international game with them, and fear because of the danger that the huge American investments that are being made in Europe may lead to economic or even political domination.

Personally I am of the impression that they like us quite as much as we like them, and that if we want better relations, it is for us to take the initiative, partly by general cooperation and partly by a clear-cut policy of economic internationalism.

Staters Get Together On Southern Field Trip

The annual field trip of the Allegheny section of the Society of American Foresters held July 22, 23, 24, brought about the meeting of three alumni. The trip was through the central part of West Virginia, giving the party a cross section of the agricultural and wooded sections of the state. The Staters who got together were Paul B. Haines, '14, now located in the State of New Jersey Service as Supervisor of the Stokes State Forest; H. R. Heathman, '22, who is now forest engineer with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and Thomas W. Skuce, '24, the extension specialist in forestry for West Virginia, who makes this report.

Skuce also sends reports of other alumni. G. H. Collingwood, '11, spent a week in mid-August with Skuce in the mountains of West Virginia. G. B. McIntyre, who did post graduate work in agricultural economics at the College last year is now located in Pleasant county. Geo. P. Bloomslier, '06, and H. E. Knowlton, '12, still claim their checks from the University of West Virginia at Morgantown.

Fifteen Michigan pastors finished the summer school for ministers which was held at the same time as the regular summer school session. The pastors took the final "exams" in quite the approved style of regular college students.
Chemistry Building Under Construction

Excavation Work for $600,000 Chemical Laboratory Begins South of Ag. Hall

With preliminary contracts awarded and excavation work for footings under way, Michigan State’s new $600,000 chemical laboratory will soon become a reality. Situated south of the Agricultural building, facing north, the new building will have an impressive location as well as being situated where it will be consistent with the general College building program.

In the form of the letter H and of collegiate Gothic architecture it will fit well into the architectural appearance of the structures on the Campus. Brick and stone will match that of the Union Memorial building.

A beautiful entrance and rotunda will be the visitor’s first impression of the interior of the building. This rotunda will be about 40 feet square and will provide ample waiting room space for students, obviating the necessity of sitting upon stairways and remaining outside awaiting classes as has been the case in the old quarters. On the ground floor will also be located the stockrooms, offices and small-unit laboratories. Special laboratories for metallography, pyrometry, electrical work, fuel and gas analysis, colloids and physical research will be on the first floor.

The second floor will be used entirely for freshman chemistry work, both laboratory and lecture rooms. On the third floor there will be the accommodations for agricultural, biological, organic, textile and quantitative chemistry. A special industrial laboratory will be housed in a separate structure adjacent to the main building. This laboratory will be 50 by 80 feet in size, while the main laboratory will cover an area 162 feet by 185 feet.

When completed, the new laboratory will rank with the finest in the country. With a representative of the architectural firm of Malcolmson and Higginbotham, Detroit, who designed the building, Professor A. J. Clark, head of the division of chemistry, toured the country a short time ago, inspecting the outstanding chemical laboratories of the nation. The latest and most efficient features of chemical laboratory construction will appear in the new structure. Ventilation, hood construction, design and material for work benches and floor coverings, will also represent the last word in building efficiency.

Professor Clark has announced that the building will be ready for occupancy in the summer of 1927 and that the moving of all equipment will take place early enough during the summer months so that everything will be in readiness for the fall term.

With the removal of the chemical plant the old building group will be taken over by the physics department. It is probable that only a part of the old structure will be needed by Professor Chapman and his staff, although with the growing student body and with increased floor space afforded by the Kedzie laboratories it is entirely probable that the division of physics will rapidly expand to the point where it will need the new accommodations afforded.

In its new format beginning its first year as a monthly The Record this time makes its bid for favor to its old readers and presents itself for inspection among the new ones. There is no intent to emphasize the change in size as a great improvement nor can there be much but apology on the part of the organization for the change to a monthly schedule. The former has been introduced so that the advertising may be consistent in size with that of other magazines in the group and the latter was made necessary through a lack of resources.

The same appeal for personal news holds good for the monthly Record. Its value will largely depend upon the news of alumni carried in its columns. News of alumni depends almost entirely upon the alumni themselves, there is no way in which information can be obtained with the assurance that it is entirely reliable unless a reader of The Record sends it in.

Fall is the accepted time for a recrudescence of alumni activity. Memories of freshmen days or those of annual reunions with classmates on the campus account for much of this feeling. Then, too, those who follow athletics are most interested in football, which flourishes only during the autumn. With all of this incentive the branch associations should be functioning to the best advantage, their programs should be mapped out for the year and their memberships brought up to the maximum for constructive effort during the year. Letters have been sent by President Rogers to the heads of all branch associations urging such action.

Several new horticultural bulletins are now ready for distribution, according to an announcement, "Garden Flowers" by Professor Alex Laurie and "Hardy Shrubs for Landscape Planting in Michigan" by C. P. Halligan, are very much in demand.
Dean E. H. Ryder, director of the College summer session, has announced that the summer enrollment was 450, exceeding last year's mark.

Dr. C. B. Smith, '04, now with the United States Department of Agriculture, addressed the Farm Women's conference at the College late in August.

The College Forestry department, cooperating with the Isaac Walton league of the state, has furnished 40,000 willow cuttings for planting alongside the streams of the state.

Federal vocational training has been discontinued at the College. During the six years of its existence here more than 500 disabled service men have received the training offered.

The College will host 500 delegates to the annual meeting of the Michigan State Grange on Oct. 26 to 29. This is the first meeting of the State Grange on the campus for several years.

O. B. Price of the soils department, resigned his position at the college to take up work with the Michigan Central railroad as agricultural agent. His resignation became effective Sept. 15.

Professor Arnold G. Scheele has returned from Fontainbleau, France, where he studied continental art under leading French artists. Scheele received a scholarship through the Chicago Art Institute.

Several office locations on the campus have been changed during the summer. The State News and the Wolverine offices have been moved from the basement of the new library to the top floor of the Union Memorial building. The College publications office has gone to new rooms in the basement of the Agriculture building. The education staff headed by John Ruff will move to the old publications office in the library basement.

Labor heads, production managers, and welfare directors met for conference at the College in late July to discuss the problems which confront them as a group. Prof. A. B. Forsberg was in general charge of the program.

R. Wayne Newton of the national department of agriculture at Washington, D. C., assumed his duties at the College on July 1. Newton will serve as research associate, studying the problems of foreign taxation in the economics department.

Announcement has been made of the appointment of B. C. Sabbagh to the electrical engineering staff for the coming year. Sabbagh, a Syrian, received his degree from Ohio State this spring. Professor M. M. Cory studied at M. I. T. this summer.

Lieut. A. K. Hammond, who will succeed Captain Wyatt in the cavalry unit of the College R. O. T. C., has arrived from Fort D. A. Russell, Cheyenne, Wyoming. Hammond will remain for the four year period. Wyatt replaces Hammond at the western station.

A. R. Marston, graduate assistant in farm crops, has been detailed to the newly established corn borer station near Monroe, as crops specialist. Under an agreement with the federal government, the College furnishes the crops expert and the government the entomologist for each corn borer station.

B. H. Anibal, '09, of the Oakland Motor Car company, was recently promoted to the post of vice-president in charge of engineering. Mr. Anibal joined Oakland in March of last year after an association with General Motors for 12 years. He became connected with the Olds Motor Works directly after graduation from college. He was later associated with Cadillac and other motor concerns.

Abolition of compulsory military training at Michigan State College was asked in a resolution adopted by the last Detroit conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. The resolution also opposed military training in high schools of the state.

Thousands of farmers and their families attended the annual Farmers' Day program on the campus, July 30. A speaker's stand was erected in the Forest of Arden, just south of the Union Memorial building, and portable bleachers were used to seat the crowd.

Degrees were conferred on 18 more graduates at the close of the summer session of school. This put the total of graduates for the year up to 331. Most of the summer students who finished their courses late were regular seniors who were a few credits deficient at the close of the spring term.

Judges at the state fair awarded 28 prizes to cattle and sheep from the College. This maintains the imposing standard set by the stock in previous years. Sheep entered at the Ohio State fair also brought home an enviable list of winnings.

Lieut. Col. Thos. L. Sherburne, commandant of the College military department, set his name in the annals of good golfers when he won the golf tournament which was the sport feature of the American Legion convention held at Lansing early in September. Col. Sherburne also briefly addressed the convention.

The Michigan League of Women Voters conducted its citizenship school on the Campus beginning July 10. Dean E. H. Ryder of the liberal arts division and Prof. J. K. Pollock from the department of political science of the University of Michigan were the principal lecturers on national and international affairs. Senator Couzens was also one of the speakers.
Eighty college and university alumni associations of America cooperated to establish intercollegiate alumni hotels in some forty outstanding centers of America. At these hotels will be found everything planned for the convenience and comfort of the college man. Here the alumnus of each of these colleges will find on file his own alumni magazine and a list of his own college alumni living in the immediate locality served by the hotel. He will find the alumni atmosphere carried throughout. This service will be unusually pleasing, and undoubtedly local alumni spirit will be greatly forwarded by this movement.

In California, where the plan has been in operation for three years, it has been found to be eminently successful. The intercollegiate alumni hotel idea came into being from a very definite need. The growth of travel by automobile combined with the gigantic growth in numbers of university and college men has brought to light the necessity for some place to which the visiting alumni may go when in a strange city to find the names and addresses of his fellow alumni living in the community. It was formerly the policy of the University of California Alumni Association, for instance, to have the president or secretary of the local alumni club keep on file these names and addresses. Often, however, when the list was most desired the local president or secretary could not be found, so by keeping an accurate list on file at a prominent hotel this list became available at all hours of the day and night, and consequently it has resulted that a new means has been found whereby alumni spirit can be engendered and encouraged in centers distant from the immediate influence of the University.

In no way does the establishment of an alumni hotel headquarters in the local centers interfere with the local university club. The university club is exclusive in its membership; the Intercollegiate Alumni Hotel is non-exclusive. It forms headquarters for the transient, the man who is in and out of town, and for the man who is in town for only a few hours.

Full and complete data will be given concerning this nation-wide movement in a four-page announcement that will appear in each of the participating alumni magazines next month.

A list of Intercollegiate Alumni Hotels that have been designated follows. Many more are giving this matter earnest consideration. The full details will be given next month. Meanwhile, if they really want to make this new movement successful in their district alumni centers who read this notice should purpose to unite with other alumni in the formation of a representative committee for their city. With the backing and prestige of local enterprise a new instrument for awakening alumni spirit will be found and will result in the forwarding of a finer, healthier, and a more abundant interest among college men.

Many eminent university leaders have followed the growth of the hotel headquarters movement in the Far West. President Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford University says: "We have found by experience that by having an outstanding hotel in a local community act as a depository for names and addresses of local alumni and as general headquarters for our association activities, the morale of our alumni association has been greatly strengthened." Again Robert G. Sproul, vice-president in charge of public relations at the University of California speaks for his university as follows: "Our alumni association in California has grown from four thousand to about fifteen thousand members in three years. We feel that the address lists of local alumni maintained at local centers have aided much in strengthening acquaintanceship and forwarding a high type of university spirit among our alumni." And as for the hotels, Halsey E. Manwaring, manager of the famous Palace Hotel of San Francisco says: "For three years we have acted as official headquarters for University of California and Stanford University Alumni Associations. From our experience we believe that a nation wide establishment of Intercollegiate Alumni Hotels will prove an excellent move and one in which the hotel industry may well be proud of playing a part."

For over a year a large committee representing eighty college and university alumni associations has been working to make this national movement possible. On this committee are the following: Marion E. Graves of Smith College; E. N. Sullivan of Pennsylvania State College; W. R. Okeson of Lehigh University; E. F. Hodgins of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; R. W. Sailor of Cornell University; J. O. Baxendale of the University of Vermont; Levering Tyson of Columbia University; Robert Silley of the University of California; J. L. Morrill of Ohio State University; W. B. Shaw of the University of Michigan; Daniel L. Grant of the University of North Carolina; R. W. Harwood of Harvard University; John D. McKee of Wooster College; Helen F. McMillin of Wellesley College;
Detroiters’ Doings

A check-up of all the known alumni and former students of Michigan State who live in or near Detroit reveals that the total number is more than 635. A surprising feature which was brought out in this count was that the class of 1919 has the biggest representation.

On the other hand a check-up of those listed as paid members of the Detroit M. S. C. club shows that about one out of every nine alumni in this section can call themselves full-fledged members. Notices of the activities of the club are usually sent to all the alumni regardless of the affiliation. This is an expensive process and pretty well eats up the funds in the club treasury each year. As a result the club is hampered in no small way financially and cannot do all the things that the alumni would like to see done.

So, an intensive membership campaign will be staged this fall before any other activities are attempted. A large committee was due to go into action about Sept. 15. It is planned to have one representative of each class interview all the other members of his class. Membership cards will be given at the time the dues ($2.50) are paid.

On Friday, October 8, the night before the Michigan game, a party will be held at a place to be announced later.

One of the best picnics enjoyed by Detroit alumni was held at the beautiful summer home of Emil and Mrs. Ida D. Pokorny, ’07, on Saturday afternoon, July 10. Over 110 were present. In a baseball game between the married and the single men the single men squeezed out victories in spite of the flying tackles of Tom Foster and some crafty base shifting by other members of the teams. The more hardy ones took to the water but none were exempt when it came to taking to food a little later. Everyone certainly owes the Pokornys a big vote of thanks for the royal way they treated the crowd.

Whitlock Conquers Rough Saginaw Bay

Stanley Whitlock, last year’s captain of the varsity swimming team swam Saginaw bay from Bayport, on the east shore to Point Lookout on the west side, Thursday, Sept. 2, in 11 hours and 50 minutes.

The distance from point to point is 17 miles but Whitlock went three miles out of his course, due to wind currents, swimming 20 miles. This is reported to be the first time the bay has been swum.
Coaching Staff Enlarged to Meet Demands

New Coaches Have Enviable Records. Van Alstyne to Handle Varsity Basketball; Kobs Remains With Varsity Baseball

As a result of the rapidly increasing enrollment and the general development of the department of physical education, the teaching and administrative force under the leadership of Director Young now includes a list of thirteen names.

Coach Young's right hand man is Line Coach Bernard P. Traynor, a Colgate star and a coach at the University of Wisconsin for two years. He was not long in gaining the respect of the staff and the admittance of the football men. He made his debut to them last spring during the month of spring training.

Benjamin F. Van Alstyne also a Colgate graduate is a recent acquisition. For six years he was general coach at Ohio Wesleyan and comes to the College with the best record of victories accredited to any midwest coach outside the conference. He is head basketball coach and will work with Kobs on freshman football squad this fall.

John H. Kobs, who for two years has coached basketball and baseball, will be relieved of his duties in basketball by Van Alstyne. He will work this fall with the freshman football squad. During the colder months he will direct and coach winter sports. Kobs graduated from Hamline and was retained there for three years as assistant coach in all sports. In the spring he will again take up his duties with the varsity baseball team.

Assistant to Coach Young in varsity football is also John H. Kobs. He is a product of Spring-Fielid Y. M. C. A. college, has directed sports at Country Day school, and has spent two years as wrestling coach at Williams college and Penn State.

The real veteran in point of service to the Green and White teams is John (Jack) Happenstall. Twelve years ago he came to the College directly from close association with the soccer players of England. He has served as trainer ever since.

There are others who are kept busy. L. L. Frinodig is still directing intramural sports and coaching fresh baseball. W. Sterry Brown has charge of the matatorium and all swimming. Charles Ball will again coach tennis. Morton F. Mason has charge of cross-country and assists in varsity and fresh track. Warren E. Burtt is secretary to the director.

These invited back for early football practice included:

Two-year letter men: Captain Hummell (T) 188, Saginaw; V. J. Schuyler (1) 162, Bad Axe; John E. Garner (G) and T 165, Care.

Couzens Honors Williamson's Bid

Farming deluxe is becoming a reality for two brothers, Mark Williamson, and his brother Frank, '25. They have recently signed a contract to operate Senator Couzens' 900-acre farm in Oakland county, free of taxes and rent. The only stipulation in their contract is that they make it pay.

The Lansing State Journal says: "Senator Couzens, several years ago, undertook farming in the grand style as a hobby. He bought a herd of 125 pure-bred Holstein cattle and built a $125,000 barn with steam heat, an ice plant, shower baths for the help and other un-farm-like innovations."

"It was a fine idea but it lost money steadily. At last Senator Couzens lost patience. He offered to give free use of the farm for five years to anyone who could operate it on a paying basis."

"The Williamston brothers are the lucky men. They meet the senator's requirement that his farmers must be young men; Mark is 33 and Frank is 23. Mark is married and has three small children; Frank is single."

"They are confident they can make the farm pay and their plans are all made. They will operate it as a dairy and sheep farm, will stock it with 60 head of Jersey or Guernsey cattle and expect to find a market for high grade milk either in Detroit or Pontiac. They will also buy 500 or more laying hens and several hundred sheep."

"Fully a thousand people applied to Senator Couzens for the job. The Williamston brothers were brought up on a farm, studied at the Michigan State Agricultural College and have farmed ever since. Senator Couzens has signed contracts with them and they are ready to go to work."

"Frank was enrolled in the general agricultural division and graduated in 1925. Besides being an excellent student, he was especially prominent in midwestern wrestling circles, reuniting the old "strong back and weak mind" axiom."

New Campus Roads

Eliminate Bad Curves

New Campus roads being laid out threaten to rob the College of some of its more picturesque drives but will perhaps aid the motorist in making his way about the grounds. Under the new plan, as designed by T. Glen Phillips, '02, the main or circle road will pass along its present general lines until it reaches the woman's building when it will go southeast so that it may serve the row of science buildings and will curve to a point near the engineering shops where it will join the old road. Between the engineering and chemistry buildings the road will follow the footpath which has been worn by students of the past twenty years, making a much broader curve than the old road. In the main, the plan is to eliminate the worst curves and have the road serve all buildings. It is also proposed to eliminate the road which has crossed the Campus at the rear of Abbot hall and which has a particularly dangerous spot just west of the dormitory. It is probable that nothing except the preliminary grading can be done this fall.

Repeat Freshman

Week With Success

Freshman Week, an institution now in its second year on the Campus, met with as great success this year as last. The new students were introduced to the College on Thursday of the week before the regular term began. Five days of getting acquainted, registering, and getting settled in their quarters were profitably spent.

After registering on Thursday there was a general meeting at 8 o'clock Friday morning which was addressed by Pres. K. L. Butterfield, Dean John Phelan, and a representative of the Student Council. During the afternoon the deans straightened out classifications and gave placement examinations designed to furnish information for sectioning the classes. The Union furnished the students entertainment in the evening. After a short introduction and explanation of the building, a general dance in the ballroom helped break the coldness of the new life they had entered. Saturday morning Pres. Butterfield and Dean Phelan again discussed campus problems with the freshmen. On Sunday, special services were held at the new People's church in honor of the newcomers.

Printed booklets containing schedules of classes for the various divisions were distributed this fall replacing the old blue print system.

SERENITY

What is it worth?

If you have known serenity of the mind, even once for a short time only, you will know that it is priceless.

But there are those who can sell you for a small part of your income one of the most direct steps to this serenity—they can sell you security, material security for the future.

They are life insurance agents.

They sell a priceless commodity at low cost. When a John Hancock Agent calls on you, remember this. It is worth while seeing him. Better still, it is worth your while to send for him and set your mind at rest on this score at once.
