WHO ARE THEY?

ALUMNI DAY, JUNE 16
"I'm glad you 'phoned me, Jim!"

Of course he is happy about it. And any classmate of yours will be delighted to have you phone him when you are in his town and have some time to kill. Particularly if you have not seen each other for years... This is only one of the pleasant things that the Intercollegiate Alumni Hotels make possible. At each of these hotels is an index of the resident alumni of your college. When you are travelling and have a moment to spare, this index is a treasure trove of information for reviving friendships that mean much to you... Stop at Intercollegiate Alumni Hotels when you travel. You will enjoy the experience. And you will be helping the Alumni Office in furthering the work which it is doing.

When a King forgot

KING ALFRED the Great, compelled to flee from his enemies, took refuge in the hut of a peasant. When he was set to watch the cakes as they baked on the hot stones; but lost in dreams of restoring his shattered kingdom, he allowed the cakes to burn; and was roundly scolded for his carelessness.

Crude implements for baking—those hot stones; and even when ovens came into use, almost equal care was necessary. Success depended on close watching of temperature and time.

But now, in this age of precise methods, electric heat—dependable and automatically controlled—has made baking an exact science. The largest modern bakeries are installing electrically heated ovens, and housewives are finding electric ranges a boon to their daily work. In every industrial plant and in every home, there are opportunities to use electric heat, with a financial saving and to the betterment of the product.

GENERAL ELECTRIC
Burnett, '87, Elected as Chancellor at Nebraska

A STATEMENT issued March 3, 1928, by the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska announcing the selection of Dr. E. A. Burnett, '87, as head of their University, reads as follows:

"A unanimous Board tendered to Acting Chancellor Burnett the Chancellorship of the University to be effective from March 1, 1928, to June 30, 1928. The members of the board were very gratified to receive acceptance from Chancellor Burnett of the position, and it comes in appreciation of his exceptional services rendered for a number of years as Dean of the Agricultural College and Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, followed by over a year's service as Acting Chancellor."

Chancellor Burnett's undergraduate work in his field was in Michigan State College, from which he was graduated in 1887. In 1917 he returned to East Lansing and had conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Science. Until 1893 Dr. Burnett was an assistant instructor here, resigning to assume the managership of the Hiram Walker farms in Canada in 1894.

Previous to his appointment as Dean of the College of Agriculture in the University of Nebraska, Dr. Burnett was Associate Dean of Old Industrial College, under Dr. Charles Edwin Bessey. In 1925-26 he was president of the American Association of Land Grant Colleges. During the World War he was selected as a member of the American Educational Corps, and was in charge of agricultural lectures in the first army of the American Expeditionary forces at the University of Beunne, France.

Announcements Made on Summer School

THREE sugar-cane experts have started for New Guinea in search of a sugar-cane plant able to withstand the diseases which have ravaged the present domestic types. One of the men is Dr. E. W. Brandes, '13, who is senior pathologist of sugar plants in the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The trip and study will take from six to eight months. Dr. Brandes explains that as the domestic-grown types of sugar-cane originated in Guinea, it is probable that the diseases originated there also, and that generations of natural breeding may have produced a resistant type. They plan to bring hundreds of varieties of sugar-cane to America to test amid conditions here.

Dr. Brandes received his elementary training in plant pathology while at M. S. C. under Dr. G. H. Coons of our Botany department, who, it is interesting to note, is carrying on a parallel experiment in sugar beets.
Death Closes Life of Elder Butterfield

IRA H. BUTTERFIELD whose entire life was devoted to agricultural service, died at the home of his son, President K. L. Butterfield, on the College campus, Saturday night, March 24, 1928. Death came peacefully after short illness due to the infirmities of old age and grief over the death of his wife early in January. At the bedside when death occurred were Clinton Butterfield, w'97 of Detroit, and Mrs. George Nichols, '05, of Pittsburg, a daughter. President Butterfield was attending the international missionary conference in Jerusalem. It was the wish of the elder Butterfield that President Butterfield be not notified of his serious illness.

Born at Utica, Michigan, December 22, 1840, Ira Butterfield had a colorful career, generously interspersed with the adventures which were a part of the pioneer's daily life.

He was educated in the common grade schools of Utica and later attended Westfield, New York academy, then attended the State Normal school at Ypsilanti. Ira Butterfield's latter close identification with the Michigan Agricultural College was forecast by his father's early activity in support of the institution. It was Ira, sr., who reported the bill out of a special committee of the legislature for the establishment of the College in 1855. From 1870-85 Mr. Butterfield served as deputy collector of customs at Port Huron, and acting appraiser at the same port from 1880-95.

A promotor of the state fair, Butterfield edited the agricultural edition of the Detroit Post and Tribune, as well as identifying himself early with the State Agricultural society. A member of the State Board of Agriculture from 1880 to 1885, he became closely connected with Michigan State College and from 1893 to 1897 served as its secretary. Moving to Connecticut in 1897, Butterfield managed six fairs in that state, the last being in 1924, when they returned to East Lansing. He has remained here since that time in retirement. He took a keen interest in the state fair at Detroit the last two years. Two years ago he offered a special prize for roadside marketing exhibits and last year a special prize for wheat was named in his honor.

Impressive funeral services were held in the auditorium of the People's church in East Lansing. Offices at the college were closed the afternoon of the funeral, by order of administrative officers, while members of the state board, faculty and friends attended the services. Joseph B. Moore, former justice of the supreme court, spoke briefly and touchingly on the life of Mr. Butterfield, whom he had known for sixty-two years. "The world is better because he lived," he said. "His friends will always remember him as one who made life sweeter and better, he has gone to the reward which comes to all good persons."

His body was laid to rest in the family plot at Utica, where his wife was buried less than three months ago.

The College will entertain a distinguished guest on Tuesday, April 24, when Brig. Gen. Paul Malone, commandant of the sixth corps area comes to the campus to speak at the all-college convocation on subject of "America's Participation in the World War." At four in the afternoon a military parade with nearly 1,200 cadets participating will be reviewed by the visitor.

Slocum, '71, Writes of Early College Days

WRITING to the alumni office recently, Richard M. Slocum, '71, Glenham, S. D., retired journalist, and ex-Regent of Education of South Dakota, states that he misses the names of the old pioneer teachers and students in the Record, and that in place of so much athletics he got more inspiration in the woods botanizing. Mr. Slocum passed his eighty-third milestone last fall but still maintains his interest in his Alma Mater. The following comments are taken from his recent letter:

"I entered M. A. C. in 1868 as a freshman, being five weeks behind my class; but by close attention to my books and by cutting out campus sport-activities, I managed to catch up with my class before the close of the college year. I can truly say that I worked my way through college, having only ninety dollars when beginning the freshman year, the proceeds of a three-month term as a country school teacher. I was obliged every winter to teach a four months term of school to defray my expenses at college. For this reason, every spring I arrived at the college about two weeks late, usually being met at College Hall by Dr. Kedzie who with his characteristic humor saluted me as 'Slow Come.'"

"In graduating day in 1871, President T. C. Abbot called me aside and told me that it was customary not to grant diplomas unless all college dues were paid, and that he found I still owed the college twenty dollars. 'But,' said Dr. Abbot, 'I will pay it myself and you may refund the same out of the first money you earn.' It goes without saying that Dr. Abbot got his twenty dollars inside of two months. The king bird of my college course was Inductive Logic, recited before President Abbot, whose mind leaned naturally to right thinking and right living."

Professor H. B. Dirks, head of the mechanical engineering department, was recently elected mayor of East Lansing, on the independent ticket.
SPARTAN CLUBS
WASHINGTON, D. C. ALUMNI MEETING

M. A. C. in its early days and M. S. C. at the present time were the themes that proved interesting to all present at the twenty-eighth annual meeting in the Washington Alumni Association. The meeting was held at the Lewis Hotel Training School, Tuesday evening, February 21, 1928.

Harris Collingwood, '11, president, in his introductory remarks said that the college in its early days not only prepared students for farmers and workers in the United States Department of Agriculture, but the training fitted them for work elsewhere. He called on Dr. William A. Kinnman, '80, of the United States Patent Office, to talk on the "Old College and Its Ideals."

Dr. Kinnman said that his memory of the college never changes. Forty years ago he bade it a heart-breaking farewell. At that time there was an enrollment of about 180 students and on the teaching staff there were eight professors, two assistant professors and three instructors. There were only six buildings: College Hall, Williams and Wells Halls, R. C. Kedzie Laboratory, Dr. Beal's Laboratory, and the Library. The students had the privilege of studying under such able men as Dr. Abbot, Dr. R. C. Kedzie, Professor MacEwan, Dr. Beal, Professor Cook, and Professor Johnson.

Glen O. Stewart, '17, before showing the college movies, took the audience on an imaginary sightseeing trip from the "Split Rock" to East Lansing and around the present M. S. C. campus. He told us that "Split Rock" no longer marks the half-way place between the college and Lansing, but a portion of the stone with a suitable plate has been placed near the Union Building. He made vivid some of the changes in East Lansing and the campus.

In his closing remarks Secretary Stewart referred to the Alumni Association and the Union Memorial Building. That the Union Building is filling a need is shown by the fact that each day about 75 per cent of the students pass through the building. All the alumni were interested in the college movies which were shown, and they asked numerous questions. Ways in which alumni associations could help students were discussed. A loan fund was considered more satisfactory than a scholarship.

At the business meeting it was suggested that the spring luncheon be held about May 13th.

A message was sent to Dr. and Mrs. Butterfield, wishing them a happy voyage and a pleasant trip to the Holy Land.

A message of appreciation was sent to Dean Shaw, who is acting in Dr. Butterfield's absence.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President—Lyster H. Dewey, '88; Vice-President—M. P. Welch, '19; Secretary-Treasurer—Cora L. Feddikamp, '05.

Members and guests present: Donald McPherson, '14; Dr. W. A. Kinnman, '96; Mrs. W. A. Kinnman; Dr. William A. Taylor, '88; Mrs. William A. Taylor; L. H. Dewey, '88; Mrs. L. H. Dewey; W. D. Grosebeck, '92; Mrs. Mary Baker Wolfe; H. C. Skoeks, '96; Mrs. H. C. Skoeks; H. J. Schneider, '84; C. G. Woodbury, '94; C. A. ANNUAL MEETING OF DETROIT M. S. C. ALUMNI

W. G. Knickerbocker, '16, was the general chairman and toastmaster of the program, which was thoroughly enjoyed by the 135 members and guests present. Seated at tables in groups of eight, the Staters enjoyed a very pleasant hour talking over old times.

The event was especially planned to welcome Harry Kipke, new head football coach, as well as to have as guests of the club other outstanding people. Speakers besides Kipke included Coach Chas. E. Dorias, of the University of Detroit, Frederick Stearns, of the Stearns Laboratories, W. W. Crapo, of Swartz Creek, H. H. Halladay, Secretary of the College, and Ralph Young, Director of Athletics. Music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Harriet Mortimore, soprano, of Detroit, assisted by Miss Muriel Sparks, accompanist. A dance program closed the meeting.

TOLEDO CLUB MEETS

A successful meeting of the alumni of Toledo, Ohio, on Monday evening March 26, was attended by thirty-eight former students and friends. Dean and Mrs. G. W. Bissell were guests of the club and in his talk the Dean gave many interesting facts concerning the progress and development of the College during the past few years. Two reels of college movies were furnished.

Roland Shenefield, '18, was general chairman of the meeting and the permanent organization for the club is as follows: Leslie M. Sanborn, '06, president; J. P. O'Neil, vice-president, and Mrs. Fay Burroughs, 'W1, secretary-treasurer.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Alma Mater

Back at the campus where the red cedar flows, there is a bustle of activity which is in no way occasioned by preparations of the sophomores to entice the yearlings of the school. But Michigan State—your Alma Mater—is preparing for an event, and her preparations are being made thoroughly and completely.

You will miss a real treat if you do not attend the seventieth annual commencement program, and those of you who do come to East Lansing will be amply repaid for any effort involved.

The various committees are exerting themselves to the utmost making ready for the advent of the swarm of alumni and former students who will descend upon the old campus Alumni Day, June 16, and when the hour of meeting arrives, Alma Mater will be ready to welcome you and entertain you in a way you will not soon forget.

Arrangements have been made between the music department of the College and the Brunswick company, for the college military band of sixty-five pieces to make records for the phonograph company, according to a recent announcement of Lewis Richards, head of the department.

Time and Change—

"The co-ed—God Bless 'em" is the toast of loyal fraternity boys, professors, and alumni of Michigan State College. It is not infrequently the toast of the co-eds, themselves. For the women-students far from being the forsaken, all but despised outcasts that they are in some colleges, have always played a significant role in the dramatic history of the institution.

Nothing could be more genuinely interesting to the student or alumnus of the college than the story of the development of co-education at M. S. C. The first course for girls, called the "women's course"—later "domestic science," and still later "home economics"—was organized under President J. A. Snyder, in 1870.

Before that time, there had been young women who studied with the men students at the college. In 1870, a flock of ten girls, with frizzled bangs, voluminous skirts, and tight bodices, descended on the college. Most of them were from Lansing, and the majority had male relatives at the college, either among the faculty or the student body.

None of the group graduated. In 1870, the ten are listed under the simple, meaningful title of "Ladies" in the college catalogue. They studied agriculture, just as the men did. In 1871, the number had shrunk to eight. There were four in 1872, and in 1873, only one of the original group remained. Mrs. Eva McElain, who died recently at Grand Rapids, was the first woman graduate of the college. She received her diploma in 1879.

Rooms for the "ladies" were reserved on the main floor of Williams Hall, college dormitory. The first dormitory and class building exclusively for co-eds, was Abbott Hall. When the course for women was installed in 1876, with Miss Edith McDermott for a teacher, the catalogue announced that "the course is not designed to unsex women, but does purpose to give the sex, for its duties, the same kind of help from the same source that has revolutionized the tasks of men."

The co-educational course consisted at first of general work in science, mathematics, and English of the agricultural course, with emphasis on thorough study of cooking, sewing, and household economy "with application in daily practice."

Since those first, crude beginnings, home economics has been expanded until it is one of the most important courses at the college. The number of co-eds has grown, until it reached 808 out of a total of 2,800 students and graduate students in the fall term 1927. There were 1891 men and 792 women under-graduates, 101 post-graduates among the men, and 10 among the women.

Liberal arts, installed in 1924 has advanced with remarkable rapidity. There are as many co-eds in that department, as in home economics. Five girls are following an ancient tradition and studying agriculture and forestry. A few are enrolled in engineering, and there are six in veterinary medicine.

The magnificent new home economics building, equipped with the most modern apparatus available, has aided in the development of the course. The building was completed in the college year 1924. Miss Jean Krueger is dean of the home economics division, and Mrs. Clara Powell has served for the past two years as dean of women.
Memorial Book to Dr. Beal Upon Request

Editor M. S. C. Record:

We have still some copies left of "A Pioneer in Science," the memorial volume to my father, Dr. William James Beal.

We hoped to send it to all those old friends and students who would most appreciate it. If we have missed any who would like to have the little book, we will gladly send them a copy upon request, so long as they last.

CHICAGO HOLDS ANNUAL

On March 28, the Chicago Michigan State Alumni Association enjoyed a splendid dinner-dance at the Lake Shore Athletic Club. Acting President Shaw enlightened those attending most ably as to college conditions, while Harry Kipke, new head football coach, outlined the football prospects. We were especially well pleased with both talks and we are all predicting a winner next fall after meeting the coach. Glen Stewart brought along his bag of trick college moving pictures and they were greatly enjoyed. Larry Archer, president of the club, officiated with the assistance of Toastmaster "Pete" Woodworth, '86.

The party was a success in every way, nearly one hundred being present, and all enjoyed an evening filled with Michigan State spirit and associations.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: George Williams, '06, president; Ruth Hurd Snyder, '10, vice-president, and Park Teter, '21, secretary-treasurer.

L. C. ARCHER.

BERRIEN COUNTY

Of all the meetings held by the Berrien County Alumni Association during its existence, the meeting at Berrien Springs Community Hall on the evening of March 27, honoring Acting President R. S. Shaw, stands out as the most successful. One hundred twenty-five alumni and friends attended the dinner and enjoyed the various parts of the program.

Jesse G. Boyle, '08, Representative to the last Legislature from that district, as chairman of the entertainment committee welcomed Dean Shaw in behalf of the alumni of that county. "Dean Shaw gave us some very interesting statistics about the College, and a resume of the growth of the institution during the past decade. It was a pleasure to have him with us and to be reassured of the splendid progress being made at M. S. C."

CHAS. RICHARDS, '16,
Corresponding Secretary.

GRAND RAPIDS

Herb Straight, '17, president of the Grand Rapids Alumni club, and superintendent of the Grand Rapids Gas Light company, was severely injured in a gas tank explosion Friday night, April 6. One of his employees was killed and six others taken to the hospital suffering with injuries and burns. Straight was burned about the hands, face and neck but was not taken to a hospital.

MILWAUKEE CLUB

The annual meeting of the Milwaukee Association of Michigan State College Alumni held at the Elks Club, March 27, was in the form of a welcome dinner given in honor of Coach Harry Kipke and Alumni Field Secretary Glen Stewart.

Thirty-two members and wives, together with several high school athletes, comprised the interested and enthusiastic group who had the pleasure of listening to Coach Kipke's most sane discussion of the football situation at Michigan State and his hopes for the future. His modest, convincing talk inspired confidence in his ability and good judgment.

Three reels of campus films and Glen Stewart's interesting talk on the M. A. C. of the past, and the M. S. C. of the future, completed our fine program, after which the following officers were elected to serve the coming year: President, Wm. Davison, '12, and secretary-treasurer, Iva Wilson Chamberlain, '11.

The club voted to budget their alumni expenses for the following year, and an assessment of $5 each was passed. Of this amount, $2.50 is sent by the secretary to the M. S. C. Association at East Lansing, for general expense and one year's subscription to the Record. The balance is used for the expenses of the secretary, the annual banquet, and work of the activities committee.

The attached resolution was unanimously passed by the club.

IVA WILSON CHAMBERLAIN, '11,
Secretary.

Resolutions

Whereas, the Michigan State College Association of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, at their annual meeting held March 27, 1928, being desirous of expressing their appreciation of the loyalty and willingness to serve of Acting President Robert S. Shaw.

Be it resolved, that this Association extend to Acting President Shaw, and through him to the faculty of Michigan State College, our warmest greetings.

Be it resolved, that special mention be made of the efficiency and loyalty of Miss Elida Yakely who is now completing her twentieth year in the service of the College.

Be it resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Acting President Shaw, Elida Yakely, and the Michigan State College Record.

Signed:
M. G. JEWETT,
L. M. KANTERS,
KENNETH MAHLER.
Baseball Team to Start Good Schedule

A MICHIGAN STATE baseball team of fair defensive and offensive strength, and boasting an outstanding pitcher in Captain Albert Tolles, was scheduled to open its home season Easter week against Adrian and Kalamazoo colleges.

Four games were lost and two won on the southern training trip, but college fans recall that last year Michigan State scored but one victory on its Dixie jaunt, only to come back and sweep aside all opposition on the home schedule.

Coach John Kobs has been noted for his ability to take mediocre material and mould it into a smooth club by the end of the season, and although it would be too much to expect him to have another season of only two defeats, it is safe to say that State will be humiliated but few times during the regular schedule.

Coach Kobs is more gloomy than ever this year. The reason is that he can depend on but one pitcher. Captain Tolles, Caruso at catch, Hoisington at first, Eggert at second, and Rhinehart in the outfield are the only letter winners from last year's speedy nine.

New men who have shown well include Watkins, who is making a determined bid for the post at second, McCauley at short, Crall at third, and Weed and Sachs in the outfield. Pitchers who will serve as understudy's to Tolles are Byrne, Bullard and Lewis.

An attractive home schedule including games with Notre Dame, Michigan, the University of Chicago, West Virginia, and Syracuse has been arranged.

Kipke On Campus for Spring Practice

MICHIGAN STATE'S new era of football has begun, Coach Kipke's star sprinters, Grim and Alderman, and without real strength in the hurdles, high jump, broad jump, and javelin, Michigan State can hardly look to another year of brilliant victories on the cinder track, but Coach Young has a group of veterans that are going to make trouble this spring in the state and Central Inter-collegiates.

At the relay carnival this spring State must depend on its distance men and Harold McAtee, pole vaulter, to claim the honors won by last year's undefeated sprint relay team. And it is quite possible that Lang, Heason, Kroll, Peterson, and Salmon may be combined in such a way as to score some honors in the quarter-mile and half-mile relays.

The four-mile team groomed by Coach Mason, made a brilliant showing at the Urbana Relays last month when it ran eight seconds under the Carnival record to extend the veteran Illinois team to a new mark. State's time was 18:08, better with but one exception than the marks made at any major relay meet last year. When it is considered that the Penn Relay's time was 18:30, it can be seen that the green team of Kipke's will not arrive in East Lansing until fall. Ben VanAlstine, varsity basketball coach, is also taking a hand in the workouts.

Kipke has already started a search for a capable kicker to replace Captain Paul Smith. Among the men who have been tried out are three freshman who will be sophomores next fall, Defne, Bayerle, and Roger Grove, with Grove exhibiting the most promise. Others who have been given a try are Kanitz and Schan of the varsity.

Kipke expects to terminate the workouts with some real scrimmage in order to determine what his men can do under fire. He has already started the teaching of a few of the fundamental plays he will use next fall.

THE M. S. C. RECORD

Alpha Zetas of ’11 Sending “Round Robin”

The ten Alpha Zeta men of the class of 1911 have kept a “round robin” letter traveling since graduation. The much looked-for communication is on its twenty-second round in seventeen years. Jim Hays gives the Record readers the names of the fellows so linked together and their present occupations:

- Bert Keith, Sawyer, Michigan. In the nursery business, main “bolt” being Astdadon strawberries. Bert provided the idea of the chain letter.
- E. C. Lundenmann, High Bridge, New Jersey. Teaches at the New York School for Social Work, does research for the Workers’ Education Bureau, and writes between times along sociological lines.
- Sam Langdon, Hubhardston, Michigan. Farming—so successful that he was anointed “Master Farmer” in the first batch so designated in Michigan. Formerly our alumni secretary.
- Glen France, San Diego, California. County agricultural agent, or as they call it out there, Farm Advisor. Usual booster for California.
- Basil Wates, Albuquerque, New Mexico. In Government Service along Forestry lines. Admits that he is fairly high up in his profession.
- C. H. Knopf, Muskegon, Michigan. County agricultural agent, was awarded the College cup for 1927 on the basis of successful work along his line in Western Michigan.
- Clare Severance, Fenton, Michigan. Farming, and the only bachelor in the bunch. (Any maid of charitable nature—recalling that this is leap year—please remove this stain from our escutcheon!)

Statistics compiled by L. L. Frimodig, assistant director of athletics, shows that the attendance at the 15 basketball games this season totaled 36,329. Of this number 17,829 witnessed home games.

Jason Hammond, ’86, chairman of the committee on Alumni Day, announces that no one can afford to miss the activities June 16. Plan to come and write your class secretary now.

The Athletic Council at its April meeting received recommendations from a special committee relative to building a playing floor in the Demonstration Hall for use during the basketball season next winter. The Council sent its recommendations to the President and State Board of Agriculture.

When the present gymnasium was built and one of the best swimming pools in the state included, provision was not made for sufficient filters, inlets and outlets, which would meet the requirements of the State Health Department. This past year the Health Department placed a ban on the use of the pool, and during the summer a portion of the new filters were installed. The balance of the work was not completed due to lack of finances, and during the present winter the swimming pool load has been limited to 40 per day. The women have been given the use of the pool, and as a consequence no varsity swimming team has represented the College. The Athletic Council has again taken the matter up with the President and the College in an effort to have this deplorable situation changed at the earliest possible date.

Will Durant, the noted philosopher, giving his lecture on "Is Progress a Delusion?" filled the auditorium of the Peoples church on the evening of March 15.

Professor W. O. Hedrick, ’91, head of the department of economics at the College, was pleasantly surprised by members of his staff and their wives, at a birthday dinner party at his home Tuesday evening, April 3.

Greetings to all alumni were cabled by President Butterfield from Peru, Turkey, on Friday, March 10, and read as a part of the alumni radio program that night broadcast over the college station WKAR.

With May 13 falling on Sunday, Founders’ Day will be celebrated this year on Tuesday, May 15, with a special program and field events. Frank Robson, ’78, of Detroit, will talk for the alumni at the all-college convocation, which will be held in the new Demonstration Hall at 10:15 in the morning. The main speaker will be Knute Rockne, coach at Notre Dame. A special military field day has been arranged, with a squadron of planes coming over from Selfridge Field. A baseball game later in the afternoon and a dance in the evening will complete the events of the day. Alumni are urged to return to the campus if possible.

DEATHS

ORLANDO J. ROOT, '88

Orlando J. Root, '88, one of the pioneers of American automobile industry, died at his home at Moline, Illinois, February 16, 1928. He was born in Bay City, September 14, 1860, and lived in Lansing during his boyhood days. He entered M. A. C. in 1885 and graduated in the first class in mechanical engineering. After graduating, he and William H. Vandervort, also of '88, went to Champaign, Illinois and manufactured gas engines under the name of Root and Vandervort Engineering Company. In 1893 he married Edith Wright Jr., '24; John T. and David G., and a brother Ed. L. Smith of Howell.

LOUIS A. BREGER, '88

Louis A. Breger, '88, died at his home near Bangor, Michigan on February 8, 1928. His death came as a result of an accident which occurred three days before, when an apple tree fell on him and his son while they were cutting wood away from them and struck Mr. Breger on the head. He was born October 14, 1862 at Quincy, Illinois. At an early age he wanted to be a farmer and through his own efforts earned money to put himself through M. A. C. He was employed in the College greenhouses and taught school between semesters. In College he was a roommate of William A. Taylor, present chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, Washington, D.C. In 1872 married Anna B. Henjes.

After leaving college Mr. Breger's first work was in a greenhouse at Grand Rapids and later spent a number of years as assistant superintendent of the Graceland cemetery in Chicago. Since 1900, when he purchased a 100 acre farm at Bangor he followed his chosen profession of farming and especially fruit growing. He was an untiring worker and leader in his community and especially prominent as president of the Chamber of Commerce. He is survived by his wife, son John (M. S. C.'17) of Selostrop, California, and sons Louis (M. S. C.'20) of Bangor, a brother and sister.

A wise resolution for June: "I will go back to East Lansing at least once each year."

Charles Garfield, Secretary, 206 Burton, S. E., Grand Rapids.

The Grand Rapids Herald of March 14 contained the following editorial: "Charles W. Garfield—often called Grand Rapids' First Citizen—is today celebrating his birthday amid Florida's hospitable sunshine. Nor can the sunshine be too generous to reciprocate his deserts. If there were fewer citizens of whom it may justly be said—"His ways were ways of pleasantness and his paths are paths of peace—it is this young optimist of eighty seasoned years. Yet, withal, he has been a persistent and implacable crusader in all the battles through many decades that have been fought for good government, good citizenship, and practical Christianity. He has honorably served many public trusts. In love with growing things, he has been a pioneer in the scientific development of horticulture and floriculture and forestry. He has been active in business life. He has been faithful to his church. He has been a benediction to his friends. It is a very wonderful thing to cross eighty years. Yet, withal, he has been a very wonderful man."

W. C. Hall, '87, sends the following note about Jefferson H. Irish: "Irish has been a resident of Eugene, Oregon, some twenty years, after practicing law in Detroit, Minnesota, for some time. Was engaged in light farming for some time and has since retired from active work, still keeping in close touch with all civic activities for the development and uplift of the community."

George J. Hume, Secretary, Route 3, Lansing.
In 1912, Winthrop C. Hall went from Grand Rapids to Eugene, Oregon, and established a plant for the manufacture of concrete pipe suitable for sewers, highway culverts, and irrigation. He retired from this business last summer, selling his interest to his oldest son who has for some years been a partner, and a son-in-law who recently became connected with the plant. The second son is connected with the Internal Revenue office at Portland, and the youngest is in his junior year at Oregon State university. Hall is still interested in M. S. C. and hopes before long to take a trip to Michigan with as many of the family as possible to renew old associations. Mr. and Mrs. Hall visited the college last day of the opening of the fall term in 1925, and met several friends of former college days. Hall writes of Hartless L. Chapin of Reedsport, Oregon: “He is interested with his oldest son in the development of this important manufacturing town on the Umpqua river near its termination in the Pacific ocean. His six children are quite scattered. The younger son after graduation from Willamette University two years ago, accepted a position in the c-flege at Canton, China, formerly known as Canton Christian College, now Lingnan University where he is engaged in real service in the rapidly developing new Chinese nation. One of Mr. Chapin's daughters is now enrolled at Canton to be trained for a teaching position in the university and will be with her brother. Another daughter is filling a position in a mission hospital in Guatemala. The other daughters are living near their father. Mr. Chapin is active in all affairs for the betterment of his community, taking a lively interest in church and service clubs.”
