MINIATURE GOLF has passed but we still have some of these kid diseases to occupy the attention and time of some. To think that by order of the state, every department is busy with activity. While no accurate count is made of the operating departments, they have passed through the doors in the last twelve months. I cannot close this column without referring to the constant enthusiasm and zeal of my associates in the alumni office, Gladys Franks, Marietta Marshall and George Culp. They worked hard on the alumni catalogue and the book was delivered before Alumni Day. When my illness forced me to be absent from the office for the busiest week of the year they gave of their best. I would record here my personal appreciation of their service.

Some secretaries have pondered over this very problem for many years but I am sure that no one ever had to actually make the exit. Now I suppose the chairman of the convention for the American Alumni Council will have a new idea when he starts preparation for the 1932 program.

I wish that it could have been possible to have Bill Laycock take a smooth panoramic picture—In color—of all the Alumni Day and Commencement Day events. Since this was impossible I had him make a few snaps to let you in on just how big these June functions have grown. They are reproduced in this issue.

The Union has really become the living room and hearthstone of the College. While no accurate count is made of the attending alumni, faculty and returning groups of alumni. During Commencement week every department is busy with activity. While no accurate count is made of those using the building the records of the operating departments show that thousands have passed through the doors in the last twelve-month. The Union has really become the living room and hearthstone of the College.

I cannot close this column without referring to the constant enthusiasm and zeal of my associates in the alumni office, Gladys Franks, Marietta Marshall and George Culp. They worked hard on the alumni catalogue and the book was delivered before Alumni Day. When my illness forced me to be absent from the office for the busiest week of the year they gave of their best. I would record here my personal appreciation of their service.

By order of the executive committee the August issue of the Bacous will be replaced with a four page news leaflet and a printed list of the donors to the first Annual Alumni Fund, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931.

Alumni Day Filled with Many Events for Old Grads

Center of Attraction Was Golden Anniversary of Class of 1881

WIDELY divergent paths of Michigan State's alumni again crossed when more than 500 old grads assembled from the four corners of the nation for Alumni Day, Saturday, June 20.

Patriarchs from the class of '67, recent graduates from the class of '30; oldsters, youngsters—all gathered at East Lansing for that Saturday's occasion to view their undergraduate and postgraduate years in retrospection.

Each year sees an increasing gala event during Alumni Day and the one this year was no exception. Friday saw many of the "alums" already in town in anticipation of the morrow's affair. Several from the farther western and eastern states were on the Campus and registered.

First prize for distance covered should go to two of the class of '81: A. H. Voigt of Los Angeles, California, and George Grover of San Jaciento in the same state, who traveled 5,000 miles to be present at their class reunion. Mr. Voigt, who is a retired furniture dealer and president of the southern California branch of the Association, said of his trip to revive memories of his undergraduate days at M. S. C.

"I am deeply interested in the College and the alumni organization. That this is a red letter day for me is evidenced by the fact that I am taking a 5,000 mile trip to be here. I am for the anniversary of the class of '81. These were the alumni who had been out of school fifty years or longer.

The New M. S. C.

Graduates were almost unanimous in their opinions of the totality and rapidity of change in the physical aspects of the College, all the way from the graduates of '81 to the newer alumni of '30. Charles McKenny, '81, president of the Michigan State Normal college at Ypsilanti and who delivered the commencement address this year, said: "After fifty years the thing that impresses me is the fact that even though the man-made features of the Campus are entirely different from what I knew when I was here, the primeval setting of the College remains the same. The Red Cedar and the trees will always be the points to associate the past with the present."

Mariond Joslin, '30, employment manager for the Kroger company in Detroit, also remarked in much the same tenor in referring to the changes on the Campus. He said: "I am impressed, upon coming back after the absence of one year, with the astounding change during that short time. There are several new buildings, and the Campus looks much more beautiful. Most remarkable improvement."

Comment upon the improvement of the scholastic achievement of the College as well as the physical was made by C. Dwight Curtis, '11, chief of division of control of the Bureau of Public Roads, who came from Washington, D. C., for the meeting of the old grads. He remarked: "I consider that the growth of the school since I have been here as marvelous, especially that of the liberal arts division. I also consider the alumni association to be a growing organization, one that is progressing most satisfactorily. There should be more live local branches such as we have in Washington."

Hewitt Wins Again

B. L. (Bud) Hewitt, '24, of Lansing, again stepped into the limelight in the annual golf tournament of the M. S. C. Association, when he tied for first place in low net score of 18 holes with Walter E. Vance, '12, also of Lansing. Bud shared his honors this year, after holding down top place last year. Fifty-five Spartan alumni competed at the Walnut Hills Golf club course from 8:30 in the morning until around the middle of the afternoon. L. L. Frimodig, '17, performed the managerial duties of the tourney.

The annual business meeting of the M. S. C. Association was held under the spreading shade trees on the lawn south of the Union at 2:00 p. m. with R. Bruce McPherson, '90, of Howell, presiding. He was re-elected president. A. S. Armstrong of Chicago, Illinois, was named vice-president; L. T. Clark, '94, Detroit, was re-elected treasurer; W. O. Hedrick, '91, of East Lansing, was chosen as member of the executive board, and Lucille Harris Johnson, '23, Lansing, was chosen as alumnae representative of the board. Charles W. Garfield, '70, Grand Rapids banker and civic leader, was elected honorary president of the Association for life, upon motion of Henry Haigh, '74, of Detroit. The recognition came from the

To the President,
M. S. C. Association.
Michigan State College.

Sir:

In a review of the year since our last Alumni Day and annual meeting the secretary in submitting a customary annual report feels the Michigan State College Association, in spite of the nation-wide economic depression, has had a satisfactory year from the standpoint of service to the College and to the alumni body.

Like Janus, the double-faced diety, an annual report is supposed to look in two directions: toward what has been accomplished during the past year and toward what may be done in the future.

There are some alumni who still believe that the work of an alumni association like ours is only effective where it is militant and in conflict with the administration. Controversy with the governing board and officials of the institution is regarded by them as a sign of health and activity. In this I do not concur and I think the following items are necessarily considered.

Executive Committee

The valued help and counsel of President R. Bruce McPherson and members of the executive committee has been one of the important factors in carrying on a definite organized alumni program. The success merited by these members in their own vocations has brought prestige to the College. Added to that their vigorous interest in the welfare of the College and one finds strengthened enthusiasm in any alumni effort.

The Alumni Office

It is difficult to describe the multiphilous activities of our staff throughout the year. Few realize the actual work required for the annual alumni fund, the recording of contributions, magazine advertising contracts, billing, bookkeeping, daily correspondence, recruiting of new members, telephone calls, keeping of several types of files. Union Memorial Building pledges, recruiting of new members, telephone calls, keeping of several types of files. Union Memorial Building pledges, recruiting of new members, telephone calls, keeping of several types of files.

The Michigan State College Record

Because THE RECORD is perhaps our best means of carrying out the purposes of the Association, an effort was made during the year just passed to make that particular "alumni gear" more attractive and more comprehensive.

We have made an intensive study of other alumni publications, engraving, printing, illustration and design in an effort to improve our periodical. The covers, drawn by Lucille Allen, 28, have attracted much favorable comment not only from our own alumni but from outsiders as well. The cover design for our February issue was awarded first place in a contest conducted last spring by the American Alumni Council. Articles have been contributed very willingly and generously. The inauguration of the "Who's Who Among The Alumni" page has been another popular feature judging from many reports received.

For 1931-32 the effort to make the magazine more attractive and interesting is being continued. The donation of cuts by the Wolverine editors is a service greatly appreciated.

More personal items from class secretaries and from alumni will no doubt quiet most complaints received during the year.

Alumni Clubs

Our work in energizing and extending our local alumni clubs continues to be one of our main aims. An increased awakening of alumni interest has been very noticeable all year. Continuing the alumni reunions at the district meetings of the Michigan Education association some 500 to 600 old grads met and felt again the inspiration of the College.

There are now twenty-one regularly organized alumni clubs and the alumni secretary visited sixteen of these groups during the year. The alumni office constantly assists the local clubs by supplying up-to-date lists, sometimes sending out notices, securing faculty speakers, etc.

Additional Publications

As an additional undertaking this past year the new alumni catalogue was prepared by the alumni office staff and published cooperatively with the publications department. This publication is a very condensed 246-page book, giving a complete list of all graduates, officers and professors of the faculties from 1857 to 1930. It is the first catalogue to be published since 1916. Most of the credit for this somewhat stupendous task of compiling the catalogue goes to Miss Olady Franks, our efficient alumni recorder. Perhaps some incomplete records appear in this catalogue, but we hope the book may be found to provide a more convenient and adequate compilation of facts regarding our complete alumni body and college professors than has been available in the past.

The catalogue, published from funds authorized by the State Board of Agriculture, has been distributed to all persons whose names appear in the book.

A new book of songs of Michigan State college was published last month by the alumni association in cooperation with Sphinx, honorary campus sorority. They are on sale now at twenty-five cents each.

The alumni office assisted materially in the publication of the first annual directory for the M. S. C. club of Detroit. This directory and the excellent annual meeting of the Detroiter were of real significance during the alumni year.

College Congress

The fourth annual College Congress was held on the Campus January 30. The talks of President R. S. Shaw and John B. Fullen, alumni secretary of Ohio State university, were well received by the 54 guests. This meeting brings together for an evening's discussion members of the State Board, executive committee, division deans, class secretaries and alumni club officers.

American Alumni Council

Your secretary and the alumni recorder joined the company of five other alumni workers in Michigan and attended the annual meeting of the American Alumni Council in Atlanta Ga., April 15-18. At the 1930 meeting of this Council this national organization saw fit to elect your secretary one of its vice-presidents for a three-year term. Through our membership in the Council and working with the board of directors we have been privileged to have contact with the leading institutions of America.

Association Membership

From the report of the general treasurer it is gratifying to note that the past year has been an interesting experiment. The projection of our alumni fund has met with quite general approval and I believe we will progress materially during the next few years.

The increase of alumni participating in this annual fund is the fundamental basis for a soundly financed Association.

Union Memorial Building

For the third year I must repeat that one of the most important and arduous tasks of the Association is the liquidation of pledges outstanding on the Union and possible plans for completing the project. In all my service as secretary I have found it to be the most perplexing duty connected with the office. Apparently it is difficult for some of our subscribers to feel that they are still under obligation to complete payment of their pledges. Our executive committee realizes how futile would be any attempt to secure state aid after the economy program Governor Brucker has been forced to adopt. We hope that some great benefactors will come to our relief and assist us with a permanent contribution for the welfare of future generations.

Conclusion

In conclusion I believe the alumni office, composed of those many years, has been a most useful agent of the College and of the alumni; it has provided a two-way highway of service; it has correlated the interests of the alumni and alumnae; it has provided an effective medium and through the cooperation of influential graduates has promoted a wholesome atmosphere of goodwill in which the institution can do its best work.

As I come to the threshold of another year I hope that we can make the alumni office more than a recording office of personal success of individual alumni; make it more than a money collecting agency; make it in fact and theory the Public Relations office of the College.

Without the continued support and encouragement of those who regularly render your counsel and cooperation the work of the alumni staff would be fruitless. We have faith that the ever increasing loyalty of our alumni body will make possible still greater service for our Alma Mater.

Respectfully submitted,

Glen O. Stewart

Alumni Secretary.

President McPherson: We have profited by the assistance of our treasurer this year and I am asking Lawrence Clark, '04, to give us his report.

Lawrence Clark stated that the fiscal year ended June 30, and the auditor's report would appear later. He read the following report:

DURING these days of frozen assets and gelatinized resources, a treasurer's report is anticipated with uneasy concern. However, I am glad to be able to report today that the finances of your Association reflect a continued loyalty on the part of our members and through the able management of our secretary, the Association funds have been conserved with a bank balance of $1,123.52 as of May 31, 1931.

Introduce Alumni Fund Idea

The fact that our secretary has enlarged upon the constructive activities of that office even with the limited funds at our disposal should serve as a stimulus to our members to contribute even more liberally to the Annual Alumni Fund. The adoption a year ago of the Alumni Fund plan for improving the finances of the Association has proved to be a successful venture in contrast to the financial perils of raising money from membership dues. During the past year 1165 donors have contributed sums ranging from $1.00 to $100.00 an average of about $4.00. It should be mentioned here that The Record will be sent gratis to those who annually contribute $2.50 or more, to this fund.

Each alumni has received a splendid well rounded letter from our president with a card giving eight very pertinent reasons why the annual fund plan has been adopted by our executive committee. These eight reasons will bear repeating at this time:

1. It gives each alumnus the opportunity to contribute any amount desired.
2. It creates unrestricted funds.
3. Its receipts are in cash.
4. It has no collection problems.
5. It does away with binding pledges.
6. It does not obligate for the future.
7. It entitles every contributing alumnus to membership in the M. S. C. Association.
8. It brings The Record, alumni magazine, to hundreds of alumni who contribute a minimum of $2.50 per year, thus giving them a closer contact with their College.

In closing this part of my report, I wish to commend our members for the splendid support they have given the fund plan and make an appeal to your continued liberality.

Union Gifts Needed

Now just a word about our Union Memorial Building Fund. We owe $356,000.00 with current assets of $193,000.00, which includes outstanding pledges amounting to $193,000.00. One item in the liability column is a past due note for $15,600.00, for construction costs which we feel obligated to take care of in the near future. Receipts from pledges scarcely meet current expenses, of which the principle item is interest on our bonded indebtedness. The building in form has become a very vital center of the activities of this college. It stands as a befitting expression of our belief in him as an unselfish benefactor of his community and (considering his varied useful activities) of the entire State of Michigan; and specially as a wise and indefatigable upbuilder of our beloved Alma Mater.

Simple justice we extend this honor to him as a big, broad, considerate and compassionate lover of his fellowmen.

In view of these facts, and in pursuance of this action of his fellow members, I hereby declare him to be the first honorary president of the Alumni Association of the Michigan State College.

Mr. Garfield, the honorary president of the Alumni Association of the Michigan State College.

Dr. Frank S. Kedzie, '77, accepted for Mr. Garfield, the honorary presidency of the M. S. C. Association.

NO GRADUATE from this College has more friends among the alumni por has any alumnus exerted a greater influence on the development of this institution than has this gentleman, "Grand Rapids' foremost citizen."

During the four years of his college course the average total student attendance was eighty. At first a dweller with four in a room in "Saints' Rest," he later saw Williams hall built and became one of the first occupants. He married a co-ed and his first home was in a small room in Williams hall.

Charlie Garfield was a leader of his fellows. Through the Christian Union, the first student religious association formed on the Campus, became an effective influence due to his ability for organization and his enthusiasm. It was a power in student life for years.

While serving as foreman of the agricultural department in charge of the Campus, walks and drives, as well as directing the students work in the gardens, the required amount being three hours per day for each student, he became our first publicity man serving as agricultural correspondent to the Detroit Free Press.

A financial depression found its way into the college treasury so that October 1st, 1877 the Board of Agriculture felt that $600.00 could be saved by granting C. W. G. an indefinite leave of absence, but we couldn't get along without him so in 1877 Governor Luce appointed him to the Board of Agriculture where he was active as a member for the next twelve years.

Time does not permit that I should attempt to relate more of this wonderful man's life, but when the "oldsters" reach the College on Alumni Day the first question asked is, "Has Charlie Garfield arrived?"

I am sorry, indeed, that Mr. Garfield is not able to be with us today. It is an honor for me to convey to him the action you have taken here today.

The following wire from Mr. Garfield was read:

CHARLES W. GARFIELD
State Board Approves Resolutions Giving President Shaw Added Powers

Nine important resolutions presented by President R. S. Shaw were passed by members of the State Board of Agriculture, at their meeting held on the Campus, June 22.

The more important of these resolutions concentrate executive authority in the president, especially in financial matters, prohibit members of the college staff from having outside financial connections without the consent of the board and prohibit staff members from any political activity.

A financial study of the records of the Michigan State Institute of Music, affiliated with the College, was turned over to a special committee of the board and the directors of the institute for a careful study and report at an early date.

President Shaw said that the resolutions follow a careful study of the college administration which he has conducted. He announced that they deal with the "remaining 25 per cent of an administrative reorganization which I started one year ago."

The resolutions, which were adopted unanimously, follow:

(1) As a general policy it is inadvisable for administrative members of the college staff to hold official positions in the organizations of financial institutions with which the College does business either directly or indirectly, exceptions to this policy may be considered and approved by the board as per opinion from attorney general dated June 8 and on file.

(2) As a general policy the College should not enter into financial transactions with individuals or groups of individuals of the college staff involving their private off-campus business enterprises. Exemptions to this policy may, however, be granted by the board.

(3) Staff members must not participate either directly or indirectly in political campaigns.

(4) Matters of official business and policy must not be taken up directly by staff members of the College with individuals, committees, or the board itself, without the knowledge and consent of the president. This does not preclude the right of approach on the part of members of the board.

Must be Submitted to Shaw

(5) Matters of organization, finance, or policy may not be taken up directly by officers of affiliated organizations without first having been submitted to the president of the College.

(6) That the College make available to affiliated institutions, if so desired, the services of the controllers' offices in an advisory or supervisory capacity insofar as methods of business procedure and accounting are concerned. This would seem especially desirable wherever College funds are involved.

(7) Recommend the immediate suspension, paragraphs 3 and 4 under the college budget rules for purposes of study and revision and their temporary replacement by the following procedure, viz. (a) board to announce general budget policy, (b) dean to determine needs of departments within their divisions, (c) dean to confer with committee comprising the president, secretary and business manager and controller to further determine accurately needs of divisions, (d) results of (b) to be submitted to finance committee of board for approval or suggested revisions before being sent to the board as a whole for final action.

(8) Report on the music department financial investigation will be referred to a committee of the board to be taken up with members of the executive board of the Michigan State Institute of Music for further study and a report at a later date.

(9) As a general policy, the president shall have the direction and supervision of all financial affairs pertaining to the administration of the institution, with the general supervision of the State Board of Agriculture.

PRESIDENT R. S. SHAW

—resolutions deal with the remaining 25 per cent of an administrative reorganization.

THE MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE RECORD

Large Class of Seniors Hears Charles Mc Kenny, '81, at Commencement

AUGMENTING that great body of alumni to graduate from Michigan State college since its founding in 1857, four hundred and forty-five seniors received their bachelor degrees Monday, June 22, at the graduation ceremonies at Demonstration hall. It was the second largest class to graduate, being surpassed in number only by the previous graduating class by thirty students.

An impressive three-hour program marked the conferring of degrees, a program to which more than 2,000 people listened. The schedule for the morning listed several notable personages, national in their renown. The main address was given by Dr. Charles McKenny, graduate of Michigan State college in 1881, and president of Michigan State Normal college of Ypsilanti, a prominent educator and scholar. "A Chapter in Social Evolution" was the theme of his address in which he stressed the fact that the past fifty years was as significant in the history of the world as any period of like duration. After comparisons of the past and present, the savant turned to a study of the future. "Graduates of character are the crying need of today, graduates who will build honestly for society," he stated. "Too many times in the past college educated men have dealt in subterfuge and chicanery."

Following the bestowing of degrees, Governor Wilber M. Brucker introduced Major-General Frank Parker, commanding officer of the Sixth Corps area. The legislator paid tribute to the soldier as a gentleman, speaking from experience of contacts in the past. The major-general spoke briefly on national defense and at the conclusion of his talk awarded commissions in the reserve corps of the U. S. army to nearly one hundred R. O. T. C. graduates.

Other highlights on the program, which was confined to talent of the student or alumni body, were numbers by the Michigan State college band, Leonard Falcon; conductor, and a solo by Miss Dorothy Holbeck, accompanied by Miss Cecile Louise Pollock. Selections by the band included the Coronation March, by Meyerbeer, as the processional, Friedman's "Slavonic Rhapsody" and the recessional, "Hail America" by Drumm. Miss Holbeck sang "Spring's Awakening," by Sander son.

The liberal arts division led in the number of degrees conferred with one hundred and twenty-five, and engineering next with one hundred and three. Two honorary degrees were awarded. Amid tumultuous applause in recognition of long years of service and research, the degree of doctor of science was tendered Rufus Hiram Pettit, of the college entymology department, who came forward on crutches to receive the token of doctor. Theodore Osborn Williams, w'85, Kent county surveyor, was awarded the honorary degree of civil engineer. Nine degrees were awarded in master of arts, thirty-four in master of science, six in doctor of philosophy, seven in civil engineering, four in electrical engineering, and four in mechanical engineering.

Invocation was by Dr. N. A. McCune, pastor of Peoples church of East Lansing.

Theta Kappa Nu won the interfraternity baseball tournament this year, defeating Sigma Alpha Epsilon in the final game of the tourney, 8-7. S. A. E. gathered the honors last year and almost duplicated their performance again by being runner-up.

Contracts for a new $30,000 home for Kappa Alpha Theta have been let, it was announced by the sorority shortly after the close of school. Our fair sisters have fallen for the new home proposition too, it seems, and merit congratulations on their success. The new house is to be located on M. A. C. avenue, and will be ready for occupancy early next fall.
Mill Tax Unchanged

Provisions of the state legislature's mill tax acts passed in the current session will give Michigan State college a sum of $1,640,284 from the state property tax during the years 1931 and 1932. The latest appropriation remains the same as that of each of the past two years in spite of proposed revisions to cut the amount while the appropriations bill was before the legislative body.

The passage of this year's bill marks the sixteenth year that placement of restrictions upon the mill tax and their subsequent removal have occurred. While the appropriation remains undiminished from that of the preceding biennium, a limit to the amount that the College can draw has been placed by the passage of the Callahan bill in the latest session. The bill confines the M.S.C. appropriation to the grant of the legislature during 1929 and 1930, where if the law had not been passed the College would have benefited from any increase in the assessment value of state property. The original levy calls for two-tenths of a mill upon each dollar of equalized state property valuation.

Had not the Callahan bill been placed in effect, mill tax levies would have followed the property valuation during 1931 and 1932, thereby netting the college administration a sum of $1,689,428 for each of the two years; a difference of $49,144 annually. Here-tofore no limits of the additional amount that the school could draw from the mill tax on increased property valuation had been in effect since 1927, when under the Grosbeck regime the maximum amount was $1,000,000.

Building and Extension Funds Suffer

Decrease in the amounts of special appropriations for the College is noted. During the current session of the Michigan law-making body no funds whatever were granted for the building fund and the appropriation for agricultural extension was cut from $335,000 to $250,000. A sum of $239,700 is left from the building funds of previous years, however, and as yet no disposition has been made of it. Determination as to the projects to be undertaken with the amount will be made within thirty days by the building committee, according to President R. S. Shaw.

Governor Brucker's self-styled program of "kitchen economy" has been extended but slightly into the appropriation program for Michigan State college during the current legislative session, the only move made in that direction being the Callahan bill. This restriction will only be in effect for the next two years, however, and at the end of this time the College will again profit by increase in property valuation unless further restriction is made.

The proceeds of this one-fifth of a mill upon taxable property is to be used to defray the current expenses of the school. Any unexpended balance after these have been paid is available for other special purposes. Disposition of any balance is left to the discretion of the State Board of Agriculture.

Be still sad heart and cease repining. The author of "Gulliver's Travels," Jonathan Swift, was an utter failure in Trinity college, at Dublin.

Alumni League Elects

At the annual meeting of the M.S.C. Alumnae league Lucile Harris Johnson, w'25, of Lansing, was elected president to succeed Margaret Zachariah, '26. The office carries with it the honor of representing the interests of the women on the executive committee of the M.S.C. Association, the general alumnae board. The name of Mrs. Johnson was certified at the annual meeting on Alumni day, June 20.

During the past several years the women have been very active in various projects having to do with the completion of lounges and rest rooms in the Union. The organization admits any alumna who has completed the equivalent of one term of work at the College. The sole purpose of the organization is one of unity among the former women students of Michigan State in molding their thoughts and interests toward their Alma Mater.

Early in the fall Mrs. Johnson will announce her new committees and outline the work for the new year.

Sylvia Thompson was "sent down" from Oxford for neglecting her studies, then at the age of 22 produced "Hounds of Spring," a best seller in 1926.
Patriarchs Celebrate

SAGE WISDOM, mellowness of years, keen interest in the alma mater for what it has been in the past and will be in the future, and atmosphere of tranquility and tenderness; these were the impressions given when the graduates of fifty years ago or more met, dined, and spoke at the patriarchs' reunion Saturday, June 20.

A strong plea for a monument to Dr. Manley Miles, former professor of agriculture and superintendent of the farm from 1861-1875, was made by Daniel Strange, '67, oldest living graduate. Stressing the fact that Dr. Miles was the outstanding educator of the College, even among a group of outstanding educators, Mr. Strange paid him the tribute of being the father of agricultural institutions in America.

Mr. Strange pointed out that Dr. Miles was one of the first professors of a college in agriculture, and did more than any other one person to further the science through his intensive scientific research. While we have Abbot hall to commemorate the memory of President Abbot, the Kedzie Chemical laboratory named in honor of Dr. R. C. Kedzie. Beal botanical gardens named after Dr. W. J. Beal, and other edifices to commemorate educators famous in the history of the College, there is no remembrance of Dr. Miles save in the minds of his students. Mr. Strange stated that there is a crying need for a monument to the man who showed such marked common sense, thorough practicality, and conducted such conclusive experimentation.

Tribute was also paid to the memory of President Abbot by Mr. Strange, who declared him to institute the newer learning in science as early as 1864, when Yale university had only reached the point that year where a scientific education was offered without compulsory and intensive courses in Latin and Greek.

J. Warren Gunnison, '66, who is now 84 years old, also paid his respects to the memory of educators under which he studied in his college days, recalling that he was present at the dedication of the College in 1857. He attended the ceremonies with his father when he was ten years of age, and as far as is known is the only person living who was present at the dedication of the College.

About fifty patriarchs were present to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the class of '81. Only six of these were of that class, the rest having graduated prior to 1881.

ALUMNI DAY HAS MANY EVENTS FOR OLD GRADS

activity of Mr. Garfield in organizing the association, who was a member of the alumni committee founding the organization but who had never held an office.

Three special resolutions were adopted by the session of alumni. It was voted to recommend to the State Board of Agriculture to change the designation of the various divisions of the College, such as liberal arts and engineering, to "colleges." It is also planned to ask the State Board for the addition of $3 to the present diploma fee of $5 in order to enlist all graduates to membership in the association.

A resolution was passed which calls for the awarding of a gold cane or some other similar keepsake to the oldest living alumnus to be retained during his lifetime and at his death passed on to a successor. This award at present would go to Daniel Strange, '67, of Grand Ledge, who is the oldest living graduate.

A vote of appreciation was given to the Michigan State college military band, who provided several musical numbers during the meeting under the capable leadership of Leonard Falcone. Promise of loudspeakers for the meeting next year was made by Dr. Frank Kedzie, to overcome the acoustics of the wide open spaces of the place of meeting.

State Shuts Out Michigan

From 3:00 to 3:30 p. m., an inspection of Sylvan hall, new dormitory for women, was offered to the returned alumni. At 3:30 p. m., everyone repaired to the baseball diamond for the final tilt between the Spartans and the University of Michigan, which was played off to the tune of a 5-0 defeat for the Wolverines. The drubbing was handed out by Chuck Griffin, Shelby southpaw.

Everyone attended the Sunset Supper held in Demonstration hall at 6:00 p. m., even the 55 golfers who had finished their tournament by then. Governor Wilber, M. Brucker gave the main address for the hundreds of alumni, expressing his confidence in the return of "sound, safe, durable prosperity" by next spring.

It was at the Sunset Supper that the winners of the baby show were announced by Mrs. James Tyson, who had charge of the event. The grand prize for the baby coming the longest distance was divided between the Owen twins, Harriet Anne and Mary Helen, who came from Winter Haven, Florida, with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Owen. '23 and '24, respectively. The prize for boys in the class from six months to one year went to Douglas Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Robinson of Detroit, '22 and '23 respectively. The prize for girls in the same class went to Barbara Louise Bishop of Holland, Michigan, by Mr. and the daughter of Mr. O. A. Bishop, '25. Two babies tied for first in the boys' class from one to three years inclusive. They were Douglas Christian Kelly, son of R. P. Kelly, '17, of Lansing, and David Charles Hicks, son of Alice Foley Hicks, '29, also of Lansing. The prize for girls in the same class went to Martha Grace Lyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Lyon, '29 and '28 respectively, of East Lansing. Robert Stimson, son of Harold C. Stimson, '16, of the prize for boys in the four to six-year class, and Barbara Jane Weil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Weil, '17 and '22, respectively, of Crestwood, New York, was winner for girls in the same division.

The college reception and alumni dance in the Union ballroom from 8:30 to midnight wrote the finale on one of the busiest Alumni Days ever to be held in the history of the Association. Music for the affair was furnished by Satterla's Blue Moon orchestra. President Robert S. Shaw and the administrative group received the visitors and bade them godspeed as they left the Campus to take up their daily toils and worries once more.

And thus closed the Alumni Day most replete with entertainment and activity, ever. May we see many more! The following were registered at the Union:

T he Michigan State college military band, one of the oldest organizations on the Michigan State college campus, has reached its present high standing through more than sixty years of development. Today recognized as a leader among college bands, it had its humble beginning in 1870 with a student, named Brooks, as leader. By 1874 the membership had increased to fifteen and the band was in great demand for state and community gatherings. During this period, many political candidates were inducted into office through its assistance in parades and meetings.

In 1885, with the establishment of a military department at Michigan State college, the band became a unit in the cadet corps and appeared for the first time in uniform. Now began a period of steady development with the band increasing its membership and activities under various student leaders. This period was climaxed when during the visit of President Roosevelt at the semi-centennial of the College, the band escorted and played for the Chief Executive of the Nation.

In 1907 a decision was made to have a faculty member as director and Professor A. J. Clark took the position, being in charge almost continuously until the appointment of the present leader. Under Director Clark the band grew in numbers from twenty-five to sixty, and extended its activities to include playing for athletic contests and other College functions. During these years through the serious effort of its director the band advanced far in its march toward national recognition.

Under the present director, Leonard Falcone, the band has continued to advance and has enjoyed the unlimited support of the administration of the college. The membership now numbers seventy-five musicians, most of whom have had considerable experience before coming to college. It now appears in strict military uniform and within the past few years a complete new instrumentation has been purchased and a larger library of music provided.

The Michigan State college military band is today recognized as one of the leading college bands in the country—an organization which is praised for its high standards of musicianship and ensemble whether on military parade, where it has always passed inspection with honor; on the athletic field, where it is the pride of the campus; or in concert, where it has established itself as a serious and proficient musical organization.

CAMPUS CONNINGS

Due to the furore caused by “gross inefficiencies” in the handling of all-campus events of this year’s graduation period, the Student Council has voted to assume all responsibility for the arrangement and management of all-campus events in the future. Action was taken by the student governing body as a result of conflict between A. W. S. and the Student Council in arranging for an undergraduate dance following Cap Night ceremonies, and the subsequent cancelling of late hours for co-eds. The old rub, brothers, the old rub.

TO DELINQUENT MEMBERS

A gain we remind those who have not contributed to the Alumni Fund this year that no gift is too small and none too large; we ask increased gifts of those who are able to give more than usual; we reiterate that the voluntary annual giving plan was adopted to care equally as well for small or large contributions.

L. T. Clark, ’04, Treas.

Alumni Hear Brucker

E xpression of sincere confidence in the return of a “sound, safe, durable prosperity” by next spring formed the keynote of the address of Governor Wilber M. Brucker before an assemblage of almost 400 M. S. C. alumni at the fourth annual Sunset Supper given in Demonstration hall Saturday evening, June 20.

It is only natural, the governor pointed out, that in times of economic stress such as these, all the imperfections of society should be emphasized. This was in reference to the governors’ conference from which he recently returned, where the gravity of many problems was brought out, especially those relating to taxation, unemployment, and land utilization.

In regard to taxation he said, “The future of the nation depends upon what the government does to lighten the tax burden. Michigan is just beginning to sense this but she is not yet as militant as other states. She cannot afford to tread water much longer. “Although Michigan seems to be facing many great problems at present,” he declared, “the government cannot feel any great discouragement or a lessening of faith in a practical policy of government.”

Praises President Hoover

Criticizing the people who are personal in their reference to those who are doing their best to conduct the government of the land, Mr. Brucker paid tribute to President Hoover when he said, “I have never felt more deeply my appreciation for the calm, level-headed leadership of the president.”

Warning that progress should not be confounded with motion the governor brought his talk to a close with an appeal for the policies of the state and national government that will lead the country back to prosperity.
“CLOSE BESIDE THE WINDING CEDAR”

Once again the Michigan State campus is deserted save for a few summer break students wending their way to and from classes. The outgoing senior class left their alma mater amid a bustle and flurry of activity. Senior commencement events followed one another in close succession, with the grand finale being Eclatir, senior men’s activity hormone fraternity, innovated a new custom this spring by tapping outstanding junior men at Water Carnival ceremonies on the banks of the Red Cedar June 11, instead of at Cap Night the previous week. George Merkel of East Lansing, and the short story by Frazer Patterson, '31. Grand Rapids. Miss Swanson also placed second in the short story contest.

Excalibur, senior men's activity honorary fraternity, innovated a new custom this spring by tapping outstanding junior men at Water Carnival ceremonies on the banks of the Red Cedar June 11, instead of at Cap Night the previous week. George Merkel of East Lansing, and the short story by Frazer Patterson, '31. Grand Rapids. Miss Swanson also placed second in the short story contest.

A compilation of Spartan songs has made its appearance on the Campus with the title of the Michigan State song book. This book contains eleven songs new popular with the students. They include: Alma Mater, M. S. C. Shadows, Dear M. S. C. Fight Song, Hall M. S. C., College Days, Fighting Spartans, Spartan Marching Song, Orchard—Men of State, M. S. C.—We Hail Thee, and Spartan Recessional. The publication sells for 25 cents, and was made possible through the co-operation of Sphinx with the M. S. C. Association.

Close competition featured the annual literary contests this year, says the Michigan State News, in announcing the prize winners for poetry, essay and short story. The George E. Lawson Essay contest was won by Lyndfer Wickett, '34, of DeWitt, poetry by E. Florence Swanson, '31. Lansing, and the short story by Frazer Patterson, '31. Grand Rapids. Miss Swanson also placed second in the short story contest.

The bitter wailings of defeated candidates in students elections are soon to become a thing of the past. No more will harsh accusations of ballot stuffing and illegal tactics be bandied about the Campus. Reason: the Student Council in the last week of spring term voted to turn over to the College faculty complete supervision of all college elections. The immediate cause was said to be suspicion of fraud in the last junior class election which also was declared void by the Council in the same session. As a result a new election in the junior class will take place about the third week of fall term next year to fill the presidency, vice-presidency, secretary and treasurership of the third year class.

President Robert S. Shaw attended the Institute for administrative officers of higher institutions held at the University of Chicago from July 8 to 10. Professor L. C. Emmons and Dean Elisabeth Conrad also attended.

Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalistic fraternity, announced its newly elected officers for next year. Jack Green, East Lansing, was named president; John Tate, Detroit, vice-president, and Earl Steimle, Benton Harbor, secretary and treasurer. Due to the recent banishment of Eczema, campus razz sheet sponsored by the local chapter, the society faces the problem of finding other methods of initiation. The razz sheet here has been the most tenacious tradition of any in the country, being the last to be abolished in American colleges.

The annual senior play, one of the highlights of commencement week this year was "Pomander Walk." Presented in the Forest of Arden June 15 with about three hundred people in attendance, the play featured 19 students. Most outstanding in dramatic ability was Thelma Cole, '31, Hillsdale; Dorothy Troth, '32, New York City; Cornel Hampton, '32, Lansing; Irma Caswell, '34, East Lansing; William Mott, '31, Chicago; Paul Younger, '32, East Lansing, and Howard Come, '31, Lansing. The production was directed by Professor E. S. King, College dramatics instructor.

About 1,400 copies of the 1931 Wolverine, Campus yearbook, were distributed during the last week of school. This year's book is conceded by critics to be "the best ever." The publication was dedicated "to the immortal spirits who built rude cabins in the wilderness and planned the first home of Michigan State College," intended as a tribute to the founders who preserved the natural beauty of the Campus through their building program. William Pratt, East Lansing, was the editor of the 29th edition, and Earl Steimle, Benton Harbor, business manager.

A memorial to the late Professor A. K. Chittenden is being prepared by the local chapter of Xi Sigma Pi, national honorary forestry society, to be presented to the forestry department early in the fall term.
Once again the Michigan State college athletic fields are populated only by the groundkeepers and perchance summer school students who take their coaching lessons as a vacation tonic. Gone are the ball players, track men and others who helped the Spartans wage a three month campaign in the intercollegiate field.

The baseball team, in conquering the University of Michigan Alumni Day, Saturday, June 30, by a 5 to 0 score, was the last to leave the Campus. The victory was the sixth annual commemoration week gift to homecoming alumni. Not since 1925 have the Wolverines been able to win a baseball tilt from the Spartans on East Lansing soil.

Not only did the victory put flourish at the end of a successful season, but it also served to add materially to the supremacy that State has held over the Wolverine nine. It was the second year in succession that Coach John Kob's teams turned in two victories out of three starts with their arch rivals, the Wolverines.

Record Impressive

The season produced ten victories, six losses and a tie game. Two scheduled games with Notre Dame university were erased by rain. State barely missed getting an even break with Big Ten competition, winning three and losing four. Indiana, Northwestern, Chicago and Michigan trimmed the Spartans while State took Michigan down twice and beat Indiana once.

Doughty Charles Griffin, star southpaw, was the principal reason for the shutout victory over the Wolverines in the rubber game of the series Alumni Day. In conquering the visitors, Griffin scored his fourth consecutive triumph over the Maize and Blue team. He gave up only six hits and fanned eight men. Taking his bat well in hand, he delivered a home run with two men on base in the big fourth that gave the Spartans a three run lead. It was not necessary to score more runs, as it turned out, but Abe Eliowitz blasted out a home run before Griffin had regained his normal breathing after his four base sprint. Both drives went into the woods in center field, mighty wall-bombs.

Kiegler Retires

Gus Kiegler, Michigan's starting hurler, was pried off the hill by those round trip smashes. He had gone along famously for three innings, yielding nary a hit. Captain Gibbs drew a life on Superko's low throw to first base, the only error of the game, by the way, to start the rundown Barnard laid down a dandy bunt and was safe when Kiegler and Diffley put on a Gaston and Alphonse act trying to decide who should field it.

Fawcett tried to sacrifice but popped to Kiegler. Here "Mistah" Charles delivered his telling wallop and Eliowitz promptly duplicated it before the dust had settled. Gus Kiegler gave up his pitching right there. Captain Tompkins came in from center field to do the pitching. He did right well, scattering six hits over the rest of the route. A pair of singles by Gibbs and Fawcett, with Barnard's sacrifice tap sandwiched between them, yielded the fifth and final run of the game in the eighth frame.

Michigan placed only one man on third base during the game. Roy Hudson produced a slashing triple to left with two out in the ninth. He withered there waiting for deliverance.

The Wolverines threatened Griffin seriously only once. In the eighth with one out Drabicke and Superko singled in succession. But with men on first and second, Breendle hit a liner to Cuthbertson who doubled Superko off first to end the rally.

Four seniors finished out the schedule with the team, John Barnard, Harris Kahl, Keith Byrne and Captain Gibbs departed.

NEW OFFICERS, REPORTS, AND RESOLUTIONS
meeting assembled at East Lansing, Michigan, June 20, 1931, that the president and the State Board of Agriculture are hereby requested to change the designation of the State Board of Agriculture to "college" to "college" and it is ordered that the secretary of this meeting send proper copies of this resolution to President Shaw and each member of the State Board of Agriculture.

RESOLUTION III
WHEREAS, A committee of this alumni association with the purpose of studying and means of increasing the financial support of Michigan State college that become members of the alumni association have studied this entire matter and made recommendations that we deem desirable and sound.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the alumni of Michigan State college in annual meeting assembled at East Lansing on June 20, 1931, do hereby request the president and State Board of Agriculture to change the fee known as the diploma fee to diploma and alumni fee, making the new fee $5.00; the additional $3.00 for the membership of the graduate in the alumni association for a total of $8.00 per annum and entitle the contributor to receive The Record during that period.

RESOLUTION IV
WHEREAS, Alumni God in His Divine Wisdom has seen fit to remove from our midst distinguished former Secretary A. M. Brown, Mrs. A. M. Brown, Professor A. K. Chittenden and many alumni and friends of Michigan State college.

WHEREAS, the former Secretary Provost A. K. Chittenden and others is a real and irreparable loss whose departure brings real sorrow to the alumni and friends of Michigan State college.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the alumni of Michigan State college in annual meeting assembled East Lansing on June 20, 1931, that we do hereby express to the families of the late Dr. Chittenden our solace in their sorrow and the hope that the memory of their lost loved one will always be cherished.

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED that appropriate copies of this resolution shall be mailed to the families of alumni that have departed this life during the past year and it is ordered that this resolution be spread upon the records of the alumni association and published in The Record.

RESOLUTION V
WHEREAS, The people of the State of Michigan through their legislature have seen fit to maintain and continue the long established mill tax plan for financing this institution, a sound plan which has been endorsed and adopted by many other states in the Union, and

WHEREAS, this system of mill tax financing makes it possible for the administrative officers of Michigan State college to plan effectively for the growth and progress of Michigan State college.

THEREFORE, we, as alumni of Michigan State college assembled in annual meeting at East Lansing on June 20, 1931, do hereby express our appreciation to the people of the State of Michigan, the legislature, and the administrative officers of the State for maintaining and continuing this sound method of financing Michigan State college.

RESOLUTION VI
WHEREAS, Michigan State college is one of the older leading educational institutions in America represented in many lines of endeavor by distinguished alumni, and

WHEREAS, the class of 1931 is the 60th graduating class from Michigan State college, and

WHEREAS, the older alumni take a keen interest in the progress and well being of this institution, and

WHEREAS, many leading colleges have appropriate tokens that are passed to the oldest living alumni with appropriate ceremony.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that we, the alumni of Michigan State college, do hereby authorize and instruct our secretary, G. O. Stewart, to institute a subscription to the end that an appropriate token may be presented to our oldest alumnus at our next annual meeting.

RESOLUTION VII
WHEREAS, The Michigan State College Alumni association has enjoyed a most effective period of accomplishment during the past year, and

WHEREAS, this has been in no small part due to the splendid work of our president, R. Bruce McPherson and the other officers of the Association.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the alumni of Michigan State college in annual meeting assembled at East Lansing on June 20, 1931, do hereby express our sincere appreciation to Mr. McPherson and other officers of the Association for their splendid efforts.

RESOLUTION VIII
WHEREAS, The growth in usefulness to the students, alumni and friends of Michigan State college of the Alumni Loan Fund and M. S. C. Alumni association has been largely due to the efforts of Glen O. Stewart and Ray H. Hyde.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the alumni of Michigan State college in annual meeting assembled at East Lansing on June 20, 1931, that we do hereby express our appreciation to Glen O. Stewart and Ray H. Hyde for their sincere and effective work in behalf of the Association.

RESOLUTION IX
WHEREAS, The terms of office of Mrs. Dora H. Stockman and L. Whitney Watkins, as members of the State Board of Agriculture, do expire on January 1, next, and

WHEREAS, Mrs. Stockman and Mr. Watkins have for many years served the State of Michigan and the Michigan State college in a most effective way, respectfully, THEREFORE, we, as Alumni of Michigan State college, in annual meeting assembled at East Lansing, June 20, 1931, do hereby express our appreciation to Mr. McPherson, Mrs. Stockman and Mr. Watkins for their long and effective service for Michigan State college.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the alumni of Michigan State college, in annual meeting assembled at East Lansing on June 20, 1931, that we do hereby extend our appreciation to Glen O. Stewart and Ray H. Hyde for their splendid work for the alumni association and publish a copy of this resolution in The Record and permanent records of the Association, and appropriate tokens to be always possessed by the proper preparatory copies of this resolution to Mrs. Stockman, Mr. Watkins and the State Board of Agriculture and it is further ordered that this resolution be placed in the permanent records of the Association, and published.

President McPherson: Is there any new business? If not, a motion to adjourn is in order.

On motion of L. O. Gordon, '06, it was voted to adjourn.

More Alumni Golfers

PRIZE winners in the 1931 Alumni day golf tournament numbered thirteen when the cards were turned in and totals taken after the 19 holes of the Walnut Hills Golf Club course. The competition was long and strenuous for the 55 entrants, beginning at 8:30 in the morning and continuing until about 2:00 in the afternoon. All competitors missed the class luncheons and morning festivities at the Union, but were unanimous in the opinion that the sport was worth it.

A tie score of 76 resulted in the low net for 18 holes. B. L. (Bud) Hewitt, 24, of Lansing, and Walter E. Vance, 22, also of Lansing, divided the honors, receiving six balls apiece as their scores did not get a place in the prize winning list, everyone had a good time regardless of the score they turned.

The M. S. C. club of Detroit with President McPherson, of Howell, president of the general Alumni Association, was voted to adjourn.

The M. S. C. club of Detroit with nine entries won the Alumni Loyalty cup presented by the athletic association of the College. The McPherson cup, donated by R. Bruce McPherson of Howell, president of the general Alumni Association, was won by the Central Michigan Alumni club. In each case the cups must be won three times before going into permanent possession of any club.

The golf balls awarded as prizes were generously donated by Tom Van Dervoort, 15, and Del Voight, 19, L. L. Frimodig, 17, acted as chairman of the tournament, and the remainder of the committee was made up of: E. B. Hill, '15, C. V. Ballard, '12, L. N. Field, w'12, K. H. McDonell, 16, and Glen O. Stewart, 17.

Even though a number of golfers did not get a place in the prize winning list, everyone had a good time regardless of the score they turned.
Above is shown a group picture of the East Lansing high school orchestra which won first place in Class C, orchestral competition, at the state music contest here on the Campus early last month. Of special significance to East Lansing people and alumni is the fact that Miss Frances Ayres, '25, directed the group, and brought victory to the local high school for the second year, defeating the well known Decatur orchestra. Miss Ayres received many hearty congratulations for her meritorious accomplishments. The personnel of the orchestra with the name of the parent in parentheses, if having some College connection, is as follows:

Second Row — Ruth Ryder, (Dean E. H. Ryder, division of liberal arts), Albert Griffin, Billy Pickett, Donald Wright, Darnell Knapp, Charles Dunford, (Professor C. S. Dunford, business administration), Clifford McKibbin, (Clifford W. McKibbin, '11), Mildred Erickson, Margaret Robinson, (C. S. Robinson, experiment station chemist), Madelayne Bennett.

Third Row — Mary Ballard (C. V. Ballard, '12, assistant county agent leader), Howard Hunt, (Professor R. H. Hunt, zoology), Robert Linton, (Professor R. S. Linton, '16, agricultural education), Roger Woodcock, (Professor E. F. Woodcock, botany), Ruth Crossman, Dorothy Baldwin, and Robert Baldwin.

Spartan Clubs

Southern California

On Sunday, May 24, the Southern California alumni, their families and friends took advantage of the generous invitation issued at our February meeting, and held a beach party at the Playa Del Rey beach home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Burnham.

A fine swim was enjoyed by most of the younger grads, after which a basket dinner, pot luck style, was served. The popularity of this type of meeting was shown by the presence of old grads for the first time in several years, and quite a few of the more recent grads for the first time.

Those who registered were as follows:

Secretary and Treasurer.

Van Buren-Allegan Meet

Over 60 former Staters met at the South Haven experiment station on the evening of June 24. Professor L. C. Emmons was introduced as the statistical encyclopedia of the College and "Mike" Casteel told of Spartan athletic achievements.

She writes: "I'm still single (bachelor, rather than old maid)!. As to politics, I prefer to scratch the ballot! I have no spectacular accomplishments to offer. '26, but all I want is time and maybe you'll be proud of me—I hope. Anyhoo' say 'hello' to the gang for me!"

William G. Winemiller is district organization manager of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, 620 E. Broad street, Columbus, Ohio. He lives at 204 W. Wooster street, Bowling Green. He adds: "Married June 20, 1928, at Battle, Ohio, to Kathleen Wise of Cincinnati, graduate of the University of Cincinnati."

Edie Ericson, Secretary
223 Linden Ave., East Lansing, Mich.

Though little more than a year out of school, '30 has scattered, and questionnaires have come in from far and near.

John R. Anderson is with General Electric company of Schenectady and lives at Ballston Lake, New York. He was married to Almeda Raymond of East Lansing on November 21, 1930.

Margaret Backofen teaches at Hillman, and remarks: "Still single! No chance for anything else here!" Her summer address is 76 W. Columbia, Battle Creek, Michigan.

Jess J. Bird is "single, independent by nature, anti-reform!" and is a potato specialist in the College extension department. He lives in East Lansing at 123 Albert.

Nathan Brewer is a student at M. S. C. and lives at 17F Wells Hall.

Elizabeth Burge teaches home economics in the Menominee high school and lives there at 1006 Stephenson avenue.

Henry W. Clapp is a student in the medical school at the University of Michigan. His home is on R. F. D. 4, Owosso, Michigan.

Ralph L. Clark is a U. S. radio inspector with headquarters at 2909 David Stott building, Detroit. He was married December 24, 1930 to Dorothy Webster of Big Rapids, Michigan, and they are living at 5104 Okman boulevard, East Dearborn, Michigan.

Albert E. Curry teaches Smith-Hughes agriculture in Lakeview, Michigan.

Charles Gibbs is assistant research professor of veterinary science at the Massachusetts State college, Amherst. He writes: "Married Myrtle Aldrich in 1921. Republican in a wet Democratic state. I am the grandfather of 1930."
"Life is dynamic, life is changing, and you must learn to adjust yourself to its changes." With this admonition Dr. Charles McKenny, '81, educator, sent this year's graduating class out into the world to gain their livelihood. That the newly graduated group yet have this to do is attested to by the fact that only a small percentage have landed permanent positions.

As a prominent writer said just recently, the first things a graduate does upon getting his passport to go out and get a job is to do an about-face to his alma mammy and educate himself into another degree. Perhaps many of this year's graduating class will do this. However, many of the class of '31 have made the proper contacts and everything points to a continuation of their successful career at M. S. C. For it is a fact that it is the ones who make a success of their college career do not do so badly after getting out into the world, as a rule. If you don't believe this cast an eye over the following:

Carl Nordberg, St. Joseph, who has played in three seasons of varsity football as a halfback, will coach at Escanaba next year. Perhaps he will have a chance to vie his proteges against those of John Kelly over at Manistique.

Lucille Morris, Lansing, who completed a four-year music course in three years, was a member of Sphinx, Mu Phi Epsilon, and leader in campus affairs, will teach music at Frankfort after September 1.

Howard Clark, of Grand Rapids, swimming star and all-around athlete, takes a position with Firestone Tire & Rubber company. He was the only graduate to be selected by that company from the College this year.

William B. Kershaw, Wyandotte fencer and this year's major of the cavalry squadron in the R. O. T. C., will take a position as assistant librarian in the Detroit public library this summer while attending the summer session of Detroit City college. He intends to go to Columbia next year to get his degree of M. S. in library science.

Florine Redfield, of Onsted, who has taken part in several Union productions and other campus affairs, will teach at Boyne City.

Gerald Breen, one of the best halfbacks on the State eleven last year, senior class president, and Excalibur, will start his coaching contract as coach of the Holland high school in the fall. Teaching the young idea, as it were, in the old home town.

Ellen Larson, of Mancelona, will teach music at Berrien Springs. She was one of the most active presidents that Pan-Hellenic has seen in recent years, as well as a charter member of Mu Phi Epsilon, women's honorary music fraternity.

Jack Ruhl, of Detroit, also a stellar half and quarterback for the Spartans and his freshman class president, will coach at Owosso.

Majel Horning, Brooklyn, veteran on the Michigan State News and co-ed editor during her last year here, Mu Phi Epsilon, W. A. A., Orchestra, and otherwise active on the Campus, will teach music at the Lake Odessa high school for the next year.

Ken Yarger, of Eaton Rapids, star outdoor and indoor track performer, and graduate of the Applied Science division, will teach at Dimondale. Not far from home.

Deci Watkins, of Dearborn, Home Economics club, Pan-Hellenic council, and indefatigable worker in campus affairs, will teach at Fordson along home economics lines.

Clare O. Jakeway, of Rockford, and Henry Hutton, of Plymouth, will continue their business careers with General Electric at Schenectady, New York, after September 1. Both specialized in accounting and will enter the General Electric general training course in preparation for important accountant positions with the company. They were the only students chosen by the corporation from the crop of business administration graduates from this school, and specialized in a high average of academic work during their four years at M. S. C.

Catherine Hawley, of Onsted, member of Kappa Delta and singer in the Glee Club, will teach at Dundee. She is a graduate of the Liberal Arts division.

Bernice Irvin, of Grand Rapids, a Chi Omega, and a member of the Home Economics club, will take a position of dietitian at the beginning of next year at the Clifton Springs Sanitarium and Clinic, Clifton Springs, New York.

Several R. O. T. C. graduates are going to take a two weeks term at summer camp before going into a permanent position. Among these are George Bauer, Garfield Thatcher, Douglass Carruthers, Glenn Lark, and LeRoy Sample.
