CHANGES IN BOARD OF AGRICULTURE

Brody Elected Head; More Fills Vacancy

Clark L. Brody, '04, veteran member of the State Board of Agriculture, was elected chairman of that group recently to succeed William H. Berkey, retired. Ellsworth B. More, '16, prominent Marshall merchant, a newly elected member of the board, was seated to fill the vacancy created when Mr. Berkey retired.

Mr. Brody, a member of the board since 1921, is no stranger to the chairmanship, having served in this capacity from 1932 through 1938. He is general manager of the Michigan State Farm Bureau.

Upon graduation from MSC with a bachelor of science degree in 1904, Mr. Brody became a farmer and from 1915 to 1921, he was county agricultural agent to St. Clair county. In 1921, he became executive secretary of the Michigan State Farm Bureau, with which organization he has been associated ever since.

Mr. More has served as agricultural agent to Calhoun county, and a member and officer of various service and social organizations in Marshall. In 1944, he was named one of 11 All-American merchants.

Betty Preston Elevated On California Paper

Newly appointed women's editor of the Glendale, Calif., News-Press is Ruth Elizabeth Preston, who received her journalism degree from Michigan State College in December, 1941.

A member of the News-Press staff for the past three years, Miss Preston previously had been editor of the Wyan- dotte, Mich., News-Herald. She is a native of Petoskey.

Miss Preston, better known as "Betty," is a member of Theta Sigma Phi, national journalism sorority and Zeta Tau Alpha, social sorority.

High Acclaim Is Given State's "Flying Classroom" Experiment

Michigan State College's "flying classroom" has crashed the national spotlight.

In mid-February a group of 212 leading educators from some 50 states climbed aboard and were treated to one of the top experiences of their professional lives. In less than a week they visited and studied 20 major business and industrial concerns in three major cities—Chicago, Detroit and New York—an achievement that a few years ago would have been impossible.

The "chief pilot," as in past trips for Michigan educators, was Prof. Carl M. Horn, of MSC's Institute of Counseling, Testing and Guidance. He steered a sharp course and was rewarded by the loudest praise for his work and his "flying classroom" idea. This appraisal from such a distinguished group of state education department officials, school principals and superintendents and college profs from all over the map, represented a long step forward in the campaign to make the "flying classroom" an approved and practiced educational technique.

What is the "flying classroom" idea? It simply involves using the transportation miracles of the air age to take students to the source of knowledge. It means elimination to some extent of the textbook, long recognized to be a sorry substitute for direct study of subject matter.

Eventually the idea is to take high school and college classes on far-flung field studies in science, the arts, government, and languages.

The tour, although sponsored by Michigan State, cost the college nothing in terms of money. The educators paid their own way throughout, including fees to the college.
Alumni Leader Glen O. Stewart Dies

Succumbs to Heart Ailment February 25

Glen Orland Stewart, 52, who had directed the Michigan State College alumni office since 1926 and who was personally known to thousands of former Spartan students, died Wednesday afternoon, February 25, at the Edward W. Sparrow hospital in Lansing.

Confined to the hospital since February 16, Mr. Stewart had been in ill health for some time with a heart condition. He had planned to leave for Florida about February 20th for an extended rest.

Mr. Stewart was a nationally known figure in the field of alumni relations, and had seen the MSC alumni organization multiply many times in size in the nearly twenty-two years he had been associated with it.

Born in Avilla, Indiana, on July 19, 1895, he was graduated from Michigan State College with a bachelor of science degree in 1917. After service with the Coast Artillery in World War I, Mr. Stewart held a variety of jobs before returning to MSC. Included among these positions were those of county club agent to Kent county, 1917-18, and Wayne county, 1919-21.

He came to the college from position of district representative to Straus Brothers company, Lansing. Mr. Stewart held the title of alumni secretary, but with the reorganization in 1941, this was changed to director of alumni relations.

At one time, he had served as editor of the RECORD, and was also director of NYA work on the campus.

Mr. Stewart had been a member of the American Alumni Council since 1926. He served as vice-president of the council in 1932-33, and was national secretary from 1933-46.

A member of the Masons and Lansing Lions Club, he was district governor of the Lions Clubs in Michigan in 1935. He has been a member of the Educational Policies Commission of the National Education Association since 1934.

Mr. Stewart is survived by his wife, the former Fanny Lee Rogers, '18; a son, John W. Stewart, a student at Michigan State College; one brother, Everett Stewart, Marion, Ind.; and a sister, Mrs. Claude Stephenson, Garrett, Ind.

If one word can characterize the life of Glen Stewart, it must certainly be the word “loyalty.” He was devoted and untiring in the service of Michigan State College, which is much the finer and greater institution by reason of his service. Alumni, students and faculty alike are the poorer for his passing, and it will be difficult indeed to fill his place. I am sure he would ask no better memorial than the continued growth and success of the institution he loved so much, and the carrying on to complete success of the programs he conceived and advanced so far under great difficulties.

—President John A. Hannah

All of us, as graduates of Michigan State College, have a certain feeling toward our Alma Mater. I question, however, if any of us has put himself to the task of instilling these feelings in others as has Glen O. Stewart. He literally gave his life to the mission of goodwill toward his college.

It is our hope that his work will be continued and be a lasting memorial to a graduate who wished and worked always for a better Michigan State College.

How does one put into words the shock of losing not only a fellow worker but a true and valued friend? For more than 20 years, Mr. Stewart and I worked together on alumni matters — worked closely and cooperatively with complete understandings of the other's deep feeling of responsibility of service to the alumni and to the college. Out of that mutual responsibility grew a friendship that makes kindred scores of alumni who experienced his thoughtfulness at all times. This is one grief we must bear without his help.

—Gladys Franks

Michigan State College and its alumni have suffered an irreparable loss in the death of Glen Stewart, our genial Director of Alumni Relations. He was proud of his college and its rapid growth and worked unceasingly to instill in its alumni his own faith and loyalty for the institution. His enthusiasm and warm friendliness left its mark on all with whom he came in contact. He had a high sense of obligation to the community in which he lived and gave unselfishly of his time and ability to make it a better place in which to live. His accomplishments will stand in our memories as a fitting tribute to his outstanding worth.

G. A. Dahlgren, MSC
Tennis Coach and Grid Great, Dies Feb. 26

The game is over for Gordon A. Dahlgren, 36, assistant Michigan State College football and head tennis coach who was buried in Lansing Evergreen cemetery February 28.

"Jake," as he was more intimately known, died February 26 following a lingering illness. Diagnosed two years ago as a victim of the Hodgkins disease, Jake refused to remove himself from the workaday world. Last November, he was granted a leave of absence from his job, to which he never returned.

His high school athletic acumen at Chicago Lindblom was developed as a backfield ace in football. However, it was in the Michigan game of 1934 that his coach, immediately in need of a guard, called on Jake. From then on, Dahlgren's name was read in the lineup at guard. His senior year in 1936 found his mates naming him honorary captain of the team.

MSC Ag Team Makes Fine Showing

Michigan State's livestock judging team made one of the best records in recent years at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth, Texas. Out of a field of 16 college teams competing, the MSC team placed third. In individual judging, the team ranked second in hogs, fourth in cattle, sixth in horses, and seventh in sheep.

Lyle V. Springer (third from left), Lansing junior, was the high man of the entire group of 80 contestants. Robert Snyder (center), Chicago junior, placed 11th in the contest.

1948 Farmers' Week Draws More Than 30,000 Persons To Campus

Farmers' Week, resumed after a two year lapse, drew more than 30,000 farmers and their families to the campus for the week long program.

The theme chosen for this year was "Better Farming for Better Living," and exhibits and programs were planned by each department in the school of agriculture to carry out this idea.

The new agricultural engineering building was used for the first time during the week and featured 60,000 square feet of floor space filled with displays of new farm machinery, building materials, irrigation equipment, and fire fighting machinery. Other exhibits showed the work of each department and included samples of prize-winning grains and potatoes.

The College station, WKAR, carried many parts of the observance. Two broadcasts of the WLS "Dinner Bell" program were presented from the campus and at week's end, WJR's farm editor Marshall Wells interviewed extension editor Earl Richardson on his program, "Farming Marches On."

The final broadcast of the week took the story of MSC's work in agriculture coast to coast. More than 100 radio stations of the American Network carried the "American Farmer" program. Dr. John A. Hannah, together with two farmers, George Farley, Ag. '29, of Al-bion, and Ernest Ruehs (Short Course '07, '08, '09), of Caledonia, were interviewed by Earl Richardson. Their discussion dealt with the work of the Land Grant colleges in the past and plans for future aid to rural people.
Swanson Sings In New York Town Hall Concert April 20

J. Herbert Swanson, associate professor and head of the voice department of Michigan State College, will be presented in a Town Hall concert in New York, April 20. He will be accompanied at the piano by another of MSC's distinguished artists, Ernst Victor Wolff. The presentation at Town Hall is one of notable achievement, and it is there that promising musical artists get their most severe test by the top concert critics of the nation.

Swanson has been a member of the Michigan State College faculty since 1946, when he succeeded Prof. Fred Patton as head of the voice department. Previously he had been a member of the music faculty at the University of Minnesota and Colorado State College.

He left Colorado State College to go to New York for a concert career. He became a bass soloist for the National Broadcasting Company and made many concert appearances and assisted Robert Shaw with the Collegiate Chorale and the Victor recording choirs. Swanson's concert repertoire includes over 800 songs and arias in eight languages.

Prior to his concert, Swanson will conduct a concert tour of five engagements in the Michigan area.

Powell, Zindler Win Plant Scholarships

James H. Powell, East Lansing, and Richard E. Zindler, Lansing, mathematics juniors at Michigan State College, were named as the L. C. Plant scholarship winners at the annual banquet of Pi Mu Epsilon held recently in the Student Union.

The Plant scholarship award is made annually to one or more students majoring in mathematics, who have been judged the most outstanding in the department by the Dean of the College of Science and Arts, and the faculty of the Department of Mathematics.

Enrollment Decreases Slightly; New Co-ed Dorms Open By Fall

Enrollment for the winter term at Michigan State College took a slight drop from the record high of 14,979 which was registered in the fall quarter. The winter enrollment was at 14,413 representing a decrease of 566 students.

Along this same line, it was revealed that Michigan State College would be able to better accommodate more of its students during the new school year. Starr Keesler, director of housing, announced that the completion of two new women's dormitories would make room for approximately 435 additional co-eds on the Spartan campus for the 1948-49 school year.

Room for 210 additional women students will be made available during the Spring term when completion of the last half of Yakely Hall is scheduled. Gilchrist Hall, which is expected to be completed by August 1, will provide housing for another 225 co-eds.

Building Program Is Progressing Rapidly; Two-Thirds To Be Completed This Year

Everywhere on the Michigan State College campus of today, the building program, undertaken to provide urgently needed facilities for Michigan college students, is progressing by leaps and bounds.

An alumnus returning to the Spartan campus after an absence of five or ten years would hardly recognize the old "camping grounds." Expansion has taken place on all sides of the central units, paralleling the rise of student enrollment from 3,272 in 1932 to 14,979 in the fall term of 1947.

The current building program calls for the construction of 16 classrooms, laboratory and dormitory buildings, 11 apartment buildings for married students and faculty members, and additions to the Macklin field stadium and the Student Union.

Cost Is $25,000,000

The cost of the program is approximately $25,000,000, although less than half of this amount is to come from state appropriations. Almost $14,000,000 has been secured through loans for "self-liquidating" constructions such as dormitories, apartments and the stadium addition. The Michigan legislature has appropriated $7,000,000 toward the construction of a group of buildings, total cost of which will be approximately $11,000,000, and the State Board of Agriculture has been assured that the additional funds will be appropriated.

The State Board of Agriculture is wholly dependent upon state appropriations for structures which produce no revenue. Constructions in the present program of this type include Berkey Hall, a classroom building accommodating 3,200 students, home management laboratory, general science building, physics and mathematics building, agricultural engineering building, electrical engineering building and the steam generating plant.

The "self-liquidating" buildings being constructed with borrowed funds, to be repaid from such incomes as student payments, rents, and athletic receipts, are four men's dormitories, three women's dormitories, a dormitory food storage building, 11 apartment buildings for married students and faculty members, and additions to the stadium and Union.

Completion Due in 1950

Present plans call for the completion of the entire program by the fall term of 1950. Already completed are the Berkey Hall classroom building, the home management laboratory, agricultural engineering building, Snyder-Phillips dormitory for men, and Landon Hall for women.

Buildings which are expected to be completed this year include the electrical engineering building, steam generating plant, Gilchrist Hall, the second half of Yakely Hall, finishing touches on the apartment building, and of course, the stadium expansion. All of the other constructions will probably be ready for occupation during the 1949 year, with the exception of the last two men's dormitories, which are not expected to be ready before the fall term of 1950.

Although this program goes a long way towards bringing Michigan State up-to-date, the administration has emphasized that this undertaking will actually only equip the college to educate about 7,000 students, according to normal standards of adequacy and efficiency. In view of this, the need has been voiced for additional structures, the most pressing of which are a new library and an animal industries building.

It will also be remembered that the current construction program, impressive as it is, only makes good in part the accumulated deficiencies of years. Until the present state-financed program was undertaken in 1946, not a single classroom or laboratory structure had been erected on the campus at state expense since 1932. This was true even though enrollments at Michigan State College had been increasing at the rate of 700 students a year since 1932.

KEY TO PICTURES:

1. Concrete columns rise on north end of Macklin Field, where 11 rows of seats will be increased to 46.
2. Football Coach Clarence "Biggie" Munn points proudly at another section of the stadium, as construction work goes "full blast."
3. The power plant which will have three boilers, is located south of the Red Cedar river and southeast of the football stadium.
4. The partly completed electrical engineering building, which is being erected southwest of Redstone Chemical Laboratory and northwest of the bandshell.
5. The home management building, which is located northeast of the Horticultural building and east of Berkey Hall.
6. No doubt familiar to all is the Student Union building, which is in process of major revision. Covered with canvas is the new wing, which is gradually taking shape.
7. The physics building, which will accommodate also the mathematics and astronomy departments, is being erected east of the present Anatomy building.
Union, Stadium To Be Greatly Expanded

The work on the Student Union is one of almost total revision. All guest rooms will be torn out, and the Union will become a structure for student activity offices and recreational purposes. The old section of the Union will house all student publications, and in addition will have seven offices for use by various student organizations. The new wing being added to the Union will house 16 bowling alleys, a billiard room, game room, music room and a series of 12 rooms for holding conferences, luncheons, parties and similar meetings.

Completion of the expansion project at the Macklin Field stadium is expected in plenty of time for the September 25 game with the University of Michigan. The construction will increase the seating capacity from 27,000 to 51,000. This will be accomplished by adding 21 rows on the sides and from 11 to 46 rows in the ends. With the completion of this expansion work, Macklin Field will be the sixth largest stadium in the Mid-West, being exceeded in seating capacity only by Michigan, Ohio State, Illinois, Minnesota and Notre Dame.

The eleven apartment buildings, which have already been occupied in entirety but which have not been finally completed, will house 184 families. Built of brick, these buildings have "efficiency apartments" with roll-away beds for couples without children, and one-bedroom, and two-bedroom apartments for families with children.

Three of Seven Dormitories Completed

The home management laboratory is made up of four separate apartment units, each including kitchen, living room, dining room, bedrooms and baths to give practical training to co-eds. A number of girls live in these units each quarter to become experienced with the fundamentals of house management.

Of the seven dormitory units to be built as part of this present program, three have been completed; another, Yakely Hall for women will be fully occupied for the first time during the Spring term of this year; and Gilchrist Hall, also a women's dormitory, will be ready for occupancy by the Fall term of 1948. Snyder-Phillips Hall, a dual-construction, similar to Mason-Abbott Hall, is at present housing approximately 1,320 students, but during normal times would accommodate only 880. Yakely Hall provides housing for approximately 450 co-eds.
MSC's Baseball Team Swings Into Action

By W. Nicholas Kerbawy
Sports Editor

Veteran coach John H. Kobs has run flush into a new problem while doing what comes naturally at this season of the year.

The veteran mentor is preparing his 24th edition of Michigan State College's baseball team, which, since last season, has become a vulnerable target for professional baseball. He's getting ready for the season which will open with the customary training trip in Dixie, followed by a 19 game home schedule.

No less than nine members of last year's squad, which annexed 16 victories in 24 games, forfeited additional college eligibility by signing their names to professional league contracts. Included was a trio of pitchers and Captain Martin Hansen, fancy-pegging shortstop from Flint.

Losses to Pros Hurt

On the firing line, Kobs lost Robin Roberts, Don Harris and Rod Morgan. All right handed flipper Roberts was wooed by the Philadelphia Phillies with a tune of $25,000, while Harris and Morgan, signing for lesser amounts, will toil for the St. Louis Browns and New York organizations, respectively.

Pitchers being pretty important gents in this game of baseball, Kobs cast around and found Dick Dieters and Neil Rickets, both promising performers a year ago, available for this year's squad. Dieters, a sophomore from Detroit, earned a letter last season with the varsity while Rickets, sophomore from Lansing, won an award with the junior varsity.

A pair of fancy-pitching football quarterbacks, Gene Glick and Bob Krestel, are taking their first turn at college baseball as is Jim Blenkhorn, who toiled magnificently last fall at fullback. Glick and Blenkhorn both hail from Saginaw while Krestel's home is in Swissville, Pa.

A trio of portsidek has appeared on the horizon, and should be a welcomed addition to the staff. George Johengen of North Collins, N. Y., Charles Dietrich of Emily City and Jay Sauer of Detroit, all left-hand sophomores, are toiling earnestly towards recognition.

Ericksen Leading Batter

Posing equally troublesome for Kobs is the problem of catchers. Bucky Walsh, regular shock absorber last year, graduated leaving Ed Zbiciak and Elwood Sutter, a pair of former part-time workers, on deck.

Veteran performers hold the inside track around the horn. Dick Massuch of Lansing and Ed Erickson of Dunkirk, N. Y., will continue their battle for first base with Marvin Mansfield, a newcomer from Cleveland. Mansfield is a younger brother of Art Mansfield, head baseball coach at University of Wisconsin. Erickson was the team's leading sticker last season, with an average of .308, followed closely by Second Baseman Ed Barbarito.

Veteran Outfielder

Pat Peppier

Barbarito and Jack Dillon, Grosse Pointe junior, both vie for the keystone sack while utility infielder Danny Urbanik of Flint and veteran Dick Mineweaser of Pontiac race for third. Frank Bagden, versatile performer from Rockford, Ill., who toiled in the infield, outfield and once behind the plate last season, has the original cut at shortstop being pressed by Joe Barta, sophomore recruit from Hamtramck.

Veteran Outfield

Pat Peppier, senior from Milwaukee, Wis., George Rutinbar, Detroit Redford junior and Ed Sobczak, junior from Pittsburgh, Pa., are veteran fly chasers ready to perform again while Joe Bechard, Detroit sophomore, saw service during the closing portion of the 1947 season.

This year's southern trip, 20th to be taken, will send the Spartans against six opponents opening March 22. All opponents have appeared on Michigan State's barnstorming trips in past years. Last spring's 3-2 defeat suffered from North Carolina was the Spartans first setback in two years of southern barnstorming.

Southern schedule:

March 22, 23, South Carolina at Columbus; March 24, 25, Newberry at Newberry, S. C.; March 26, 27, Presbyterian at Clinton, S. C.; March 29, North Carolina at Chapel Hill, N. C.; March 30, Wake Forest at Wake Forest, N. C.; March 31, Duke at Durham, N. C.

The home schedule is as follows:

At Home: April 21 and 22, University of Wisconsin; May 8, Michigan Normal College; May 15, Western Michigan College; May 18, University of Detroit; May 22, University of Notre Dame; May 26, University of Michigan; and June 4 and 5, Ohio University.

Away: April 9 and 10, Ohio State; April 16 and 17, Northwestern; April 24, University of Detroit; April 30 and May 1, Ohio University; May 12, University of Michigan; May 29, University of Notre Dame; and June 1, Western Michigan College.

SPORTS SHORTS

George Armstrong Custer III, great grand nephew of the late American Civil war general and Indian fighter, was a 1948 member of Michigan State's varsity fencing team.

Because of an academic deficiency, Abel Gilbert, Michigan State's ace free-styler last year, was unable to compete with the Spartan swimming team this year. Abel helped Coach Charles McCaffree, Jr., conduct home swimming meet, serving as a meet official.

Four Spartans Aim For Olympic Games

This being an Olympic year, most amateur athletes are being given a shot in the arm. No exception to resulting effects are Michigan State fortunes both in track and swimming.

Front-center in the Spartan camp are Jack Dianetti, slender middle-distance runner, Horace Smith, the nimble-footed hurdler, and George Hoogerhyde, the Spartans' ace distance performer in swimming.

Running alongside is Bill Mack, whose long strides and unceasing durability has carried him to many top honors in the mile run. Mack transferred last fall from Drake to Michigan State, and while he's been running this season as an unattached entry (waiting for a year to lapse for the transfer-eligibility rule), he's labeled as almost a sure bet to catch fire for Olympic consideration.

Dianetti arrived on campus two years ago from East Rochester, N. Y., heralded as one of the nation's leading prep milers. He's borne out all fancy things said of him, but henceforth is to be regarded as an 880-yards runner and not the mile. "We've learned Dianetti is best suited for the 880," Coach Karl A. Schlademan explained, "but he still is a pretty dangerous miler. We'll work him carefully and see what happens. Personally, I believe he'll be one of the six candidates to qualify for the Olympics 880-meters."

Smith, nimble timber-topper from Jackson, proved his quality when he scampered over the 75 yards indoors in 9-seconds flat and over the 75 yard low sticks in 8.5-seconds during the indoor season. He still holds the state high school 120-yard high hurdles record of 14.6 which he set in 1941, and added knowledge in college has improved his efficiency indeed.

Hoogerhyde is being hailed as one of the finest distance swimmers to come along in years. A sophomore from Grand Rapids, he annexed the NCAA 1,500 meters diadem last spring in 19:14.2. Throughout the dual-meet season last winter, Hoogerhyde broke record after record as a 220 and 440-yard competitor while grooming himself for the real distance grind.

Highlights of Michigan State College's indoor track season was reached here February 7 when a turn-away crowd of 6,000 witnessed the 26th running of the Michigan State Relays in Jenison fieldhouse.

Ten meet marks were shattered including the shot put that had Charley Fonville of Michigan establishing a new world's indoor record at 56-feet, 6 1/2-inches. While no team championship is declared, Ohio State annexed six first places, Penn State three, Michigan State and Michigan two each to lead the parade.

MSC Track Team Prepares For Twelve Outdoor Meets

Coach Karl A. Schlademan's track team, full-packed with honors won during the current indoor season, has a nifty outdoor schedule coming up which includes dual meets at home with Penn State and Marquette and engagements at Champaign, Ill., with mighty University of Illinois, and at South Bend with Notre Dame.

All told, Schlademan's charges will have their direction focused on 12 meets outdoors. Opening up will be the Texas Relays at Austin which will attract a select Spartan entry, April 3, and the NCAA-Olympics meet June 11 and 12 at Minneapolis.

One quadrangular meet is on the agenda with Michigan, Purdue and Ohio State at Columbus. Drake, Penn and Kansas Relays will also attract Spartan competitors as will the IC4A meet in New York City.

The schedule:

April 3, Texas Relays at Austin, Texas
April 17, Quadrangular meet with Michigan, Purdue, Ohio State at Columbus, Ohio
April 17, Kansas Relays at Lawrence, Kansas (Bill Mack of MSC will challenge the Glen Cunningham mile).
April 23, 24, Drake and Penn Relays
May 1, Marquette, here
May 8, Penn State, here
May 15, at Notre Dame
May 27, at Illinois
May 28, 29, IC4A at New York
June 11, 12, NCAA-Olympics tryouts at Minneapolis
July 10, AAU Olympics tryout at Milwaukee.

Michigan State College's football stock gets a boost for 1948 as George Guerre, the Spartans' leading offensive weapon for the past two seasons, proves that his leg broken last fall against Kentucky, has fully healed. Left, George sprints in Jenison fieldhouse to strengthen the mended bone, just above the right ankle. Right, a closeup of the powerful legs that drive this 5-foot, 6-inch, 160-pound human dynamo from Flint. Guerre's main ambition now is for a successful dedication of MSC's enlarged football stadium against Michigan's Big Nine and Rose Bowl champions next fall.

George Szypula, Michigan State's gymnastics coach, is a former four-time holder of the National AAU tumbling championship.
Following Alumni Clubs

Pie-Eating Award
Given Daugherty
At Grand Traverse

"We certainly gave 'Biggie' a work-out," was my report to Glen Stewart following the February 9 and 10 visits in Grand Traverse Bay area by head football coach "Biggie" Munn and Hugh "Duffy" Daugherty. The two Spartan coaches made a very favorable impression Tuesday evening, February 10 when they appeared before more than 80 members of the M.S.C. Alumni Club of the Grand Traverse Bay area at the Park Place hotel in Traverse City. "Duffy" became the champion cherry pie consumer. President Eric Sleder, '36, presided during the dinner program. After talks by the coaches we adjourned to the Cherry Pit of the hotel where many more alumni and townspeople gathered for a free showing of the Hawaiian game and travel pictures.

South Bend Sponsors Rally

More than 40 alumni attended a dinner-meeting held on February 19 to renew friendships formed on the Spartan campus and to hear LaVerne "Kip" Taylor, varsity end coach, report on the athletic program at M.S.C. Taylor also showed two color films of the gridiron action in State's 58-19 victory over the University of Hawaii and the other picturing the events of the trip.

The highly successful affair, held in the Walnut Grove Community Hall, was under the direction of Alex J. Jaroff, '40, newly elected president. Joe Goundie, Jr., '41, Assistant Director of Alumni Relations, gave a brief talk describing recent developments on the campus.—Harold V. Loveland, '12, 1231 E. Wayne St., South Bend, Indiana.

Bay City Organizes

After a lapse of 20 years, the M.S.C. Alumni Club of Bay City was reorganized on February 7 by Glen O. Stewart, Director of Alumni Relations. Rudolph E. Boehringer, '27, federal court probation officer and star quarterback of Spartan teams in the mid 'twenties, was elected president. Other officers who will serve with Boehringer are LeRoy Englehardt, '44, vice president, and D. June Walraven, '45, secretary-treasurer.

Fifteen persons were named by the organizing group to serve as a Board of Directors. Alumni named for one year terms are Paul W. Briggs, M.A. '42, W. E. McCarthy, '15, Miss Walraven, William W. Smith, '42, and State Representative A. C. MacKinnon, '35. Two year terms will be served by Boehringer, Englehardt, Jacqueline Vallez, '46, Mrs. Dunbar McBride (Margaret Webb, '26), and Mrs. Robert Emmons (Grace Pennington, '15). Those appointed for three year terms are Charles Anthony, '46, Mrs. H. Robert Vaughn (Ruth Thorburn, '45), Dunbar McBride, '25, Charles E. Johnson, '42, and J. Harry Nelson, '10.

The club plans a dinner meeting of all alumni, wives and husbands, at the La Chateau south of Bay City on Monday night, April 5, with President John A. Hannah as featured guest and speaker.—June Walraven, '45, secretary.

Cleveland Alumni Cheer Team

A sizable block of seats were occupied by Michigan State alumni of Cleveland when the Spartans engaged the Western Reserve five in Cleveland on January 17. "Jimmy" LaDu, assistant manager of the Carter hotel and president of the M.S.C. Alumni Club of Cleveland, was responsible for this fine showing, which was probably a factor in the Spartans' 65-57 win. The group plans to hold its annual dinner meeting later in March or April.—Jacqueline Snyder Macomber (Mrs. J. W.), '41, secretary.

Detroit Alumni Meet in Windsor

A capacity crowd of nearly 300 grads and guests of the M.S.C. Alumni Club of Detroit, packed the ballroom of the Prince Edward hotel in Windsor, Tuesday evening, February 10, for a Founders' Day dinner-dance.

Confined to his bed with the flu, general chairman Coy Eklund, '39, substituted his co-worker, Bob Gay, '42, who emceed the entertainment and program like a veteran. Eight groups in the dining room named song leaders and selected old time songs for a singing contest. Alumni Secretary Glen O. Stewart, Club President George Culp, '33, and his guest, Dr. Rachael McClelland, served as judges. Ralph Young, Director of Athletics, reported briefly on winter sports and told of the progress on enlarging the Macklin Field stadium.

Dr. John A. Hannah, the Founders' Day speaker, told briefly of the establishment of Michigan State College and then addressed the group on "Education in This Changing World."

Following the dinner program the club members and their guests enjoyed dancing until midnight.—Ruth Koehler, '42, secretary.

Old Grads Meet at Standish

Following the organization last fall of a four-county M.S.C. Alumni club comprising Arenac, Gladwin, Iosco, and Ogemaw counties, the group started a year of activity with more than 70 men and women meeting in Standish on January 15 at the Trading Post restaurant.

Glen O. Stewart, Director of Alumni Relations, was guest speaker. He described the huge expansion of the college, the role of an active alumni club, made some predictions for M.S.C.'s future and showed colored movies of the Hawaiian trip taken by the football squad in December.

The Board of Directors serving the club consists of the following: from Arenac county—Mrs. Robert Savage (Helen Ellis, '35), Dr. Connor Smith, '30, and Paul Pennock, '39; from Gladwin county—Mrs. J. L. Hunter (Sylvia Bates, '32), W. Elgin Laycock, '38, and Rev. Sidney Rood, '41; from Iosco county—Cecil F. Kerr, '46, Mrs. Rex Milligan (Helen Ilkka, '38) and Richard Null, '46; and from Ogemaw county—R. B. Coulter, '21, Mrs. Jesse Baird (Irene Marthen, '22) and Robert Marshall, '34.

From the above Board the following officers were named for the current year: president, Ralph Coulter, '21, West Branch; vice president, Rev. Sidney Rood, '41; Gladwin; secretary, Paul Pennock, '39, Standish; and treasurer, Cecil Kerr, '46, Oscoda.

The club has tentative plans for a summer picnic and anyone moving into any of the four counties should notify the secretary at his office in the Court House in Standish.—Paul Pennock, '39, secretary.

Minnesota Club Meets

Zero weather of January 31 did not stop more than 50 enthusiastic Michigan Staters of the Minnesota Alumni Club, meeting with Glen O. Stewart at the Continuation Study building on the afternoon of the basketball game with the Gophers.

In the roll-call of old grads present, Ralph E. Duddles, '12, of Excelsior, was voted the honor of being the oldest grad in attendance while Carl Bleil, '47, was the most recent graduate.

Richard Reeves, '40, president of the club, presided and introduced the Director of Alumni Relations, who dwelled at length on the progress of M.S.C. in the post-war period. Alumni participation in the Memorial Center Fund project was discussed by Harry K. Wrench, '18, member of the National Alumni Advisory Council. Colored movies of the Homecoming football game with Iowa State were shown by Mr. Stewart.

That evening the group made up a strong cheering section at the basketball game between the Spartans and the Gophers in the Minnesota field house.—Harry K. Wrench, '18, secretary.

Michigan State College graduates and former students from Arenac, Gladwin, Iosco and Ogemaw counties had a successful reunion in Standish January 15. More than 70 persons attended the get-together in the Trading Post restaurant.

Oakland County Entertains

Colored football movies of the Hawaiian game and the 40-minute travelogue of that trip last December were the attraction in Oakland county when the M.S.C. Alumni club packed 250 men and boys in the Birmingham Community house on January 14. Harold Gasser, '25, president of the club, in introducing Head Coach "Biggie" Munn, "Kip" Taylor, and "Duffy" Daugherty, told of the fine work done last fall by the Spartan coaching staff and praised their fine attitude toward the young men under their tutelage. Guests of the club included many outstanding seniors from Oakland county high schools.

Plans are being made to hold the annual dinner meeting of the M.S.C. Alumni Club of Oakland county at the Birmingham Community House on April 28, with President J. A. Hannah, as the speaker of the evening.—Earl L. Clark, '26, secretary.

Adrian Hears Daugherty

Alumni in the Lenawee county area met in the First Presbyterian Church in Adrian February 26 to hear Hugh "Duffy" Daugherty, varsity line coach, report on the expansion of the athletic program on the State campus. Joe Goundie, Jr., '41, Assistant Director of Alumni Relations, accompanied Daugherty and gave a review of recent campus developments.

Plans are being formulated under the guidance of Frazer H. Tubbs, '34, president, for a full year's program as well as active participation in the Memorial Center Fund program.—Mrs. Fred E. Morse, '05, secretary, Jasper, Michigan.
Donald Stroh, '15
Now Major General

Major General Donald A. Stroh, '15, was appointed in the Regular Army from civil life in June 1917, and assigned to the Cavalry. He spent World War I as a captain, 17th Cavalry, on the Mexican border and in Hawaii. Transferred to the Infantry in 1920 he served at various stations in the United States and the Philippines, including a five-year tour with the Organized Reserves in Detroit.

The start of World War II found him as a colonel, intelligence officer of the 85th Division, which had been "Detroit's Own" during World War I. Upon his promotion to brigadier general in July of that year, he was assigned as the assistant to the division commander, 9th Division, with which unit he participated in the campaigns in Africa, Sicily, and Normandy.

Promoted to temporary major general in the summer of 1944, he took command of the 8th Division just preceding the St. Lo breakthrough, and led that division through Brittany, Luxembourg, and the bitter fighting in the Hurtgen Forest. After the Bulge, Stroh was designated to take command of the shattered 106th Division, which was completely rebuilt, and later was given the task of guarding and administering nearly 920,000 German prisoners of war.

He was selected by a board of senior officers in November 1947, as a permanent major general in the Regular Army.

Stroh was awarded six campaign stars, the Distinguished Service Medal, Legion of Merit (Oak Leaf cluster), the Bronze Star Medal, and certain foreign decorations.

His wife is the former Imogene Finger of North Carolina. Their only son, Harry, a West Point graduate of 1943, was killed in 1944 while a Thunderbolt pilot of the 9th Air Force, while supporting his father's division in an attack on Brest. Their daughter, the wife of an Army officer, resides in California.

While in college, Stroh was a battalion commander of the old cadet regiment, and one of the first members of the local chapter of Scabbard and Blade—a fact in which he takes great pride.

Catherine Jackson
Becomes Executive
In Milwaukee Firm

One of Michigan State's younger alumnae, Miss Catherine M. Jackson, '42, has recently been appointed head of the home economics department of the National Enameling and Stamping company of Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

As "Betty Ware Browning," Miss Jackson's duties include supervision of the NESCO home economics department and test kitchens. In addition she will work with the engineering department and research departments in developing and improving NESCO housewares and appliances. Miss Jackson has already started assisting the sales department in training distributor's home economists, demonstrators and utility home service advisors in the use and care of NESCO products.

A native of Jackson, Michigan, Catherine is the daughter of Ronald B. "Duke" Jackson, of the class of 1916. Immediately after graduating from college she was a dietitian at the Toledo, Ohio, YMCA camp and a student in the dietary department of Michael Reese hospital in Chicago. In 1943 she entered military service, serving as a medical department dietitian. She held the rank of first lieutenant at Truax Field, Madison, Wisconsin. After leaving her work in the Army she was on the staff at Massachusetts General hospital in Boston and just prior to accepting her new position with NESCO she was chief therapeutic dietitian at the North Side Youngstown hospital in Youngstown, Ohio.

Pinkerton Becomes
Railway President

Charles A. Pinkerton, Jr., '33, was recently promoted to president and general manager of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway company.

After receiving his engineering degree from Michigan State College in June, 1933, Pinkerton spent several years in the Chrysler corporation in Australia and Todd Motors in New Zealand. Entering the armed services in 1941, he rose from the rank of second lieutenant to that of lieutenant colonel in the ordnance department before the end of hostilities.

In September 1948, he joined his father, Charles A. Pinkerton in the railroad business and after his father's death recently, was selected by the board of directors of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway to succeed him as president. Pinkerton had been serving as vice president and general manager of the railroad.

W. C. Honeywell, a leader in Virginia's agriculture with a record dating back to 1924, ended his official duties on October 31 as head of the Soil Conservation Service in the "Old Dominion State." A banquet in his honor was given in the Hotel Patrick Henry in Roanoke, with Dean Hutchinson of Virginia Polytechnic Institute relating some of Mr. Carrier's contributions to agriculture. Soon after joining the department staff at V.P.I. in 1908, Mr. Carrier started pasture experiments and seed testing. Through his efforts began what is now the Virginia Crop Improvement association, and his work with grasses was so thorough that many of his findings are still the key to successful grassland farming. In 1914 he went with the USDA on a special assignment to study forage crops. He was also the U.S. Golf association's chief consultant on turf for many years and is credited with having developed through research the fine grasses now so popular for lawns and golf greens. In 1924 he left the USDA to produce and market grass seed commercially. He returned to Virginia in 1935 to direct the work of the Soil Conservation Service and has had much to do with farming and developing the work of this agency. An outstanding authority on the history of agriculture in this country, he plans to continue studies and writings of historical and scientific value.
