Conferral of Baccalaureate Degrees
Spartan Stadium, 4 P.M.
The pageantry and color at commencement exercises reveal a record of academic achievement of the various individuals taking part in the exercises. The following brief description is given that the audience might more readily interpret such achievement.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, met at Columbia University to draft a code which would serve to regulate the design of gowns and hoods indicating the various degrees as well as the colors to indicate the various faculties. This code has been adopted by most of the colleges and universities in America and its use has made identification of scholastic honors an immediate activity.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. The arm goes through a slit, giving the appearance of short sleeves for the master's gown. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

Historical associations of color have been continued to signify the various faculties. Arts and letters can be recognized by the white, taken from the traditional white fur trimming of the Oxford and Cambridge Bachelor of Arts hoods. Red, long traditional of the church, indicates theology. The royal purple of the King's court signifies law. The green of medicinal herbs immediately identifies a medical degree. Philosophy is signified by the color of wisdom and truth, blue. Because through research untold wealth has been released to the world, science is identified by golden yellow. Oxford pink indicates music, and russet brown, the color of dress worn by ancient English foresters, indicates forestry.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the bachelors graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

Michigan State University, one of the leading land-grant universities and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in affording liberal and practical education for its students in a broad range of human endeavors.

MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension and international programs.

Now in its 118th year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 staff members engaged in teaching, research and public service, 428 buildings, and approximately 5,000 acres of land of which 2,010 acres are in existing or planned campus development.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day — farming — MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The University now has the School for Advanced Graduate Studies and 16 colleges — Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Justin S. Morrill, Lyman J. Briggs, Natural Science, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, Veterinary Medicine and the University College. Nearly 200 areas of specialization are available to undergraduates; approximately 300 are offered for graduate students.

The Honors College, which enables superior students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation’s finest young scholars. Michigan State University also is a prominent sponsor of the National Merit Scholarship Program, comprised of an unusually select group of scholars.

One of the many innovations in higher education made by Michigan State University is its coeducational academic-residence halls. Incorporation of classrooms and faculty offices with living, dining and recreational facilities has given these giant dormitories, now nine in number, a stimulating academic environment. Each of these halls is the center of curricular and noncurricular activities, creating a “college within a college” atmosphere.

The “small college within the larger university” concept was introduced at MSU by the establishment of the Justin S. Morrill College, which offers a limited enrollment liberal education program with an international emphasis. The concept was expanded by the establishment and opening of the James Madison College and the Lyman J. Briggs College. James Madison offers a curriculum for the study of public policy problems within the framework of the social sciences and related disciplines. Lyman Briggs makes available a liberal curriculum for students especially interested in science and mathematics.

Today, more than 41,000 students attend the University at East Lansing. About 80 percent are from Michigan, representing every section of the state. Students also come from every state in the nation and 83 foreign countries.
In the land-grant tradition it pioneered, Michigan State University is concerned with research and service as well as teaching.

All colleges and the Agricultural Experiment Station are engaged in a wide range of research. Approximately 2,000 individual projects are in process. The University's research tools include the Control Data 3600 and 6500 computers, a 50-million-volt cyclotron, and the MSU Observatory which houses a three-ton, 24-inch reflecting telescope. Modern facilities include the following buildings: chemistry, biochemistry, psychology research, veterinary medicine, plant science research, natural resources, food science, pesticide research, and Life Sciences I.

Through an agreement with the Atomic Energy Commission, MSU has become a national center for basic research on plants and their reactions to radiation; involved is a $2 million building, a staff of approximately 90 persons and an annual budget of approximately $1 million.

Benefits of the University are brought to every county in Michigan by the Cooperative Extension Service and the Continuing Education Service. Their programs, on and off campus, provide a wide range of technical information and formal course work for hundreds of thousands of Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 50,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

Michigan State University's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, Michigan State University maintains research and educational assistance projects in Asia, Africa and Latin America. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

With more than a century of educational achievement behind it, Michigan State University continues to apply its academic and physical resources to the problems of today and the challenges of the future.
HONORARY DEGREES

HENRY L. CAULKINS

As an agriculturist and business executive you have succeeded in many activities through your intelligence and vision. To the people who know you, and to many who do not, you are an exemplary citizen who has unselfishly shared the rewards of his success with his fellow men. The Pewabic Pottery in Detroit, which you gave to this university and which has been developed into an adult education center, is one of the appreciated symbols of your generous concern with the improvement of education and human service. There are many others, including the scholarships which you have contributed to our Institute of Agricultural Technology; they have assisted nearly six hundred young people in the Institute's Agricultural Production Program. Because of your notable contributions to education and your unswerving devotion to bettering the condition of your fellow citizens, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

OSBORN ELLIOTT

Your career as a journalist has been an outstanding one. As a reporter for the New York Journal of Commerce and associate editor of Time magazine, you carried out a variety of assignments with vigor and imagination. In your present capacity as chairman of the board of Newsweek you have had a pervasive and salutary influence on contemporary journalism. You have left the mark of your keen judgment, incisive wit and engaging personality on that very informative magazine. In its pages, as in all your journalistic endeavors, you have shown a penetrating insight into human affairs and a constant devotion to truth. Because of your deep interest in the well-being of all the American people, you have worked vigorously and continuously to encourage their cultural and social progress. As a writer and responsible citizen you have demonstrated your loyalty and sincere concern for the principles of intellectual freedom and human dignity which are essential to the fabric of our democracy. Because of the valuable contributions which you have made to the advancement of your profession and to cultural life in America, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.
HONORARY DEGREES

Percy L. Julian

Your record of achievement as a scientist and educator has brought you international recognition. As a specialist in organic chemistry, you have made outstanding contributions to knowledge. Your discovery of a process for extracting sterols from the soybean and using them in the production of cortisone has given to millions of people throughout the world an effective, inexpensive means of relieving the severe pain of inflammatory arthritis and other diseases. In the laboratories and classrooms of DePauw and Howard Universities, as well as other institutions, you have been a dedicated teacher, bringing insight and wisdom into the lives of your students. Because of your intellectual integrity and your accomplishments, you have been a valued consultant and research director for corporate industries, and you have had a distinguished executive career as president of the Julian Laboratories. In recognition of the advancements which you have made in man's scientific knowledge, and your humanity in devoting your life so unselfishly to the service of mankind, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Science.

Russell G. Mawby

In the years since you received your baccalaureate and doctoral degrees in horticulture and agricultural economics at this university, you have followed a distinguished career as an educator and foundation executive. Your work in agricultural economy, both as teacher and scholar, has been dedicated to the discovery of new knowledge and the uses of that knowledge to improve human welfare. Your contributions as an extension specialist in marketing and in public affairs education were a further expression of your initiative, intelligence and concern for social service. In your present capacity as president of the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, you have shown an exceptional talent for resolving difficult educational and administrative problems with skill and imagination. Because of your unusual accomplishments and the credit they reflect on this institution, and because of your significant role in promoting the economic and social welfare of our society, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Laws.
Don A. Jones

Class of 1933. A rear admiral in the United States Navy, Don Jones is retired director of the National Ocean Survey for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. Admiral Jones was appointed acting director in 1970 and last year President Nixon appointed him director. Since 1968 he had served as director of the Environmental Science Services Administration’s Coast and Geodetic Survey and prior to that he was associate administrator of ESSA. During World War II, Admiral Jones served with the Coast Artillery and the Office of Strategic Services, rising from the rank of ensign to lieutenant commander. In 1957 he served with the State Department as project chief for Geodetic Control Surveys in Ethiopia until 1961 when he became associate director of the Coast Survey for Hydrography and Oceanography. For his performance on the Ethiopian Project, the Department of Commerce honored him with a gold medal representing the Exceptional Service Award. From July 1963 to November 1965, he was assigned to the USC&GS Ship Surveyor and after serving one year as executive officer he was appointed commanding officer for the remainder of the tour.

John C. Rosenkrans

Class of 1947. John Rosenkrans, first president of Eisenhower College, has received national acclaim for his efforts in the establishment of this school in 1966 which is named for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Prior to his election to the presidency of the college that year, Mr. Rosenkrans had served as founding co-chairman of the Founding Committee of Eisenhower College and as acting chairman of the Board of Trustees. Long active in civic and business affairs in Seneca Falls, New York, Mr. Rosenkrans was considered to be the driving force behind the establishment of the new college. Under his leadership, local groups raised more than one million dollars in the Seneca Falls area, obtained permission from General Eisenhower to name the college for him and was awarded the first charter to be granted by the New York Board of Regents for a new independent college in more than a quarter of a century. Prior to his association with the college, Mr. Rosenkrans was a prominent figure in the insurance business and he has been accorded numerous awards for his efforts in that field. His activities in community affairs have included serving as an elder in the Presbyterian Church, a former director of the Kiwanis and Chamber of Commerce, past president of the Seneca Falls Historical Society and founder of the Seneca Falls recreation program.
Class of 1953 and 1954 (M.A.). Mrs. Shertzer is known as a world traveler, a popular public speaker, and author of several articles on broadcasting, public relations, education and automotive topics. A consumer affairs representative at Ford Motor Company's World Headquarters in Dearborn, Michigan, Mrs. Shertzer is the firm's first woman to be employed in public relations at the management level. Prior to her association with the auto company which began in 1970, she was director of school relations for the Dearborn Public School system for four years. Mrs. Shertzer has held an interest in broadcasting ever since she made her debut at the age of five on a Battle Creek radio station. She was a pioneer in educational television and during her eight-year association with the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village as manager of its educational television department, she wrote, produced and starred in nearly 200 nationally distributed television programs. The recipient of many awards, Mrs. Shertzer is listed in "Who's Who of American Women," "Who's Who of the Midwest," "The Royal Blue Book," "Dictionary of International Biography," and "Community Leaders of America." She was named one of 2,000 Women of Achievement in 1969 and is included in the "Directory of Foremost Women in Communications." She received the 1969 Headliner Award of Theta Sigma Phi — the highest award bestowed by the national society of women in journalism/communications. Mrs. Shertzer was elected national president of American Women in Radio and Television, Inc., in 1969 and presided over the organization's first international convention held in London, England, in April, 1970. She currently serves as a trustee on that organization's Educational Foundation Board. She is a member of the Andrews University Board of Trustees, the Michigan Women's Commission, the Detroit Press Club, and the Advisory Board of Kinder Kollege Educational Systems, Inc.
