Conferral of Graduate Degrees

Conferral of Baccalaureate Degrees
Spartan Stadium, 4 P.M.
The pageantry and color at commencement exercises reveal a record of academic achievement of the various individuals taking part in the exercises. The following brief description is given so that the audience may more readily interpret such achievement.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, met at Columbia University to draft a code which would serve to regulate the design of gowns and hoods indicating the various degrees as well as the colors to indicate the various faculties. This code has been adopted by most of the colleges and universities in America and its use has made identification of scholastic honors an immediate activity.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor’s gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

Historical associations of color have been continued to signify the various faculties. Arts and letters can be recognized by the white, taken from the traditional white fur trimming of the Oxford and Cambridge Bachelor of Arts hoods. Red, long traditional of the church, indicates theology. The royal purple of the King’s court signifies law. The green of medicinal herbs immediately identifies a medical degree. Philosophy is signified by the color of wisdom and truth, blue. Because through research untold wealth has been released to the world, science is identified by golden yellow. Oxford pink indicates music, and russet brown, the color of dress worn by ancient English foresters, indicates forestry.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

Michigan State University, one of the leading land-grant universities and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in affording liberal and practical education for its students in a broad range of human endeavor.

MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension and international programs.

Now in its 124th year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 faculty/staff engaged in teaching, research and public service, 386 campus buildings, and more than 5,100 acres of land of which 2,010 acres are in existing or planned campus development.

Today, more than 44,000 students attend the University at East Lansing. About 85 percent are from Michigan; the remainder includes more than 1,200 foreign students from 85 countries.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day — farming — MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The University now has a Graduate School and 17 colleges — Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Justin S. Morrill, Lyman J. Briggs, Natural Science, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, University College, Urban Development, and Veterinary Medicine. Some 200 programs of instruction are available to undergraduates; 76 departments offer graduate studies.

MSU has embarked on a $17 million privately-funded capital program to provide greater academic excellence in four key areas. The objectives of the program are:

To build and equip a new major performing arts center;
To complete the first construction phase of a new museum building;
To strengthen the present Library and to establish a “Library of Tomorrow” on campus; and
To endow a number of faculty chairs in pivotal academic disciplines.

The campaign is under the direction of the Office of University Development.

MSU is unique nationally in that the Colleges of Human Medicine, Osteopathic Medicine, and Veterinary Medicine are located on the single campus.

The Honors College, which enables superior undergraduate students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation’s finest young scholars. Michigan State University also is a prominent sponsor of the National Merit Scholarship Program, which includes an unusually select group of scholars.

One of the many innovations in higher education made by Michigan State University is its system of academic-residence halls. Incorporation of classrooms and faculty offices with living, dining and recreational facilities has given these large dormitories a stimulating academic environment. Each of these nine halls is the center of curricular and noncurricular activities, creating a “college within a college” atmosphere.
The concept of the "small college within the larger university" was introduced at MSU by the establishment of the Justin S. Morrill College, and was expanded by the establishment and opening of the James Madison College and the Lyman J. Briggs College. James Madison offers a curriculum for the study of public policy problems within the framework of the social sciences and related disciplines. Lyman Briggs makes available a liberal curriculum for students especially interested in science and mathematics.

In the land-grant tradition it pioneered, Michigan State University is concerned with research and service as well as teaching. All colleges and the Agricultural Experiment Station are engaged in a wide range of research. Approximately 3,000 individual projects are in process. The University's research tools include the Control Data 6500 computer, a cyclotron of the sector-focused type capable of accelerating protons to 50 MeV (60,000 miles per second), and the MSU Observatory which houses a 24-inch reflecting telescope, a computer and related equipment. Facilities are acquired and continually adapted to strengthen the research capabilities of the University.

Through an agreement with the Energy Research Development Administration, MSU has become a national center for basic research on plants and their reactions to radiation; involved is a $2 million building, a staff of approximately 90 persons and an annual budget of approximately $1 million.

Benefits of the University are brought to every county in Michigan by the Cooperative Extension Service and the Continuing Education Service. Their programs, on and off campus, provide a wide range of technical information and formal course work for hundreds of thousands of Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 50,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

In broadening the scope of educational opportunity, the University is responding to the growing needs of non-traditional students who, for a variety of reasons, have interrupted or delayed their college studies. MSU's Lifelong Education Programs and Continuing Education Service augment credit and non-credit programs for work toward degrees, to update current skills, to meet new government or professional requirements, to change career patterns, or to make leisure time more productive.

Michigan State University's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, Michigan State University maintains research and educational assistance projects on a world-wide basis. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

With more than a century of educational achievement behind it, Michigan State University continues to apply its academic and physical resources to the problems of today and the challenges of the future.
HONORARY

THOMAS STEPHEN FOLEY

As Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee your leadership and wisdom have been invaluable during a period when such issues as farm prices and production, and the food stamps program, have become more difficult than ever before. You bring to your present tasks solid training and varied experience in the profession of law and in public service. Educated at the University of Washington and the University of Washington Law School, you have been associated with a law firm, have served as deputy prosecuting attorney of Spokane County and as assistant attorney general of the State of Washington, and have been an instructor in constitutional law at Gonzaga University. After serving as assistant chief clerk and special counsel of the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs of the United States Senate, you were elected to the House of Representatives in 1964, where your energy, hard work and intelligence have won you respect and admiration. For your service to the nation and to the world through your concern with the vital area of agriculture, and for your exemplary achievements in public life, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

DAMON JEROME KEITH

As Judge, United States Court of Appeals, Sixth District, you continue your illustrious career of service to the law, and to the state and the nation. Your decisions as federal district court judge have, in this decade, given new hope to all who long for a just society. Your work on the Michigan Civil Rights Commission, the Detroit Housing Commission, the United Negro College Fund, the Mayor’s Health Advisory Committee, and the Committee for the Administration of the Federal Probation System, and your work in behalf of the Y.M.C.A. and the Boy Scouts, have not prevented your contributing time and effort to many other socially significant organizations and commissions. The legal profession has benefited profoundly from your work in revision of the criminal code and as Commissioner of the State Bar as well as from your participation in the education of lawyers. You have won major recognition from leading professional and civic organizations as an outstanding citizen and as a churchman as well as for distinguished judicial services. In 1974 you received the Springarn Medal of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People—the organization’s highest honor. This University has previously named you to a Distinguished Citizen Award. Now, in recognition of your outstanding service to justice and to society, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.
