On the cover is Beaumont Memorial Tower, constructed in 1928, a gift of John W. Beaumont, class of 1882. Restoration of the tower, carillon, and clock was completed in 1996, reviving the bell which had been silent since 1987. Beaumont Tower once again is a functioning symbol of the beauty and strength of Michigan State University.

DIPLOMAS WILL BE MAILED TO DEGREE RECIPIENTS APPROXIMATELY ONE MONTH AFTER THE END OF THE SEMESTER.

MSU is an affirmative-action, equal-opportunity institution.
In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, introduced an academic costume code which by design of gowns and hoods would indicate the various degrees, and which by colors would identify the various faculties.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor’s gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round, and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of the bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree (e.g., green and white for MSU; burnt orange and white for the University of Texas; blue and gold for UCLA). If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department of faculty to which the degree pertains.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science. Generally, the code for the velvet of the hood is the same as listed below for tassels.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

| College of Agriculture and Natural Resources | Maize
| College of Arts and Letters | White
| Business Economics | Copper
| Communication Arts and Sciences | Peacock Blue
| Speech | Silver Gray
| Education | Light Blue
| Engineering | Orange
| of Human Ecology | Maroon
| Human Medicine | Green
| James Madison College | Citron
| Natural Science | Golden Yellow
| Nursing | Apricot
| Osteopathic Medicine | Green
| Social Science | Citron
| Veterinary Medicine | Dark Gray
HONORARY DEGREE

CONNIE BERUBE BINSFELD

During your distinguished career in public service you have received bipartisan praise for your civility, grace, and collegiality in working with all members of government to enhance life for all citizens of Michigan, especially the most vulnerable.

You served eight years in the State House of Representatives and eight years in the State Senate. In both the House and the Senate you held leadership roles and drafted bills that received national recognition, in many cases serving as national models. You introduced Michigan’s first legislation addressing domestic violence, sponsored the Quality of Life Bonding Bill that improves the environment as well as Michigan’s state park system, and authored the Sand Dunes Protection Act.

Your support for children and families highlighted your eight years as Michigan’s Lieutenant Governor. In 1991 you led the Binsfeld Special Commission on Adoption that helped reform Michigan’s adoption system, and in 1994 you chaired the Michigan International Year of the Family observance. In 1995, under your leadership, the Children’s Commission generated numerous research-based recommendations to study, evaluate, and recommend changes to programs, policies, and statutes to ensure the safety and well being of children in Michigan.

Your public policy initiatives have been successful in part because of client-sensitive research early in the policy planning process followed by experimentation and testing in clinical settings. Tapping into the intellectual resources of the university has been one of your signature approaches.

You are the only woman in Michigan history to hold leadership positions in the House, Senate, and the Executive Office. You have served on numerous national agencies including the National Park System Advisory Board. Your many honors include the American Academy of Pediatrics Child Advocate Award. You were named Michigan Mother of the Year in 1977 and inducted into the Michigan Women’s Hall of Fame in 1998.

In recognition of your public service achievements on behalf of children, families, communities, and the environment, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE

LAURENCE S. EAGLEBURGER

Your significant contributions to the nation’s foreign policy during a long and distinguished government career have made you one of the most influential diplomats of this century.

Your first assignment in Honduras was followed by a posting in Yugoslavia where you led government efforts to provide medical and other assistance after a severe earthquake. President Jimmy Carter later named you ambassador to Yugoslavia. You served as a member of the National Security Council staff working on European affairs and as special assistant to Under Secretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach. You were Dr. Henry Kissinger’s assistant during the Nixon presidential transition and then his executive assistant at the White House. You also served as advisor and chief of the political section of the U.S. Mission to NATO in Brussels.

You returned to the State Department with Secretary Kissinger and, in 1975, you became Deputy Under Secretary of State for Management. In the Reagan Administration you served as Assistant Secretary of State for European Affairs and Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs. President Bush appointed you Deputy Secretary of State in 1989. In that capacity you served as envoy to Israel during the 1991 Gulf Conflict. You became Acting Secretary of State and then Secretary of State in 1992.

You have been recognized in many ways for your service to the nation. You received the President’s Award for Distinguished Federal Civilian Service in 1976, the Presidential Citizens Medal in 1991, the Department of State’s highest honor, the Distinguished Service Award in 1992, and an honorary knighthood from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II in 1994.

Since leaving government you have served as distinguished visiting professor of international studies at the University of Virginia and lectured at other colleges and universities. In your role as teacher and mentor, you emphasize the importance of knowing local history and the people involved in decision-making when attempting to understand relations between countries. You currently serve on a number of boards and are Foreign Policy Advisor to a Washington law firm.

For your important contributions to foreign relations, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE

DORIS KEARNS GOODWIN

You are an historian who has engaged public interest in the history of twentieth century presidents. Your compelling historical narratives bring Presidents Roosevelt, Kennedy, and Johnson to life.

Your 1993 book, No Ordinary Time: Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt: The Home Front During World War II, won the Pulitzer Prize and was on the New York Times best seller list for six months. The Fitzgeralds and the Kennedys, also a best seller, became a six-hour TV miniseries. Out of your special access to President Johnson you wrote Lyndon Johnson and the American Dream, which was called “the most penetrating political biography” one reviewer had read. Reviewers routinely praise the authenticity and accessibility of your writing; they admire your ability to make readers feel they are present at the events and understand the players.

You earned a Ph.D. in government at Harvard University and taught there for ten years, including the course on the American presidency. You also worked as Lyndon Johnson’s assistant during his last year in the White House and later assisted him with his memoirs. We see you regularly on the PBS “News Hour with Jim Lehrer” and other news programs. Your expertise on both presidents and baseball has informed some of the best PBS documentaries in recent years. You have also written frequently on politics and baseball for both national publications.

In your 1997 memoir, Wait Till Next Year, you shared your love of baseball and books and the importance of both in your life. By describing games to your father you learned the art of narrative that has served you so well in all your writing.

For your accomplishments in making history come to life, your ability to share your enthusiasms for both scholarship and sport, and your status as a role model for young women, I am pleased to confer on you the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE

FRANK J. KELLEY

Since assuming the office of Attorney General in 1962, you have compiled a distinguished career as Michigan’s chief law enforcement officer. Your work to control crime and drug abuse, to develop an aggressive consumer protection program, to vigorously support efforts to enhance the environment, and to advance civil rights and civil liberties has been nationally recognized.

You are a leading public official in the fight to dispose safely of high level nuclear waste. You were the first state attorney general to create a Consumer Protection Division, an Environmental Division, and a Medicaid Fraud Division.

You served as the first Michigan president of the National Association of Attorneys General. Your numerous honors include the Eleanor Roosevelt Humanities Award from the State of Israel and the Wyman Memorial Award from the National Association of Attorneys General for being the attorney general who did the most to advance the cause of justice. You were the first recipient of the Phil Hart award for your contribution to consumer protection and were awarded the Special Conservation Award from the Michigan United Conservation Clubs in association with the National Wildlife Federation for contributions to the preservation of the environment. You received the Outstanding Law Alumni Award from the University of Detroit School of Law Alumni Association and continue your involvement as a lecturer and friend of the Detroit College of Law at Michigan State University.

Your passionate dedication to the public interest and your great integrity and high ethical standards have won the admiration and respect of all those who have worked with you.

For your dedication to the people of Michigan and your commitment to the highest professional standards throughout your career, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities from Michigan State University.
HONORARY DEGREE
C. PETER MAGRATH

Your contributions to higher education, particularly education in the land-grant tradition, have had an important influence on Michigan State University and other research universities in the United States. As president of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, you lead the nation's oldest higher education association whose 194 member institutions enroll more than 2.9 million students, claim more than 20 million alumni, and award approximately a half-million degrees annually.

At NASULGC you obtained a $1.2 million grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation to establish the Commission on the Future of the 21st Century State and Land-Grant Universities. The 25 university presidents on this commission are studying and reporting on the special issues facing public research universities at the end of the twentieth century.

For two decades before going to NASULGC in 1992, you served as president of three public universities: the State University of New York at Binghamton, the University of Minnesota, and the University of Missouri System. You have also held faculty and administrative posts at Brown University and the University of Nebraska, Lincoln. You are the author of numerous books, monographs, and articles on American constitutional law and history, higher education, and international affairs.

Among your roles with numerous commissions on higher education, you have a long history of leadership in international education, including a presidential appointment to the Board for International Food and Agricultural Development between 1977 and 1983. Currently you are chair of the Interassociation Liaison Office that promotes international education and development on behalf of the six leading U.S. higher education associations.

For your dedication to and support of higher education, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE
BARNETT ROSENBERG

Your discoveries of new cancer drugs have brightened the prospects and prolonged the lives of cancer patients around the world. Louis Pasteur noted that "chance favors the prepared mind," and you were particularly well prepared with degrees in physics and a rich background in chemistry, mathematics, and biology. You embody creativity: you see what others see but often think differently about the observations.

In 1963, as a relatively new Michigan State University faculty member, you were studying the effects of electric fields on cell growth and division. Because of your talent and insight, you and your colleagues were able to develop new classes of anticancer drugs using platinum. In 1968 you demonstrated that the new drug cisplatin was effective in treating advanced cancer in mice. When the FDA approved this simple but unique compound for human use, it was the first cancer chemotherapeutic agent containing metal.

Now cisplatin and carboplatin are perhaps the most effective and widely used treatments for cancer. Platinum drugs are being used increasingly in combination chemotherapy that are proving to be successful against a variety of tumor types. Researchers are exploring the pharmaceutical uses of other metal compounds because of this pioneering work at MSU.

Your other research interests focus on the fundamental basis of aging and mortality in organisms and human populations. You have published more than 150 articles in the scientific literature. Now professor emeritus, you are using royalties from your patents to support the nonprofit Barros Research Institute where you continue to explore novel research ideas.

You have demonstrated all the fundamental elements of the scientific mind: skepticism, wonder, imagination, and critical thinking. You have always encouraged your students and colleagues to value fundamental studies. For your talent, creativity, and dedication to science, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Science from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE
BEATRICE MEDICINE

You are a Sioux elder known for outstanding leadership and scholarship in tribal, national, and international arenas. As a leader with great vision, you have transformed institutions, communities, groups, and individuals. As a teacher and mentor your influence has extended to more than thirty colleges and universities and thousands of students in the United States and Canada. As a scholar you have helped change the way Native Americans are viewed and understood by others and even by themselves.

Your own education includes a master's degree from Michigan State University. You earned the Ph.D. in cultural anthropology from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. South Dakota State University, where you earned a bachelor's degree, has honored you three times as a distinguished alumna.

Your work has added depth to the field of anthropology and affected public policy in the United States and Canada and at both tribal and federal levels. You were the first scholar to document on a national basis Native women's perspectives through history, politics, family, and cultural traditions. Other scholars around the world have invited you to present the results of your research to their institutions and professional societies.

Although you retired from California State University at Northridge a decade ago, you continue to teach, conduct research, write, and serve your many communities. In 1991 the American Anthropological Association honored you with its Distinguished Service Award. Tribal leaders have honored you as the Sacred Pipe Woman of the Sun Dance.

Your courage, commitment, and perseverance have made you an important role model for students. Many, especially Native women throughout North America, recount your encouragement to pursue advanced degrees and challenging careers. Your life demonstrates that, while borders exist, determination and academic preparedness can transcend them.

For your service to community, your commitment to teaching, and your substantive contributions to scholarship, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities from Michigan State University.

REMARKS

ALMA MATER

M.S.U., We love thy shadows
When twilight silence falls,
Flushing deep and softly paling
O'er ivy-covered halls.
Beneath the pines we'll gather
To give our faith so true,
Sing our love for Alma Mater
And thy praises, M.S.U.
(The Band, Mr. Morris and Audience)

RECESSINAL

The MSU Symphony Band

We would like to express our appreciation to the staff for their assistance at the commencement exercises. The audience is requested to remain at their seats while those in the processional are entering and leaving the arena.
