The Military Hop.
The first military hop of the semester was held last Friday evening. This was the first social event in the newly decorated drill hall. The change from dull brown and brick red to brighter and more cheerful colors was agreeable, would be putting it a little too mildly. Inside, a few simple decorations with flags, bunting and potted plants made the armory a lovely place.

The party was a success in every way. Nearly sixty couples, including a number of guests from the city, were in attendance; and from eight to eleven-thirty o'clock they kept the floor well filled. There were fifteen regular numbers and seven extras, for which Bristol's orchestra furnished music.

The M. A. C. reserves, originated by Lieutenant Bandholtz and under his management have been very successful. The following is the committee for this year: Chairman, Captain Warren; reception, Captain Merkel; invitation, Captain Austin; finance, Captain Patriarche.

Football.

Last Saturday was the day that Ypsilanti was to play football at M. A. C. Thursday of this week Manager Merkel received a card from the Ypsilanti manager which read as follows:

Ypsilanti, Oct. 23rd, 1897.

Mr. Merkel,
We have one man on our team who lives between your city and Ypsilanti. Will he be all right to play? The faculty requires us to notify all teams. Knowing that none but college men be allowed, we will have him playing. He also wrote Principal Boone requesting that none but college men be allowed to come. Friday Mr. Merkel received a telegram from Mr. Glaspie saying, "Will play regular team or cancel game...wire come or not...." Mr. Merkel then cabled him to cancel the game.

The attitude of the Ypsilanti team is the most flagrant violation of all rules governing intercollegiate sports that has yet come to our notice. We had something to say last spring about athletics who were playing on baseball teams and who did not come under the rules of the association; but these men were at least students at the colleges they represented. Now what shall we say about a team that does not come under the rules of the association? These thoughts were voiced by someone in saying something about it if their faculty had not required them to notify all teams. What shall we say of a faculty that, even under such a condition, would allow an outsider to play on a team representing a college supp'osed to be in favor of pure athletics? Would not our athletic association, would not our Board of Trustees, be justified in refusing to engage in athletic contests with such an institution? D. J. C.

M. A. C. RESERVES 18—EATON RAPIDS 0

The M. A. C. reserves played their first game with Eaton Rapids high school team on Saturday winning by a score of 13-0. Eaton Rapids turned the toes and chose good back Sanford kicked off to the 20 yard line where the ball was downed. M. A. C. then obtained the ball on a fumble and carried it over the line for the first touch-down in three minutes from the time it was kicked off. During the first half M. A. C. made three touch-downs but failed to kick goal in each case. In the second half the defense of Eaton Rapids was greatly improved, making it impossible for our men to score more. The only goal kicked was made by Sanford on a drop kick. A very friendly feeling existed between the players throughout the game. An attempt will be made to secure a game with Eaton Rapids on the campus next Saturday. Sanford, Millar and McCue made good gains for M. A. C., and McArthy for Eaton Rapids.

Honolulu.

Following is part of an article on "Fiji and Honolulu," by James A. Bulkeley, of the Eclectic Society: A run of nine days from Fiji brings one to the Hawaiian Islands, of which Honolulu, standing on an island of the same name, is the capital. This island is surrounded about four miles by land and is the largest of the group. It is a sub-tropical region inhabited by a red race who wear the skins of the animals that they hunt. The native word for "beautiful" is "Aloha" and the word for "love" is "auahi a"; their bodies are painted with red clay, and their hair is cut in a strange and peculiar manner.

Honolulu at the present time is in the midst of an important crisis. Several revolutions have occurred during its recent history, the last of which culminated in the deposition of ex-Queen Liliuokalani and the declaration of a republic. The people have become tired of this form of government and desire to be annexed to the United States. But the population is largely Japanese, and Japan must be considered in the matter. The probable outcome is, accordingly, rather obscure, though not unimportant. Hawaii is an interesting and picturesque country. The cliffs up which the native women can ascend with ease are said to be a wonder such as the Pyramids. Here it was that the Rev. Father Damien found his life's work, sacrificing himself in striving to ameliorate the sufferings of these stricken people.

The natives of these islands are totally different in type to those of Fiji; somewhat broader in the shoulders perhaps, but shorter in stature, stronger and coarser in features, and lacking that promise of intellectual ability so prevalent in the refined features of the latter. Their early history, however, has proved them to be equally loving and more ferocious. It was among these islands and at the hands of this people that Captain Cook met his death on his memorable voyage from the then newly discovered Australia. Things have changed since a visit to Hawaii! In 1867 finds the telephone and bicycle where but a few years since the horses and mules reigned supreme. Yet if we get away from the coast, back into the interior, we still find traces of the old customs and customs. Here we can see native villages, groves of coconuts, and the miniature surroundings that go to make the island so interesting to strangers. But as the years pass by even these things begin one by one to disappear. Civilization may be all we claim it is, and yet it seems a pity that it has encroached on the waters of the South Pacific. The natives are fast disappearing, and in a few years hence will be but a memory. The tree that was there were, and with them will go the canoes, the Papau, the old-time songs and dances, and all that now goes to make the islands the wonderland they are.

The Last of Base Ball.

Two interesting games of base ball were played on the campus Saturday afternoon. In the first game the Wells Hall boys defeated a nine picked from the rest of the College and known as "Becker's Colts" by a score of 15 to 0 in seven innings. The second game was between the Sub-faculty and Juniors and was called at the end of the fourth inning on account of darkness. This game was choosing exciting, the score standing 8 to 7 in favor of the Sub-faculty. The feature of the game was the try out of Adams and Gould in the first inning; the heavy hitting of the Sub-faculty; and Hoyt's catch of a fly off Manson's glove. Lieut. Bandholtz umpired both games.

A Curious Potato.

Walter T. White, of Newaygo, is the possessor of a very peculiar potato, according to the Newaygo County Democrat as follows:

It measures 15 inches in one circumference and 10 inches in the other. One side has a cavity the dimensions of a hen's egg, and is filled by a bunch of young potatoes evidently attached to the inside, and in a fresh, growing condition. If it was an animal body containing a portion of another animal of the same kind or species, we should have a very queer cyst or tumor. The rest of the potato is solid growth of edible nature. One germ, vegetable or animal, cannot or overgrows another germ and sometimes only a small portion of inside grows. Sometimes in the human body only a tooth or lock of hair is found in these cysts. I do not know what variety of potato it is.

The manual work, and in addition they will receive a practical training which will mean much to them after leaving school. This education will fit them for any one of the industrial life about them, and will prepare them to take hold of the manual work of life on their side. But best of all, this training will teach the boys to work. It will not give them the skill of life. They will soon understand that there is no surer nor better way of getting a living than to work for it. Labor is not drudgery when the skilled hand is guided by the clear brain. The education of the youth should not be a preparation for the occupations they will follow in after life, and as about nine out of every ten of our city boys will or should follow industrial pursuits, it is only right and proper that their preparation should be larger than these lines. In view of those facts, it does not seem right that our high school courses should be arranged for the one instead of the other. This is the case with the high schools of this State.

The manual training school of Muskegon will mean much to the girls of that city as well as to the boys. There is a slight the two. In addition to their other studies to cook, to sew, and to understand and appreciate the beauty of the home. This school instead of teaching one girl Latin for four years will teach her cooking for one. This does not mean that these eight girls shall learn nothing but cooking, but it does mean that the health and beauty of the home, as such that when the responsibilities of life come upon them later on, they will be fitted for the conduct of the family household and intelligence. This education will prepare them to become good housekeepers.

May the time soon come when industrial training will be one of the important features of the public school system of this and every other state of the Union.

Chillingham Park and its Wild White Cattle.

HERBERT W. MUMFORD.

To most of us there is a certain fascination for everything antique. An old book, a piece of china, or furniture which has been carefully preserved and handed down from one generation to another, is considered a valuable article of family possessions. Recounting of the history of such relics is not infrequently listened to with great interest and by those not directly concerned.

It is with this thought in mind that we undertake to give a brief account of Chillingham Park and the Wild White Cattle to be found within its borders.

Chillingham Park, which is situated Chillingham Park and is considered to be one of the wildest and most beautiful parts of the county of Northumber-

We are slow to appreciate, how ever, as we leave the railway station at Alston and gradually ascend to the highest part of Chillingham Park, 1,300 feet above the sea level, that we are really in a large valley nearly surrounded by the Cheviot Hills. We cross here and there little brooks which add much to the attractions of the Park.

While you could scarcely say that Chillingham Park is densely wooded, it is true that the parts of it do on occasion open a little too far. This, just enough perhaps not only to furnish a variety to the landscape, but also to furnish the conditions which we would expect would favor the protection and success of the wild white cattle which are found within this Park, namely—near by forest into which the cattle can retreat when alarmed of man. Here is a chance with a great variety of grasses growing on the open. The rolling country is too an advantage to the peace of the restless beasts, for over the brow of a hill they can retire.

As you enter the lodge gate opening into the drive that leads up to the castle, nothing is in sight save the drive and the front of the Castle. This is the case on either side by massive trees which give you almost the sensation standing in the presence of a lonesomeness. Your feeling of lonesomeness is not at all banished by the sight of a number of a modern football game. This accounts for the presence of the wild cattle in such a place.

Our hearts may be still farther warmed to know that with these walls dwells a lady who will day be Lady Tankerville, and in whose veins runs American blood, English noblesse appearing to appreciate the womenliness and wealth of our American girls fully as much as the English. American girls, this may be termed a distinguished title, "An even exchange is no robbery." But it was to tell about the wild cattle.

We will scarcely have space to talk of the considerable number of rare and purest of the wild cattle are de- after years of selection. This accounts for the presence of the wild nature of the cattle and the indigenous character of the Park. It is thought by some authorities that Chillingham Park was enclosed as early as 1220 A.D. By the way, you cannot steal up to the wild white cattle which contain about six hundred acres, without your being able to see them bound away, but this you are strictly forbidden to do. They are not to be seen out in summer than in winter. In winter when it often becomes necessary to visit the Park you may observe them they will allow you to get near quite, especially when on horseback. At times when they are in doubt as to the presence of approaching danger they will start off first on a slow walk, which proves that they are wild, which they keep up until over the brow of a hill, when they think themselves out of sight, and then they break into a run. In this way they often make a complete circuit of the park, which contains about six hundred acres, without your being able to get sight of them.

A few of these cattle have been domesticated, but they are not yet shown to have proven useful beasts. The quality of the beef is claimed to be far superior to that of any of our domestic breeds. These cattle are especially inter esting in the domestic type of stock and in the fact that they have been raised on a small farm, as being the same as those which we have entered so largely into the foundation of any of our modern breeds.

The city of Muskegon, this State, dedicated a few days ago a very fine memorial monument to the memory of one of its honored citizens, Mr. Haicley. It is wonderful to know that while school men and school boards are so slow to understand and appreciate this form of education, there are a number of earnest men who are able to see and feel the needs of industrial education. The idea of the recipient of such a noble gift, is to be congratulated, but most of all the boys who receive it. They have found advantages by this school afforded are to be congratulated. In this school they are taught the branches of the usual branches from books, will be given a few hours each day at the drawing table, that hands will be taught. It will be found, no doubt, as it has been found in the like schools of other cities, that these boys will do much better manual work as other boys who do not take Miss McDermott is now with her sister in Pittsburgh. She expects to return to M. A. C. this week, and to take up her regular work next week.

Mrs. S. Warne and Mrs. Ella Bocker, of Trumansburg, N. Y., and Mrs. M. Hickock, of Auburn, N. Y., are visiting at Prof. Smith's for the week.

Prof. Mumford attended the sale of stock at the farm of E. Q. Wood, Flint, recently, and purchased a young Oxford ram for the College.

Last week the Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. held its annual meeting in Lansing, and many of the visiting delegates took occasion to come out to the College.

Professor S. B. will be one of the judges at the Chicago Chrysanthemum show, November 9 to 13, where nearly $5,000 will be dispensed in prizes.

Prof. Smith went to Battle Creek on Thursday last to lecture to the students of the Battle Creek College on Industrial Training, and to aid that institute in laying out a farm recently purchased.

The freshmen appeared in their new uniforms last week. The coats introduce an entirely new fashion in masculine attire, having the appearance of being planned to wear with corset and bustle.

The new cold storage building now contains its first harvest of apples—about 150 barrels. Among the experiments being carried on here is the use of various gases for preserving fruit.

Miss Josephine Greening, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. A. L. Westcott for seven weeks, left Saturday morning for Chicago where she will remain with another sister until Christmas.

Last Thursday afternoon Mrs. H. K. Yoder gave a reception in honor of the "new" faculty ladies—Mesdames Waterman, Skeels, Bacon, Haynes and Alvord, and Misses Husted and Reigart.

Mr. Thos. Wyckoff, of Orchard Lake, a prominent breeder of Ramboilliet Merinos, and Mr. John Marshall, of Cass City, Mich., a breeder of Leicester sheep, have each loaned two good specimens of sheep for the use of the class in stock judging.

The College has received specimens of the San Jose scale from a locality in Ottawa county. It is reported that the scale has been in that locality six or seven years, and that about 500 trees are affected. Inspector Hodrick will investigate the matter.

The contractors have wired Harrison Hall, the U. L. S. building, the greenhouse, the bath-house and Dr. Edwards' residence. It was intended that the dormitories and College Hall be wired first, but for these special features were needed, which had to be brought from New York City.

Mr. Gordon H. True reports a very pleasant visit to the creameries in Allegan and adjoining counties in the western part of the State. Most of the creameries are in good condition, clean and well managed. The workers in the creameries are interested in the special courses to be given next winter, and undoubtedly many of them will attend.

Prof. Crozier Heard From.

Prof. Smith received a very hopeful letter from Prof. Crozier last week. Prof. Crozier is on a sheep ranch about three miles from Phoenix, Arizona, and seems to be enjoying life and western humor as well. He tells a little story of the western method of assessing personal property that is quite amusing.

The owner of a billy goat, when he appeared to pay his taxes, found that he had been assessed eight dollars for the animal. He protested most vigorously, saying, "Here you assess me eight dollars for a goat that I only paid five for, for an imposition; I won't pay it." The collector calmly informed the irate citizen that he would have to make his complaint before the proper authority—the city council. In due time he appeared before a council and made his complaint—that it was not only unjust but illegal to assess property for more than its cash value. The assessor defended himself by saying, "I am aware that it does look somewhat unjust to rate this man's goat at eight dollars, but I had no choice in the matter. I was going strictly according to the city ordinance, which states expressly that the assessor shall put a valuation of two dollars on each foot of property a butt ing on the highway."

The Moon for Me.

Nothing in nature is more graceful, inspiring and delightful to my heart than the moon—the queen of night—who lives in the glorious skies, as an angel of divine beauty and glory. See! How lovely she is when she appears as usual in the midst of the miraculous unknown; calm and silent, white and shadowy; in short, admirable both in action and appearance. Look! How graceful and wonderful is she when like a goddess of love, she throws on me the brilliant rays of her beautiful smile, delightful and life-giving. Her kind countenance, her bright reflected eyes, her unshadowed face, are almost everything, both to my heart and to my soul. How intimately is she to me when she shares the pains, the sorrows, the joy and the happiness of my own heart. She does not speak loudly, but she does speak in a most eloquent way to the soul of those who do understand her. Nothing strange about her. She is my old favorite, the only companion of my dark and bright hours, both in the old country and here under the strange stars of M. A. C. I know her. She is my comforter.

VETERINARY COLLEGE.

The Veterinary Department of the Detroit College of Medicine, is now fully equipped, under the supervision of Prof. Dr. A. G. McGARAGE, V. M. D., just returned from Veterinary Science at the Agricultural College.

This department is prepared to receive students for the full or short courses. It is intended to equip the Ample Hospital Accommodations for Rats, Cats, Dogs, and other domestic animals. Send for catalogue to Dr. J. E. Brown, Principal.
