Autumn has come, and once again
Of College lawns our gazes greet,
And 'tis a joy to grasp the hand
We would remember, e'er we part,

During the second course at this College, will begin November and continue until December 21.
The estimated total expense of the course, including fees, white suits, books, board and street car fare, is $250.00. This estimate does not include railroad fare nor incidental expenses.
Since cheese making is an art, the only way that proficiency can be attained is by practice. Each student will therefore make cheese
every day of the course, the practical work being supplemented by such instruction in dairy chemistry and bacteriology
and such practice in the manipulation of dairy products, as the book-keeping as well fit the student to understand what is taking place in the cheese vat and to carry on the business of his trade.

To fully appreciate the instruction and to be benefited by it the cheese maker or factory must makworked at making cheese for at least one full season. The experience of last winter teaches that those who have work long in a cheese factory are the ones who derive the most good from the course. They have learned the difficulties in the way of the cheese maker and are able to comprehend most fully the means suggested by the course in removing these obstances. While the course alone will not fit the beginner either to man­ gage a cheese factory or to succeed
in making good cheese under adverse conditions, it will pay him better than all the books written up in four weeks as much as from a year's experience in a cheese factory.

Domestic Canning of Fruit

Miss Amy B. Vaughan '85, after graduating from the Michigan Agricultural College, entered the Michigan Agricultural College as a graduate student in the Biological Laboratory and is now engaged in research on the metabolism of plants. Her work has been very successful, and she has published several papers on the subject. She is now preparing a report on the subject for publication in the Journal of Agricultural Science.

In the meantime, she has found a new use for her laboratory equipment, and has begun to experiment with the canning of fruits. She has found that it is possible to preserve the flavor and appearance of fruits by canning them, and has developed a method for doing so that is simple and effective.

The method consists of the following steps: First, the fruit is cut into small pieces and placed in a preserving kettle. The kettle is then covered with a lid and placed on the stove. The fruit is then heated until it is thoroughly cooked. The lid is then taken off and the fruit is allowed to cool.

The cooled fruit is then placed in jars, and the jars are tightly closed. The jars are then placed in a preserving kettle and heated until they are thoroughly cooked. The lids are then removed and the jars are allowed to cool.

The cooled jars are then placed in a refrigerator, and the fruit is allowed to remain there for several days. During this time, the fruit will be ready to be served.

Miss Vaughan has found that this method of canning is very successful, and that it is possible to preserve the flavor and appearance of fruits by canning them. She is now preparing a report on the subject for publication in the Journal of Agricultural Science.
At the College.

Prof. Blunt has moved her office desk into the northeast alcove of the library.

Dr. Edwards' family will not return from Virginia for several months, possibly not this year.

Prof. and Mrs. Smith will leave Thursday to spend a week or ten days at the Omaha Exposition.

Irvir Gingrich is endeavoring to organize a College quartette. He wants a good second tenor.

The reading room is much improved since the walls have been decorated and the floor covered with new linoleum.

Prof. Towar and Mr. Tree are attending the State Fair in Grand Rapids, and Profs. Smith and Taft go there today.

The botanical, farm, and horticultural departments of the College and the South Haven sub-station have exhibits at the State Fair in Grand Rapids.

The King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. Vedder at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, September 28. Lesson, the thirteenth chapter of Luke. Text, "Savored." Leader, Mrs. Vedder.

The fire department was called out Thursday morning by a gasoline stove fire at Mr. Westcott's. The department made remarkably quick time in getting to the place, but Mrs. Stringham had snuffed the flames with a rug before their arrival.

Mr. C. E. Walter has our thanks for a beautiful transparency representing the portion of the campus seen by looking from Prof. Talb's residence toward the willows by the little bridge. The view was given to Mrs. Landon to hang in the reading room.

The College population was represented by nearly 400 of its members at the get-acquainted reception in the Armory last Friday evening. For an hour and a half the place was crowded with the line of passing students while the latter, when not thus engaged, were getting acquainted with each other. Then followed refreshments, music, and dancing which occupied the time until eleven o'clock.

Something About Butter.

A distinguished physician who lived during the time of Christ mentions that butter was made by agitation of the milk of sheep; but none makes mention of its being used except as an ointment or medicine save by the Thracians and Germans, who were the first nations to adopt it as food. It is related by Plutarch that while a Spartan lady was visiting the wife of a distinguished nobleman of the adjacent principality, the former smelt so strongly of sweet ointment and the latter of butter that mutual repulsion was the consequence, which finally ended in war.

"An appropriate musical instrument for a fisherman would surely be a castant," remarks the Harvard Lampoon. "Probably a tramp with any idea of consistency will play the oboe, adds the Yale Record. It is suggested that a druggist ought to do well on the vial and that some of our sophomore cadets have aspirations to play the lute.

The Poet Gray.

Gray was, in every sense, real and poetical, a cold, fastidious old bachelor, at once proud, sensitive, and selfish. In his letters, memoirs and poems no indication can be found that he was ever under the influence of woman. He might well moralize on his bachelorship and call himself a "solitary fly."
