General Teachers' Meeting.
The general teachers' meeting of last Monday evening was devoted to the special work of the Women's Department, which was held in the lecture room in the Women's Building, and was followed by an inspection of the various laboratories and the witnessing of a calisthenic drill. The attendance was very good, and the visitors interested by the work they witnessed.

The first speaker, Miss Gilchrist, began by stating that education thought no longer maintained that women's education should be the same as that of man. The two should differ in just the degree that the sphere of woman's activities differs from that of man's. She outlined the policy of the women's course in the following points: (1) That the curricula of the women's ideals should dominate but not be strictly adhered to. She was not primarily interested in a technical one. It embraces general culture plus hand training. It gives much more time to a domestic science and art. It lays special emphasis on home-making, scientific application of home, and a knowledge of market supplies. Also it is designed to fit the girl for the future career of the woman, for commercial housekeeping, for scientific cooking, for dressmaking and the like. (2) That the dormitory life of girls necessitates more stringent rules of life and conduct than does the ordinary college life. This connection Miss Gilchrist deprecated low entrance requirements, Sundays given up to social amusements, and pleaded for a more largely pervading intellectual tone and culture upon the campus.

Miss Avery explained the work in the music department. Instruction is now being given to about eighteen students. Much of the work is not only to give finger dexterity, but also to educate the musical taste, to enable the student to recognize and appreciate good music, to understand musical meaning, and to know how to practice.

Miss Avery gave an interesting account of her work in physical culture, showing the importance of the work and explaining methods used for the harmonious development of the body. She stated that strength might exist without grace, but that grace was rarely found without strength. By a system of measurement, it is determined where symmetry is lacking, and exercises are assigned to develop the asymmetrical parts. Medical gymnastics, she said, are much neglected. Our girls are weaker in the legs than in the arms, to the average girl of the fashionable eastern school.

Miss Avery in discussing the work in cooking, stated that scientific cooking must be based on a scientific knowledge of the composition of the body, of the processes of digestion, of the chemical composition of foods, and of the changes produced by heat, cold, and the like. Here the cooking comes first, when the knowledge of chemistry, physiology, etc., is most important. The work is managed, however, by having the students actually prepare statements. The composition, treatment, and design of each dish is explained, and each student must go through the whole preparation with a fractional receipt.

Miss Crowe, in speaking of the dietetic work of the upper classes, showed how the work is handicapped by insufficient provision in subjects like arithmetic. The arrangement by which she becomes the steward of Club C seems unsuitable, as the demands thus made on her time are very large. Three of our students are now engaged as dietitians. In this work it is not sufficient to know the chemical constituents of foods stuffs, the city experience, and all these foods must also be known. The housekeeper stands between the city dealer in foods and the household, and she must know how to protect her charge. Another phase of the matter is the financial side, the drawing of checks, drafts, and promissory notes, etc. These girls later become vital to the society of their classes for this term is 114.

The remainder of the evening was spent in visiting the cooking rooms and in witnessing the calisthenic drill of some forty girls.

M. A. C. 36 Hilldale, 17.

The basket ball team made a flying trip to Hilldale but Saturday. The same had been done three days before but a telephone from Hillschle Friday asked that the game be played as scheduled.

Hilldale played a fast clean game and as there was no out of bounds, the ball was always in constant play. This fact caused considerable turning for the ball, but made it a very lively contest. Depew for Hilldale, played a star game, scoring 15 of the 17 points for his team.

M. A. C. played her usual team work in which Hilldale seemed unable to stop.

M. A. C., Position.

The changes in the Hilldale line-up made meowing owing to Wood shifting his shoulder dislocated in the second half. Blanchard's illness for over three weeks has made him invaluable for him to play the entire game.

Basket baskets: Depew 5, Cooper 4, Hanskenkamp 4, Balsbach 2, Taylor.

The Freshman.

BY MR. A. L. ANDERSON.

(Read before the Union Literary Society, March 18.)

When I considered the writing of an essay for this occasion the first thing which came to me was the subject, but the English department of this institution teaches that when one has an article to write he should choose a subject of which he has previously learned something and for the writing of which he has some material to work with. So, acting upon the latter suggestion, because of the amount of green material at hand I decided to write about the Freshman.

When one enters a college he is prepared to a certain extent for the change which he experiences in leaving his home and going out into the world for perhaps the first time, and for some time he has many things which are new to him. When he walks out upon the campus for the first time and sees with wonder at the new surroundings, upon the different laboratories and halls, he feels like a stranger in a strange land; yet he sees the number of students, young men of his own age, going about their work and explaining methods used by them, and he begins to wonder if he will ever be like those fellows, will I ever feel at home among these strange surroundings? He wonders that no one seems to be interested in him, that no one is glad to see him, and rejoices in the fact that henceforth he is to be one of the shining lights of this institution.

He finds the campus and at last learns that he has really attracted some attention. As he pauses to open another door he finds some new and strange sight, he hears some one say, "Who is that fellow at the foot of the steps?" Anxiously he waits for the answer, "Oh! that is some freshman; can't you tell by his actions?" Oh! Freshman, he reasons to himself, that man that although he may be a stranger and longed for a new and strange sight, he finds it useless and finally goes on to say, "Oh! Freshman, you are lost!" He mistakes his peer for a friendly offer of help, they proceed as quietly as possible, "Who is that fellow at the foot of the steps?" He goes on and soon meets a young man who has really started in his collegiate career and can enjoy a quiet moment. Prexy's office? A dozen hands begin singing. He begins to enjoy it and thinks it jolly sport. This happens every day, as he hurries up to see what it all means, and when he hears a familiar voice saying, "Hello, Rube! Did you find it?" He seize him and he is dragged into the crowd. One of his captors he recognizes as the friend (1) who directed him to the women's building. He struggles to free himself, but finds it useless and finally goes on quietly enough. He sees a score of fellow led on in the same way. He wonders what it all means and is glad to get on. They proceed as quietly as possible, until they have crossed the boundaries of the campus and have begun singing. He begins to enjoy it and thinks it jolly sport. By this time he has overheard the whole story of the campus; then his captors are entering the female students. He wonders what his captors are saying. The changes in the Hilldale line-up made meowing owing to Wood shifting his shoulder dislocated in the second half. Blanchard's illness for over three weeks has made him invaluable for him to play the entire game.

The Feronian Society elected the following officers for the next term: President, Mamie Crosby; vice-president, Katharine Gunnt; secretary, Mary J. Phillips; treasurer, E. A. H. Bach; janitresses, Ethel Adams, Marguerite Barrows.

Prof. Pettit is preparing to wage war against the mosquitoes as soon as spring opens. He expects to treat all ponds and pools of water with DDT, Millar and Dail. The judges were Professors Jeffery, Smith, and Towar. The question was decided in favor of the affirmative, Marguerite Barrows.

The affirmative side of the Philippine question was maintained by Mr. Phillips, Lyman Carr, and Frank Phillips, of the Union Literary Society, and Miss M. Van Orden, of the Adelphic Society; the negative was defended by Messrs. A. B. Rogers, of the Adelphic Society; D. S. Bullock and B. Wermuth, of the Frankfurtian Society. The affirmative won. The three best debaters in the order chosen were Mr. Phillips, Mr. Wermuth, and Miss Van Orden. The judges were Mr. C. F. Hammond, Mr. J. E. Hammond and Rev. W. A. Frye, all of Lansing.

On Tuesday, March 11, the semi­final debate for the selection of the team to meet Ypsilanti took place. The arguments made by each and every one of the young debaters were excellent and were heard with close attention by the audience. The affirmative side of the Philippine question was maintained by Messrs. Lyman Carr and Frank Phillips, of the Union Literary Society, and Miss M. Van Orden, of the Adelphic Society; the negative was defended by Messrs. A. B. Rogers, of the Adelphic Society; D. S. Bullock and B. Wermuth, of the Frankfurtian Society. The affirmative won. The three best debaters in the order chosen were Mr. Phillips, Mr. Wermuth, and Miss Van Orden. The judges were Mr. C. F. Hammond, Mr. J. E. Hammond and Rev. W. A. Frye, all of Lansing.

At the Union Literary Society on Saturday evening, the freshman declamation contest occupied the attention throughout the hour. The first prize, a society solution necessary for the destruction of the insect, was won by Mr. Anderson, whose interesting paper on The Freshman appears in this issue of The Record. The second prize, a copy of Tennyson's poems, library edition, Houghton, Mifflin & Co., went to Mr. Wm. Toss. The third place fell to Mr. J. B. Dayharsh. There were nine contestants.

On Wednesday afternoon last Mr. Reutter, of Lansing, conducted an interesting and instructive demonstration in the cutting up of meats before a class of eighty freshman women. The lesson was held in the cooking school, a side of beef and a pork were cut up. The manner of cutting was explained and illustrated, the values of the cut to market-man and customer were explained, and the best methods of using named. The term's work in cooking has dealt largely with the subject of meats and the demonstration gave a much clearer understanding in the selection of meats to the class. Questions were freely asked and fully answered by Mr. Reutter, and the appreciation of the class was well manifested by their interested attention throughout the hour.

An unusually large number of our teachers and students attended the presentation of Henry VIII on Friday evening by the James-Moedjeska Co. The costumes were very handsome. Mr. James as Wolsey was a good impersonation, but lacked vigor and effectiveness at more than one situation. Moedjeska as Queen Catherine looked the monarch and bore herself with regal dignity, but her voice was far too weak and fully two-thirds of the house must have heard little that she said. Depending almost entirely as this play does on magnificence of setting and artistic rendering of occasional fine lines, it needs exceptionally favorable conditions and surroundings for a successful presentation.

Prof. J. D. Towar is planning to leave about the last of March for South Australia. His address there will be Roseworthy, South Australia. He is planning to stop at several of the agricultural colleges between here and the coast, and several days will be spent in Southern California studying the viticultural problems of that region, viticulture being one of the principal industries of South Australia. Prof. Towar sails via Oceanic Steamship Co., April 10, on the Sierra from San Francisco. The voyage will require twenty-five days, with stops at Honolulu, Samos, and Oakland, landing at Sydney. From Sydney the journey is about one thousand miles by Australian railroad. He will meet at Sydney Joseph A. Bulkeley, '99.

On Tuesday, March 11, the semi­final debate for the selection of the team to meet Ypsilanti took place. The arguments made by each and every one of the young debaters were excellent and were heard with close attention by the audience. The affirmative side of the Philippine question was maintained by Messrs. Lyman Carr and Frank Phillips, of the Union Literary Society, and Miss M. VanOrden, of the Adelphic Society; the negative was defended by Messrs. A. B. Rogers, of the Adelphic Society; D. S. Bullock and B. Wermuth, of the Frankfurtian Society. The affirmative won. The three best debaters in the order chosen were Mr. Phillips, Mr. Wermuth and Miss Van Orden. The judges were Mr. C. F. Hammond, Mr. J. E. Hammond and Rev. W. A. Frye, all of Lansing.
Old Students.

B. F. Rosenbury, '92, of Ann Arbor, attended the militaryFirst Louis Wolters.

C. F. Austin, '93, assistant horticulturist in the Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn, Alabama, writes pleasingly of his h".s.

E. M. McElroy, '93, has been re-elected superintendent of the Three Rivers city schools for the coming year at a very substantial increase in salary.

Mr. W. M. Hallack, with '92, is now managing the principal paper of Thomas 보내주신, meeting with great success. It will be remembered that Mr. Hallack was obliged to give up his College course because of the death of his father.

The Livingston Democrat for Feb. 26, has this item regarding S. J. Kennedy, '96: "At the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. R. Hall, in Putnam, last Wednesday afternoon, occurred the marriage of her daughter Nettie to Samuel J. Kennedy, of the same township, Rev. N. W. Pierce officiating. Numerous gifts were presented."

Mrs. J. R. Hallack to give up his College course because of the death of his father.

Great success. It will be remembered that Mr. Hallack was obliged to give up his College course because of the death of his father.

The Columbian Literary Society entertained the faculty Saturday evening. An enjoyable time was spent listening to a musical and comedy program, after which all entered zealously into a social hour. Pails placed about the rooms added to the cheerfulness of the atmosphere. But "Time's river has no backward flow" and after refreshments were served, the hour came only too soon for our guests to leave.

At the business meeting the following officers were elected for the spring term: Pres., D. S. Bullock; Sec., F. G. Farnsworth; G. S. Pratt; treas., F. H. Sanford; Rec. Reporters, J. G. Moore, marsh., C. D. Sterling, o. s. r.

The Zenner Prizes.

J. E. Kincaid, '95, College of Agriculture, Urbana, Ill., has been awarded the silver medal offered by the Zenner Disinfesting company of Chicago for the second best method of disinfest- and washing of cotton cloth, as exhibited at the International Live-Stock Exposition.

The first place was given to Daniel Wallace of Des Moines, Iowa, who secured the gold medal. Mr. Wallace graduated from Ames Agricultural college in 1901, and is now associated with his father, Henry Wallace, in the editing of "Wallace's Farmer."

Mr. Kincaid, winner of the silver medal, resides at Athens, Ill., and is the son of John H. Kincaid, president of the Illinois Horticultural association. Mr. Kincaid is a freshman in the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

The selection required three or more students from each agricultural college to compete for the medals. Several states entered the contest.—Chicago Drover's Journal.
