NOT LONG ago Chancellor Andrews of the University of Nebraska refused to accept an increase in salary amounting to $2,000, which the State Board of Regents voted. We believe it is to the advantage of the University Board of Regents. In refusing the proffered increase, Chancellor Andrews stated that the present salary of $5,000 a year was sufficient for him, and that the extra $2,000 would add considerably to the general expenses of the University. As president of Brown University he refused not many years ago a similar offer, and he believes, however, to secure the proper faculty.

Chancellor Andrews has been the subject of much newspaper discussion because of his adherence to the free silver doctrine in 1896 and because of his recent utterances regarding the base-ball and foot-ball schedules. Ypsilanti was dropped from the base-ball and foot-ball schedules this season. The names of which are published below:

A TRIP SOUTH

off the tops for fodder and leaving the ears to be gathered later.

Chattanooga, a day was made to visit the historic Lookout Mountain, and the battle fields of Missionary Ridge and Cokesbury.

Between Chattanooga and Atlanta the character of the agricultural practices rapidly changed. Cotton began to take the place of other crops, not grown in large fields of regular rotation, but in little plots scattered here and there over the landscape, wherever there did not happen to be a stream nor one in the way of the plow. Great orchards of peaches were also to be seen on the hills and in the valleys.

At Atlanta there was a very large representative gathering of the administrative officers of the colleges and stations. In the general sessions of the Association, the questions discussed related to the exhibit to be made by the colleges and stations at St. Louis, the matter being referred to a committee with power and with the understanding that the several colleges were to aid in making the Louisiana Purchase Exhibition a showing which should call to the attention of the world, we are doing; the matter of military instruction under the new rules of the Department, which require five hours per week of drill was also referred to a committee with the understanding that the several colleges present regarded the amount of time required as excessive; the officers present regarded the standing that the great majority of the obstacles left in the way of the plow. Great orchards of peaches were also to be seen on the hills and in the valleys.

ATHLETIC NOTES

A mass meeting of students was held in chapel Friday morning. The attendance was very small and decidedly disappointing. The students should attend such meetings en masse and show that they are willing to support their team with some degree of loyalty.

Another mass meeting will be held Thursday and all students should be there. We have a hard game Saturday and good yellow will help much. The yellow Saturday was better than the week before but very irregular, and keeping together and following the yell-masters need cultivation.
