Greatest Green and White Team in Many Seasons Outplays and Defeats Strong Eleven Representing South Dakota to Conclude a Perfect Record

Covered with considerable glory and some mud, the fighting aggregation this season, emerged from Saturday’s combat victories over the scrappy eleven from Vermillion, South Dakota. The final score was 19 to 7, though for a long time it appeared that another count like those of the Michigan and Wiscon- sin games would be marked up. A touchdown by Julian, following a straight march from the center of the field, served to make the score more nearly representative of the comparative strength of the two teams.

The weather was anything but agreeable for the last and biggest of our home games, which met the coolness of almost as it fell, last- ed all through the game, but failed to dampen the enthusiasm of three thousand fans who witnessed the contest. A large number of al- umni were in the crowd, and nearly every nook and corner of the stands was represented in the stands. Al- though the game was long, and the snow kept coming down, everybody stuck to the finish, and seemed to forget their bodily discomforts in watching a contest over which is prominently considered in all discussions regarding western aviation.

Before the game started, it was assured that the field would be suffi- ciently muddy to make the pos-sibility of any catchy plays by either team. This was the case, the only example of open work to be used being the forward pass, which was worked successfully by both elevens. The M. A. G. team took the field at 2 o’clock, and was immediately followed by the Coyotes. South Dakota won the toss, and chose to defend the goal. This gave them what little wind there was, M. A. C. took the north goal and prepared to receive the kick-off.

Julian, in his customary role of star, proceeded to get action the first thing. Receiving Ferguson’s kick-off, he ran the ball through the entire South Dakota team, making 64 yards, and placing the ball on Dakota’s 20-yard line before being stopped. Here things stopped for a time, the Arggies being unable to gain, and the ball went to the Coy- otes on downs. After futile attacks on our line, Ferguson punt- ed to Gauthier, on the M. A. C. 45- yard line. Not being able to gain, M. A. C. fielded the punt, which was fumbled. It was our ball on the Dakota 20-yard line again, but, as before, the ball was lost on downs. Ferguson kicked to Gauthier on Dakota’s 20-yard line.

Two long runs by Leonardson and Blake Miller, a couple of attacks down the line by Blacklock and Haggerty, put the ball on the visitor’s five-yard line. The crowd was bowling for the touchdown, but Miller had just had it. Miller was thrown fora 10-yard loss, and Vidal was forced to a forward pass, and carried the ball to his 25-yard line. Dakota showed a flash of offensive ardor, and carried the ball to the center of the field. M. A. C. held, and Ferguson punt ed outside, giving M. A. C. the ball on their own 40-yard line.

Just about here, Capt. Brown of Western, who attempted to say Blake Miller’s work for the day by jumping on the plucky end as he headed for the goal, was seen by the officials, and Capt. Brown finished the game as specta- tor. Incidentally, Dakota was pun- ished half the distance to their goal, and M. A. C. had the ball. Miller gained a little, though the game, though short- ly after, he caught a forward pass, netting 15 yards; Julian, in a mighty plunge put the ball on the one-yard line, and Gauthier took it over for the first touchdown. Gifford failed the extra kick, and the score was M. A. C. 6, South Dakota o.

Nothing thrilling occurred during the remainder of the first half, nor until well along into the second. Neither team could gain consist- ently for each had points which were frequent. As a rule, M. A. C was the gainer in this department, Leon- ardson outpunting Ferguson, and our ends stopping the Dakota backs almost in their tracks without fail. Gauthier, on the other hand, suc- ceeded in making several substant- ial returns. This punting game was finally to be the downfall of Dakota, for Gauthier caught one on their 25-yard line. A forward pass put the ball on our 20-yard line, and he ran the ball on Dakota’s 10-yard line. Julian, in three successive attacks on the line, put the ball at the two-yard line. Gifford again failed to kick goal, and the score was 12 to 0 in favor of M. A. C.

This ended the scoring for the Arggies until the very final minute of play. The Westerners had not yet started, though the crowd soon began to experience the peculiar sensation which has been found accompanying 12 to 7 scores when the other team is making a game fight. The bleachers at such times were a sight that all who witnessed it would like to forget. For a time in Saturday’s game it

The A. REMARKABLE CLASS.

The story published last week re- garding the anniversary of 1873 brought out another interesting fact, regarding one of the early classes of M. A. C. a remarkable class for the longevity of its members.

Five men were graduated in the class of 1887. Of those five, even one is alive and active at the present time. Their names are as follows: L. A. Hurlbut, Crescent City, Fla.; Ex-Senator Henry J. Johnson, of Eagle, Mich.; A. C. Prattana, Three Rivers, Mich.; Dr. W. W. Tracy, of Washington, D. C., and John Strang, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Unless we are mistaken, the members of the class will have all passed on, while the next class less than half are still living. Of the membership of ’73 seems to hold all records.

ABOUT MR. BURNHAM’S RECENT “OPEN LETTER”

To the Editor,

The M. A. C. Record.

Decidedly—I want to say two or three things as expressing my part of public opinion in the new Associa- tions.

I am heartily in favor of the suggestion offered by Mr. A. C. Burn- ham, in the issue of the M. A. C. Record for October 14. He has stated the matter so well that little, if any, comment is necessary. I should like to see such a department as he suggests at M. A. C., in the hands of a rare, intuitive master of men, who could get so well ac- quainted with each student while in college that advice or suggestion, either then or later, will have a per- sonal quality adapted to individual temperament and needs.

Then let every M. A. C man take interest in the new depart- ment and its purpose. You may be unacquainted with every phase of your- self, but do not be indifferent to the needs of those less fortunate. Have your ears and eyes about you, and when you hear of a good opening— or even if it isn’t so good—tell the department, or some other fellow, about it. There is plenty of work for all. What we want to do is to connect job number 10 with number 20, and job number 423 with the fellow who won’t work.

Along a slightly different, but still related line, I may say that in my personal canvass of the business world I have often wished I might open my M. A. C. Record and find there a half a dozen selected “want ads,” and business suggestions, one of which would put me in line with a larger usefulness, and, eventually, a larger salary. I have felt that business was alone in such a wish, then I’m glad the other fellows were so well employed; but I don’t believe I have been alone.

Can we not spare a little corner in our paper for this purpose, and steer it to now and then the boy who is so busy a door to opportunity,
Green, George C. "Who Do You Know?" The M. A. C. Record, November 18, 1913.

A CRYING NEED

The gathering of alumni last week disclosed one great need of the association at the college, a need we hope will be filled in the near future. It is the want of a rest room, or reception room, especially located at which visitors could gather while away a few minutes or an hour, and at the same time meet all alumni and find out what is what.

A CRITIQUE

Discussion of this point with some of the older men who were here brought out a great unanimity of opinion on the subject. Everyone agreed that it would be just the thing, and all expressed the hope that it would be brought about before long.

We are many occasions when this sort of a place is in demand. Its lack was felt last Saturday. The weather being beautiful, and every campus, in the armory, or wherever they could, It was impossible for them all to find the secretary, just as it was out of the question for him to distinguish each of the old boys. A central room, with the headquarter's located there, would have simplified matter very much.

We are told that the Round-Up institute, in March, many of our old students come back. Would it not be possible for them to receive a cordial welcome and an invitation to make the reception of the old alumni and old professors here? We think not.

Another phase of the question for which the need is great is that of old fellows back. Plans are already being considered for next fall. As soon as the football schedule for next season is ready, the home game which will probably furnish the best contest will be considered of considerable attention devoted to it. The occasion will be made a sort of informal reunion, and every alumni will be urged to attend. The secretary will probably look after alumni reservation of seats, and attempt to see that every possible attention is shown the members of the association.

CONCLUSION

In last week's issue, the article relative to the work of our men in the county was not accompanied by the name of W. B. Cook, of Owosso, was given as expert for Eaton County. The article was a confusion of initials, C. B. Cook, of 'SS, being the right man.

The connection on the right of the Cook, the following item has been handed in: A large motor truck has been purchased from the Whitney Motor Truck Company, near Owosso, for the College of Agriculture, and is in the employ of the College of Agriculture. The College of Agriculture, and is in the employ of the College of Agriculture.

HORT. CLUB

The Hort Club enjoyed the first real family session of the year last week. The wife of Professor Tracy, his brother, and his assistants were present. The brothers strolled in upon the unsuspecting students. The stunts were not entirely successful, but the astute President did show him in the fact that a pantomist and a "scarecrow" were lined up against the temporary professor, H. F. Miners and P. J. Allen were the gentlemen in question, and both were asked to speak of their experiences during the past season.

R. E. Cary started the ball rolling by giving the names and synopses of a good, recent agricultural bulletin published by the various state experiment stations.

H. F. Miners, next took his stand behind the bated desk, and expanded to the pantomimically the capes of possibilities found in lower Illinois, contrary to general opinion. He was in the employ of C. A. Watson & Sons, Chicago, and helped to rattle out several thousands of bricks from the lower Illinois of the trade. The personnel of that community differed widely from that of the lower Illinois of the west, in respect to lack of initiative and apparent willingness to work for a fruit crop. The direction of the boss must be able to hold his job largely through physical prowess, and many aspirants were willing to undergo an examination for the position, deeming agricultural expertise along that line to be of negligible value. The picking and packing is done in the orchard, each piece of the job being done by specialists, each man doing one particular job, until he becomes proficient. Mr. Tracy stated that he was in trouble in keeping the keepers satisfied, who struck every time they gave a new crop. This difficulty was solved by Mr. Watson, who bought a four-ton auto truck, which made four trips a day to the teamster's one, and carried fifty barrels to a load. After this was done, the keepers declared the crop a success.

REUNIONS—ANNUAL OR?

(Note—The following article was sent in by Mr. Daniel Strange, of Grand Rapids, one of the real "oldtimers" among our number, who has experienced both annual and triennial reunions. The points which make up this article are of interest to every old student.—Ed.)

I notice among the Live Questions for her discussion that of an annual reunion. I remember well when we held them. They were not satisfactory, for the reason that the alumni were very few and but a small number of these could come every year. As a result, we met but once, and that exceeded few of those that we had known while in College. One year I met but one whom I had known as a student. So we changed to triennial meetings, hoping to see more of the chains of "sad long years." It seems to me that now conditions are materially changed. The alumni are so numerous that no old timers are bewildered in the throng. To remedy this, I would suggest the division of the alumni into three classes, divided on point of age, and overlapping.

Let the old fellows meet next year. Some of them possibly may not be with us three years hence. Of course, no one will be excluded from the meeting, but let it be a reunion of classes preceding 1900. Then we of early days can hope to meet some of the old-time friends.

Let the next meeting be for classes from 1890 to 1910. This should bring out a large gathering, and the classes in the '90's can attend the succeeding meeting. One of the classes in the latter part of the '90's can then attend the next meeting, and so on, until the whole alumni are given an opportunity to meet.

HULSE GETS COUNTY JOB

E. G. Hulse, a member of 1910, has recently received a substantial bonus on the ladder of success. Since leaving college, "Ed." has been city engineer for his home city, St. Johns, Mich., and his advancement to this post is a compliment to the profession of town road engineer. His work will begin at once, as the road commission plans to have some progress made this fall, and operations will commence as soon as Mr. Hulse finishes his surveys.

While in college, Hulse did considerable work in civil engineering, making this his specialty, although he did not graduate. He was also prominent in military work, being captain of company G one year. His many friends wish him success in his new work.

This would doubtless cover more than a third of all the graduates, and they could include in all the youthful enthusiasms without wearying the elders, best Wisconsin listeners. Call then, if you choose, the has-beens, the actives, and the hopefuls. In this way there would be an annual meeting, each class assembling triennially, with some pleasure and much profit, and it might develop that the has-beens would exhibit as much active interest and hopefulness for the future as any of the younger people.

Hulse gets county job

The following article was sent in by Mr. Daniel Strange, of Grand Rapids, one of the real "oldtimers" among our number, who has experienced both annual and triennial reunions. The points which make up this article are of interest to every old student.—Ed.

Monday afternoon the greatest football team ever turned out at the college meet and elected George E. Julian of Rochester, N. Y., as captain for the season of 1914. Julian's work has been a feature of the play during a whole season just passed, and it was generally conceded about the campus that he would be chosen to lead next year's squad.

Monograms were voted to Capt. Gifford, Capt.-elect Julian, B. Miller, and W. B. Gannon. Last year the Biottler, Smith, Leonhard, Vaughn, McCardy, Henning, and H. Miller. Julian has the distinction of being the first colored lad to win one of the coveted honors at M. A. C., and we would perhaps best describe his character as that of the brightener, as but two men, Capt. Gifford and Gauthier, are lost by graduation. If the eligible men all return to college next fall, Coach Macklin will have ten monogram men, not to mention a number of other veteran players to start work with.

M. A. C. CLOSES GREAT SEASON WITH A SENSATIONAL VICTORY

The following summary appeared in newspapers:

Saturday was the last game of the season and the most exciting. It looked as though Dakota might be dangerous.

M. A. C. had been working along pretty well in the third session, and had the ball close to Dakota's line. A forward pass was tried, but was intercepted by Rowe, who showed a burst of speed and, with a clear field, started for our goal. Out of the line of players came Harris. He ran as M. A. C. fans had never seen him run before, and he has shown some speed at various instancies, too. Coming from behind, he tackled Rowe on our 20-yard line, completing one of the most sensational plays of the season.

Soon after this, M. A. C. got the ball at scrimmage, and Leonard went in. He showed some speed at various instancies, too. Coming from behind, he tackled Rowe on our 20-yard line, completing one of the most sensational plays of the season.

The summary:

M. A. C. | S. Dakota
B. Miller | L. E. | Hood
Smith | I. T. | Horner
Leonard | | Gifford
Vaugh | C. | Willey
McCardy | R. G. | King
Hulse (Capt.) | \( \text{(Manray) \} \)

Prior to this game, the Aggies were members of a team which beat Wisconsin, and then went on to defeat Michigan, winning two important games in the season. This was a punting Alkaline. The next year's squad.
ABOUT MR. BURNHAM'S RECENT "OPEN LETTER"
through which M. A. C. men can pass to broader fields of service.
Regarding the time of issue, I'm not particularly as to whether the Record comes out once a month or once a week, but I would like the size of page and quality of paper appropriate to a good magazine, provided these can be had at the present price. When anything of permanent interest is published, we want it on something better than the crumpled page of a newspaper.
By all means, let us have some sketches of the fellows who have done some memorable thing, and if you have given us a couple of these, then give us a few details from the regular columns. As achievements of the greatly successful show, there is but the fellow who holds the job of the great enemies, the little more like common folk, and can be appreciated by most all alike. I'm not much of an athletic fan under ordinary conditions, but if I could have attended those Michigan and Wisconsin games I'm sure there would have been just a little more noise. Congratulations to our coach and team and college; not alone for the victory, but for the sportsmanship in which these are won.

Very truly,
FRANK D. LINKLETTER, '06 Wilber, Oregon

Illinois is very rough, from which the people get their rugged disposition, the citizens being rather more inclined to fight than eat. As a whole, the section is quite free from disease and insects, sooty blotch and colling most specified among the worst enemies of horticulture there.

P. A. Allen, '15, landscape gardener, present talk on "Marketing Methods" as practiced by nurserymen. Mr. Allen is a part of the Allen Brothers Company, of Rochester, New York, and is in the nursery business from the growing of trees to the surgery of decapit extravagant. In the packing of nursery stock, as in other lines of business, efficiency and method are the requisites for success. Mr. Allen explained the system of packing from the time of the digging of the stock to the loading on the cars, laying emphasis on the systems of checking used. The company had some trouble in getting the stock to the destination on time, due to the waiting on the road, but in most cases the railroad made good the loss.

The first attempt at local organization under the new Association will be made in Shawnee county at an early date. Nov. 26 has been suggested as a date for the meeting. A. D. Cook has generously offered his home as a place for the first meeting. It is hoped that a large and enthusiastic association can be formed so near the college. The secretaries of the new Association will be present, and hopes to meet many of the former students of M. A. C., whether alumni or not.

Y. M. C. A. HEADLINERS

There was a departure from the scheduled program in last week’s Y. M. C. A. meeting, which met with the approval of all who enjoyed the selection. Mr. B. Johnson appeared at the meeting as arranged, but L. E. Bues, of the State Y. M. C. A., came out to give a special talk. All who enjoy his peculiarly forceful manner of expression, as well as those of the form of thought he brings out in his informal speeches, were greatly given a treat. And a full house (proclaimed and well the fellows liked his style of speech.

The event of next week in Y. M. C. A. affairs will be the banquet of the Y. C. T. and the faculty. The feast will be an object of much interest among the students, to see how the survival of the fittest will work out in this case. Some mainten- tain that the faculty are fitted with more durable constitutions than the cabinet, while others hold to the oppo- site belief, and the joint banquet should solve the question once for all.

E. G. Pipp, managing editor of The Detroit News, was a guest in press box at Saturday afternoon. Aside from being a close friend of Prof. Petel, Mr. Pipp, in his editorial capacity, is strong for the C. C. and we were glad to have him see the best team in the West.

Prospects for future M. A. C. football teams brightened considerably when the following letter was received from H. F. Kindig, of Elk- hart, Ind., early last week. "I am happy to announce the arrival of Paul Edward Kindig, on the morning of Nov. 10th. If present indications are worth anything, he will be an M. A. C. quarterback by 1935."

Mr. Kindig is connected with the office of the State Entomologist at Elkhart. His address is 212 Crawford St.
