WASHINGTON ALUMNI ARE EXCELLENT ENTERTAINERS

The meetings of several scientific and collegiate societies in the city of Washington, held in the middle of November afforded the M. A. C. alumni residing in the national capital an opportunity to gather and discuss agricultural and horticultural matters. In practically every conference held in the city, one or more graduates of M. A. C. were to be found, which made the good sized reunion which was held possible.

As a matter of fact, a dinner or a meeting at any sort at this time was not planned for in advance, but when it was learned that so great a number were in the city for the meeting, the members of the association could not resist the temptation to do their part. An informal dinner was arranged and the members of the association could not resist the temptation to do their part. An informal dinner was arranged and the members of the association could not resist the temptation to do their part.

The list of those present is doubtfully interesting, for it shows those who were prominent graduates and workers. W. A. A. also brings out in a forcible manner the importance of the important part taken by M. A. C. graduates in the institutional affairs of the country.

The following are in government work of various sorts: Cora L. Fancher, M. A. C. '88; W. E. Ball, M. A. C. '86; E. L. A. Reel, M. A. C. '83, pecan specialist in the department of agriculture; Mrs. C. REUNIONS—ANNUAL OR ?

ED. RECORD:

I want to endorse, more fully, the words of Dan, Strange in his article on the issue of Nov. 18 in regard to future reunions. Dan once put up the dirtiest kind of a dirty job on me when he was a senior and I was a junior, but "all is forgiven" for his sake. However, I will go to a real annual reunion that will give a real annual meeting for every year, though we old fellows—Strange, Jennings, Garfield, Satterlee, Guiley, et al., will always regard our reunion as being the really important one of the series. We old fellows have always been noted for our modesty, and we want to impress the youngsters with our real importance. When our class organized the Alumni Association in 1868 we agreed that we would meet once in three years. I am amazed that any of us even want to wait until we are old enough to stand by the original plan, and I am sure the old men will sit still and watch us in this. You youngsters may do as you please, but we oldsters want a definite date when we may go back to the old home and be sure that we may clap hands with men of our own time. I have traveled a thousand miles from M. A. C. and I know men who live three thousand miles far from old M. A. C. Give us definite three-year dates, when we may hope to meet each other and keep up most of our old "inmates." I hope the kiddies may have their annual meetings, but we oldsters who have to work and balance our books, can't always do as we would like. Give us three-year dates, and if the "whip cost of liv- ing" does not prevent us, we will be on hand.

HONOR RECEIVED BY LOCAL FACULTY MAN

One of the various meetings held in Washington, D. C., about the middle of November, was that of the Land Grant College Engineering Association. In a copy of the secre- tary's bulletin, just received, we find that Dean G. W. Blissell, of our own engineering department, was elected the second-treasurer of the association.

Dean Blissell is too well known among our own alumni to need a long and detailed account here. We can congratulate him upon the honor thus given him and wish the association a most prosperous year.

ALUMNI

E. R. Lake is secretary of the Alumni of the Cranston society, with his office at Washington, D. C. In a letter to Dr. Real he says: "My trip up to Washington with Uncle Sam in nomenclature, I spend some time as a specialist with the walnut, do a wonderful football team, then some institutes and other events during the winter season. Expect to be with the Massachusetts Horticultural Society in March, then to America in January, and in Pennsylvania in February."

A recent number of the Michigan Alumni contains a reference to the work of T. L. Hankinson. During the past summer Mr. Hankinson was connected with an investigation of the fish in and about Chippewa county, Mr. Hankinson's preliminary report which is expected to appear soon, will be the fourth of a series of papers resulting from the Whitefish Point investigations, Mr. Hankinson is a teacher of Zoology in the State Normal School at Charleston, Ill.

E. W. Farnham, of Greenville, Minn., was in the neighborhood of his subscription, and congratulates M. A. C. on its fine coach and wonderful football team. They're all watching the old school.

Hert Shool, former football cap-in, and at present successful farm-in, of Fourteen, Michigan, was a college visitor last week. Hert was as tickled as anybody over the showing of the boys. It was his eleventh trip that rail Michigan in 1908.

J. Lj. Reed visited some of the decorators last week. Reed is a new animal, but he has with him a fine idea of farming into practice on the large estate of D. E. Warters, near Grand Rapids. He reports that there is a lot of strong M. A. C. sentiment in that part of the state.

Edo in Smith, on the horticultural staff of the Wisconsin government, called at the College on his way back to Victoria. B. C. Smith has been spending the past month visiting friends in western New York and also attended the meeting at Washington.

T. F. Baker is teaching in the High School at Greenville, Mich. Mr. Baker is also assistant director of athletics.

Leo Digby surprised his campus friends by appearing Monday night. Shortly after Washington, Digby was ordered north with the state troops, and was only recently released from service. He will spend the winter months in the copper country, and will take a vacation before starting any new work.
MODERN MARTYRS

Picture the college football man as a patient, long-suffering and for-born martyr to the cause of modern education. For him there is no thing exciting in sport. You have noted the soggy condition of a football team in recent games, and wondered. Said soggy condition is, of course, due to the flood of honest laces worn by the twenty-two young men driven into the arena and forced to do battle against their ish camp, and they are offered up to make a Roman holiday.

The above picture is one painted by The Times of The Times of published at Colorado College. In spite of the fact that the editor was a football man a few years since, he clammers for the abolition of the game of football as played in our colleges. His article allows that the sport is uncalled for, that it is degrading and several other things. Witness the fact that he is now an editor, instead of a writer.

He admits, somewhat reluctantly, the advertising value of a successful eleven, but demands in a loud voice that colleges wishing to promote their welfare by advertising of this sort have a football team of experts to spread the fame of the institution. In his opinion, this would be far better than slaughtering the youth of the nation before getting them through.

We think this is a fortunate or unfortunate, we have never seen one of the ladders referred to. They may be a remnant of the "wild and woolly" which crops out in western football. In that case we can hold out hope for the future when the new game penetrates the west.

Shape Colorado's season left something to be desired in the way of victories. Possibly the outlook for the future is poor. We are sure that sympathy is what every editor needs just now. Cheer up, Mr. Tiger, and hope for the best. We hope the good old college game will continue to prosper. At any rate we cannot now think of a group of young men becoming intensely excited over the result of a long distance spelling match. We prefer not to imagine the sort of college spirit which would attend the outcome of a checker match. But far better ensure such a decline than advertise our colleges by paid footnotes made up of neglected white hopes who are too good to look for real work.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Los Angeles, California,
November 26th, 1913.

Dear Editor:

I have been enjoying the weekly calls of the Record since my very first visit at the college during the reunion. In order not to delay a good deed any longer, I will say a few words about the subscription.

I presume different items in the Record to catch the big gameness of the alumni, but one of the pleasing features to me is the notes regarding the boys who have gone into the world.

In the Record of October 14th, under class of 'so', you have a notice about my old classmate, Charles W. McCurdy. I have no doubt the class of 'so' would like to own him, but we will not stand for anything of the kind. McCurdy belongs to St. He was the handsome man of the class; the ladies' man of the class; in fact, the only ladies' man of our class, and we need him now, as much as did in the old days, to help us out on occasions to entertain our lady friends. I am surprised that he has not registered a popularity kick about being made one year older than he really is. I have visited at his home, and I have had a very delightful time, and I can say that he is still quite a boy.

I have also read with a great deal of interest the letter of J. W. Bolte, and have sent to several of my friends some suggestions: First, the one, in regard to photographs of interesting things about the campus, to show the boys who have not been back for many years the growth and improvement of the College and grounds, and to keep up the interest of those who have left more recently; second, the suggestion regarding the write-up of some of the men who have gone out, and who have received big things in various lines. By this I mean big success in service to others, not merely the accumulation of big sums of dollar. The older I get the more thoroughly my experience teaches me that success is based upon services that are accomplished, and I believe I am merely one of hundreds who will say that we have learned how to accomplish by the practical training received at M. A. C.

Another suggestion regarding the Record, a weekly or a monthly:

That is a question which deserves very careful consideration. No doubt, we are all glad to have the Record come once a week, but I think its appearance and shape could be improved, and if a monthly or a steady of a weekly edition would warrant a great improvement along that line, I believe it would be worth while.

Again a suggestion from A. C. Burroughs about a Vocational department. I believe that this could be made of tremendous importance to new graduates; then they could go out into the world without any fixed ideas as to what line of work they shall take up. They could get guidance by an experienced head.

Mr. Burnham says it took years after he left college to find out in the right field. I am sure that this is true of a large percentage of all graduates. For years we try this and then that, and

LEONARDSON PICKED FOR ALL-WESTERN POSITION

"Dutch" Leonardson, whose parents added the weight of Faunt Valentine to his cognomen as it appears in the family records, has received an honor which comes but few football men at M. A. C. While local people cling tenaciously to the belief that had Eckerdall seen Julian in action we would have another man among our selections, there is some satisfaction to be had from the fact that we have made an impression in the aristocracy of western football.

For a guard, Leonardson showed unusual versatility. His mighty right toe was used time and again to send the ball far down into the opposition territory past the M. A. C. goal line. His work in the line was perfect, many of the smashing gains made by Julian being directed through the great holes opened by "Dutch." Toward the end of the game Leonardson appeared in a new role, and took opposing tackles completely by surprise. In the final drive he hurled the leather when they had every reason to expect a punt. Without exception the last-named play was a winner.

On several occasions, when it was third or fourth down, with as many as fifteen yards to make "Dutch" outgrew the enemy to such an extent that he was able to make the required distance for a first down, and the home selections. Leonardson is a townsman of Exelby, former fullback at M. A. C., and it is likely Exelby's influence which led to his appearance here. The student body, and especially the coaches, with the institution, has every reason to be proud of Leonardson's recognition as the best man in the backfield.

Some of the other men will doubtlessly be given creditable mentions for the substitutes for honorory positions. It surely was a big year for the "farmers." That was just as it should be.

SENIOR GIRLS TO HAVE GOOD BASKETBALL TEAM

The senior girls expect to have a first-class basketball team this winter, and are already out with a challenge to meet any other ladies' combination in college. To complete the claims to being a regular team they have a coach in the person of Norman M. "Buddy" Spencer, '13, and Margaret, Mich., who has made an enviable record on the 'varsity basketball team. Spencer is workmanlike, teaching the girls some new plays, and has unlimited confidence in the ability of his chargers.

THE CAPTAIN ELECT.

As stated last week, George E. Tomkins,'13, New York, is to lead the M. A. C. eleven next season. This fact, coupled with the unusually large number of veterans players which will be available next fall, leads to the prediction that Julian will lead the greatest Green and White aggregation ever to step on College Field.

His election to the leadership of the eleven was conceded long before the season closed. His all-around ability, coupled with a strong personality, made him one of the most popular players on the team, a fact which was shown in the great ovation given him by the bleachers when he went in the last few minutes of the Mt. Union game this fall.

Julian entered M. A. C. from the East High, of Rochester, a school which has a reputation for turning out good football teams. Right from the start his work attracted the attention of the coaches, and he earned the right to the fullback job in his first year. At that time he was a running mate of men like "Bubbles" Hill, Ribbet, and "Iron sides" Campbell.

In the two seasons which have come and gone since that time, his work has steadily improved, until he is one of the two or three men now considered for honors at the fullback job on the mythical All-Western Eleven. Constant practice has served to eliminate his two worst faults, inability to keep his face forward and a tendency to fumble backed hard. This fall no back in the West was surer on his feet than hitting the line than Julian, and it usually took most of the secondary defense to stop him. These tackles, if there were any, were exceeding few.

In the game, his presence acts as a spur to the other players, and the degree of "ppp" was noticeably lessened at the few times he was out of the line-up. With "Carp" back there to make the necessary yard or two, the other men laid aside all the confidence in the world.

Julian will make a great leader for Yestern team. His elation with the unanimous approval of the students, and they will back him to the hilt. Here's a thing to watch for this year, the M. A. C.'s greatest fullback, and our candidate for the All-Western job.

BASKET BALL PROGRAM

STRENGTHS EVER TRIED

With a strong representative team selected by the 32 or 33 candidates who turned out to battle for the one and two vacant places on the team, plans for completing the most ambitious schedule of games ever tackled by an Argie five are being carried out by Captain and Manager Gauthier.

If one or two other games with Eastern colleges can be secured, the M. A. C. squad will have a chance to blaze a trail through Eastern athletics. Cornell and Rochester have been signed up as well as an eastern trip which will take place between January 3 and 14. Dartmouth, Colgate, Colby, and one or two other teams with reputations included in the negotiations which are still unsettled.

The remainder of the list embraces such fives as Notre Dame for the second time, Hope College library, Western University, Northwestern College, a series of games with Detroit's, the Ray's of Detroit, Alma, and one or two others not yet settled.

Processions are being held in the armory as often as the floor can be secured, and from the amount of ability displayed by the new men, the task of selecting the best men to fill the center job will be a big one. The proficiency of coaching which the high schools are reaching now shows up to good advantage, for the ex-high school stars show an exceptional amount of "basketball brains."

Work on the new athletic field will soon be under way, according to reports from the far side of the campus. A portion of the old Woolary farm, which was added to the property of the college during the past summer, will be the site. The ground selected is high, which will do away with much of the inconvenience formerly suffered during wet seasons, and will be much more convenient to the main buildings of the college.

The Chicago Tribune for last Sunday contained a fine write-up of Coach John F. Macklin. His success with the Green and White football team has won recognition not only for himself and the College. When the Chicago Tribune takes notice, a man is a regular first-class." 122

LEADING THE WAY

Dr. Beal is forever the source of new, interesting, and reliable information on the little known features of M. A. C. While generally the information has been received from a reliable friend that there was a time when the field hockey team was taught at M. A. C. than in any other college or university in the country. However, in the last few weeks two more have been interested in their students.

Another point in which our college held first place was through the facilities of the @man, which was given to general students at this institution a full year before the courses were introduced at other Harvard or the University of Michigan.

A FINE CHANCE TO HELP

If the alumni of M. A. C. living in this state or even in Chicago, want to have a very enjoyable evening, meet some fellows from the College, and also materially aid in building the reputation of the Green and White, they will have a good chance this winter. The College Club will be a large success.

C. Vols, '11, of Saginaw, is the business manager this big, and is already making plans for an extensive tour of the state, to take place during the spring vacation. In connection with the Club, the mandolin club has been selected and will assist in the entertainments. If any of the alumni living in Michigan are interested, they may be able to secure the appearance of the club for their town by getting in touch with Mr. Vols. The University of Chicago holds the title of "champion" coast last winter, just because the alumni on route got busy and arranged concerts at various points along the way.

SENIOR HORTS. ON TRIP

The representatives of the senior horticultural class who are intending to take in the meeting of the State Association, left early in the week for Traverse City where the sessions for this year are to be held. Some ten or twelve students elected to make the trip.

During the meeting, these men will give five minute speeches on various horticultural subjects, and will be awarded prizes for the impression each is able to make on the judges. According to a custom that has been continued for years, the prizes will be posted on hand and used to defray the expenses of the trip.

122 M. J. Gearin, with the J. H. Heuser Engineering Co., of Chicago, dropped in to greet old friends for a day or two.

123 N. D. Simpson, private secretary to Patrick H. Kelley, congressman at large, has an ample supply of laughs and good times, but it is too bad he had to return to Washington for the new Congress which opens soon. He will room with Lee M. Hutchins, also of 123.
