EAST LANSING'S LEADING GROCER,
M. A. C. MEN MAKE GOOD AT THIRD CAMP.

While no commissions have been handed out to men attending the third officers' training school at Camp Custer, recommendations have gone forward to Washington and the men have been notified of them. As yet an official list of the M. A. C. men receiving recommendations is not available and will probably not be ready before next week. However, it is known that a large number of M. A. C. men were among those receiving commissions. Pending the receipt of the commissions by the candidates all have been appointed sergeants and assigned to organizations at Camp Custer or other camps.

Howard Rather and Fred M. Wilson, both '17, are two of the fortunate ones and have been sent to Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C. Rather reports that the captain of his battery at Camp Custer had an exceptionally good word to say for M. A. C. men. He told Rather as he was leaving that he did not know whether it was because the army needed men for horse artillery and took the 'farmers' or whether M. A. C. men were just naturally better than the others, but at any rate all the candidates that came down the line for recommendations seemed to be Michigan Aggies.

COLLEGE HALL SUGGESTIONS SOUGHT FROM STUDENT COMMITTEE.

At the request of the alumni committee on the rebuilding of College Hall a student advisory committee to be appointed by the president of the Student Council has been asked to enter into conference with the alumni members relative to the use to which old College Hall, in its rebuilt state, shall be put. The alumni advisory committee have very definite ideas as to certain features of the plans for rebuilding, but inasmuch as it is their desire that the old hall serve the present student body in its very highest capacity, they have felt that a committee of representative students could possibly offer some suggestions in the plans that would tend toward a greater usefulness as a social and community center for the campus.

A committee of ten has been appointed consisting of Senators, Misses Fern Ferris and Arnot Lewis, Messrs. P. J. Hoffmaster, Rex Wilcox, and T. C. Dee; Juniors, Miss Louise Hubbard, E. Osborne, and E. E. Ungren; and Sophomore, S. M. Powell.

40TH ANNIVERSARY FOR CLASS OF 1878.

It has been brought forcibly to our attention that this commencement is the fortieth anniversary of the class of 1878. According to the accepted plan the class of 1878 is not due for a reunion this year, but certainly a fortieth anniversary comes but once in a lifetime and cannot be overlooked. Therefore, '78, prepare for your fortieth birthday, May 23, on M. A. C.'s campus along with the reuniting classes. It is especially fitting that the class of '78 be represented at the gymnasium dedication, with such illustrious baseball players among their ranks as W. K. Prudden and the late Chas. F. Shilling.

We are a little late in this announcement, '78. You'll have to pardon us, but there is still time to pack your grip and catch the train. Remember the date is May 23.

CONFERENCE OF ALUMNI SECRETARIES AT YALE, MAY 10.

The sixth annual conference of alumni secretaries will be held at New Haven, Conn., May 10 and 11. The deliberations of the conference will be devoted exclusively to the activities of alumni in war time and speakers have been chosen with special reference to their activity in college or university work which is directly aiding the government.

The four chief topics for discussion at the conference will be: (1) Alumni and the Financing of a University in War Time; (2) The Alumni Publication in War Time; (3) Alumni Meetings and Reunions in War Time; (4) The Keeping of Alumni War Records.

During the conference the visiting secretaries will be the guests of Yale University. M. A. C.'s alumni recorder will attend.

HORT CLUB PRESENTS M. A. C. UNION WITH LIBERTY BOND.

The Hort Club has just recently voted to give $50 in a Liberty Bond to the M. A. C. Union, the money to be used in furnishing the new Union home in College Hall when it is rebuilt. The Horts have chosen this use for their funds, part of which were obtained from the Hort show, in preference to the annual Hort Club banquet of former years. The Hort Club has the honor of being the first organization to make a subscription toward furnishing the Union building. They have used excellent judgment in selecting this use for their fund and have set an example for other organizations. It was their intention to establish a precedent for other clubs who are ending the year with surplus funds.

SENIOR SWING OUT MAY 1.

The annual "Senior Swing Out" in which the Seniors first introduce themselves and the campus to their caps and gowns was held Wednesday night, May 1. Headed by the class officers and with the band playing a march, the long line wended its way from the Women's building along the customary route over the campus.

This year, for the first time, the line was broken at its middle by eight men in the R. O. T. C. uniform. These men who will enter the next officers' camp will wear the uniforms instead of caps and gowns during the rest of the Senior festivities which they are able to attend before entering camp May 15. For the rest of the term Seniors will wear caps and gowns Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Two Freshmen disturbers of the Sophomore peace caught fusing during Senior swing out were peremptorily deposited in the Red Cedar behind the Gymnasium, even while the swing out progressed.

THE CARNIVAL.

At the athletic carnival last Saturday 2,000 people paid the $1 admission at the box office of the new gymnasium and proceeded to gather up a dollar's worth of fun. Students, faculty, alumni and people of Lansing and East Lansing enjoyed the shows and stunts as in the days of former carnivals.

M. A. C. is mighty glad to welcome the old time athletic carnival into its yearly schedule of all-college social activities. The occasions for the gathering of the whole college family for a good lively social time together are mighty few,—too few in fact. Certainly there is nothing like a carnival to bring all of the family out and to bring out the entertaining and fun-making ability of its members. Formalities are cast off and acquaintances are made as on no other occasion. Its influence in cementing friendship, promoting college spirit and tying our people stronger to M. A. C. is one that we can ill afford to lose.

The carnival this year was not intended as a money maker, but more to start the old show up again and get the college interested. To carry this out 5c and 2c tickets admitted one to the shows. It is an interesting fact in connection with the very small charges made that as much money was taken in and fully as much netted as in former carnivals when 5c and 10c admittances were charged for the attractions. Again we greet the new gymnasium. Without it the old time carnival could not have been brought back into its own.

LOCAL ALUMNI MEETINGS.

Reports of the usual winter gatherings of such Live M. A. C. Associations as the Northeast Michigan, Flint, Grand Rapids, Jackson and a few others who wish to be considered in this class, have been extremely noticeable by their absence. We cannot help wondering what the specific reason is for these local associations not gathering this year. Of course, the war has taken many of the members from the local communities and when we inquire of individuals we learn that Smith is so busy in Liberty Bond campaigning that he can’t give his time to anything else, and Jones is chairman of Red Cross work and so and so is handling thrift stamps and army Y. M. C. A. campaigns. Of course the war is claiming the time of M. A. C. people. It is to be expected that war work would claim their time. However, the meetings of the local associations should not be put off altogether on this account. It is believed that the meetings will bring help and inspiration, that they will add enthusiasm and energy to our war work.

Possibly some of the Michigan associations are holding off and saving up for the reunion and commencement festivities. We hope so. However, it is never too late for rousing get-togethers of M. A. C. people in any community.

This year take it dropped as a gentle hint to the folks up in Saginaw, Bay City, Grand Rapids, Flint, Jackson, etc.

AN APOLOGY TO COL. FINLEY.

We feel that we owe Col. John P. Finley, '73, an apology for not having had his name on M. A. C.'s war service list until news came of his retirement. His name was left off our annual conference of alumni secretaries at Yale May 10 and 11. It is believed that the meetings will bring help and inspiration, that they will add enthusiasm and energy to our war work.

Possibly some of the Michigan associations are holding off and saving up for the reunion and commencement festivities. We hope so. However, it is never too late for rousing get-togethers of M. A. C. people in any community.

MRS. HELEN DAVIS BAKER.

Mrs. Helen Davis Baker, mother of Arthur D. Baker, '89, Luther H. Baker, '94, and Mrs. W. O. Hedrick, and for forty-four years a resident of East Lansing, died at her home here April 25.

She came to Lansing from Minnesota in 1864 having gone through an Indian uprising there in 1851. In 1888 she was married to Lieut. Luther D. Baker, the captain of J. Wilkes Booth, who assassinated President Lincoln. All will remember Old Buckskin, the horse in the college museum, said to have been ridden by Lieut. Baker when he captured Booth.

The funeral was held Saturday afternoon from the residence of Prof. W. O. Hedrick.

WILFRED B. NEVINS, '00.

The death of Wilfred Bartlett Nevins, of the class of 1900, occurred at Hemet, Cal., on March 14, from tuberculosis.

Nevins entered M. A. C. from Otsego, Mich., and after graduation returned there to practice as a civil engineer. For a number of years past he has been employed by the Santa Fe railroad as a civil engineer and draftsman at Hemet, Cal. His father, George C. Nevins, '78, now resides in Hemet, Cal.

Nevins was a member of the Union Literary society.

LEWIS S. FULLER, '08.

Lewis Swan Fuller, '08, died at the Star Sanitarium, Colorado Springs, Colo., Sunday, April 28. Fuller had been in Colorado for his health for nearly a year and failed rapidly in the last couple of months. His parents, who live in East Lansing, were called west a couple of weeks ago on account of the seriousness of his condition.

Fuller entered M. A. C. from Lansing and while he was in college was an exceptionally bright student and was considered one of the best in the engineering courses in his class. He was the first man of the class taken into the Taw Beta Pi fraternity. After graduation he entered the employ of the college as an instructor in mathematics and civil engineering and remained in that capacity for two years. After that he spent a year in the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey along the James River in Virginia. Since that time he has been engaged in poultry raising with his father at their home on Harrison avenue, north of the river.

Fuller was widely known among men in college during his time because of his exceptional ability as a student.

SENIORS LEAVING FOR WAR WORK.

A number of seniors are completing their work early and leaving to take up war emergency work in agricultural lines. There is a particular demand for men fitted to oversee work during this summer.

Frank Davis has completed his college work and has just accepted an appointment as assistant county agent and garden club leader in Calhoun county with headquarters at Marshall. Davis expects to teach agriculture in the Marshall schools next fall.

R. S. Simmons has also completed his work and left this week for Jackson, Mich., where he has accepted a position as assistant agent and county club leader. Most of his work during the summer will be in directing gardening.

C. E. Atwater has taken up the duties of county agricultural agent, with headquarters at Gladwin, Mich.

LIBERTY LEAGUE GETS RESULTS.

Elijah Poxson, chairman of the Thrift Stamp campaign of Ingham county, paid a recent visit to the work of the Liberty League in their recent drive through Ingham county in behalf of thrift stamps. All together 150 schools were visited by Liberty League representatives, some of the men visiting nine and ten schools during the two days' trip. Chairman Poxson says that the league got results and stirred upon the entire county so that a stimulation of sales to three and four times the usual amount came pouring into his office following their campaign. He was very enthusiastic about the work done and the manner in which the individual speeches were handled by the leaguers. He says that the men drove straight to the mark, and that they succeeded in hitting it emphatically shown in the swelling of thrift stamp sales.

C. E. Newlander, who was assistant professor of dairy manufacturers last year, is now at Asburn, Ala.

MICHIGAN SOCIETY OF NEW YORK TO AID SOLDIERS.

The New York Michigan Society, has through its president, John J. Bush, '42, expressed its willingness to cooperate in the Michigan war board plan for aiding Michigan soldiers in New York. The plan contemplates the furnishing of medical aid and personal attentions to Michigan's sick and wounded soldiers when they arrive in New York on their return from Europe. The officers of the Michigan Society of New York are all M. A. C. men, and their roster carries many M. A. C. names. The willingness of the Michigan Society to take up the proposal and their ready response are indicative of the good old M. A. C. spirit of service.

With the exception that the shows were a trifle 'unfinished,' they compared very favorably with those of the days when carnivals were in vogue before. Although a new thing to students, the carnival took well. Already the organizations putting on the shows are talking of what they will do next year.

THE M. A. C. RECORD.

Summer School Program Completed.

Professor Ryder, director of the summer session at M. A. C., has just completed plans for the summer school to be held from June 24 to August 2. As is indicated by the quotation from President Wilson appearing on the cover of the announcement, "We must at once begin to teach our pupils about community problems," the general theme of this year's summer courses will be that of rural and community problems.

The summer work is divided into two groups, the first group made up of courses taken from the regular curriculum of the college which are designed for regular students residing during the summer. The second group consists of special courses for teachers who wish to study agriculture and home economics and other lines of particular interest to teachers in preparation for their summer work.

Among the new courses to be given this year is a course in military training designed particularly for farmers. As much as the new state law provides for military work in the public schools, there is considerable demand for a smattering of military science by teachers in the public schools. Major Wrightson will, of course, have charge of this course.

Another new course which no doubt will be especially popular this summer is that on physical training to be given by Prof. Emmons. This course will include the caring for health and physical exercises adapted to public school work. The new gymnasium will be at the disposal of the teachers during the summer.

Community leadership classes, which were organized by E. C. Lindemann, '11, last year for the first time, will be given again this summer. The work is designed for the training of teachers to make them community leaders, and was very successful last year. Prof. Mitchell's course in the giving of entertainments in rural communities with limited facilities, filled a need last year and will be repeated. In order to put the college in touch with county school commissioners and superintendents, a series of addresses is being prepared for them, given by the agricultural faculty during the week of July 8-15. The week of July 8-15 is also the time set for the Boys' and Girls' Club conference and the rural conference of ministers and laymen. These conferences were very popular last year and largely attended, and no doubt will bring a great many rural leaders to M. A. C. during the week.

THE WORLD CONFLICT WITH MILITARISM.

By Prof. E. H. Ryder.

The final article in Prof. Ryder's history of the causes leading up to the present war. Close upon the heels of the Morocco affair came a succession of events. The interest of the world was directed to the east, Italy, like her fellow states, hungered for colonial territory, especially around the borders of the Mediterranean. Tripoli, lying be-between Egypt, under an English protectorate, on the one side, and Tunis under France on the other, was the object of the Triple Entente. It was Germany's one remaining vestige of the power of the Turk in northern Africa. In 1911 conditions seemed propitious for Italy to make the seizure. A short war with France sufficed to establish her influence among Tunisian and Hertzgovina. Austria and Germany, the ally of the Triple Entente, immediately occupied Tunis. This was not acceptable to the allied Balkan states, Servia and Bulgaria, together with Greece, to unite to drive the Turk from his European holdings. The reader should be reminded at this point that the Balkans, especially Servia, were smarting under the act of the Austrians in 1908 in seizing Bosnia and Herzegovina, provinces along the Adriatic, which in 1878 at the time of Russia's humiliation by the western nations had been placed under Austria for purposes of administration. Now Austria seizes them. The occasion for this act was the reinvigoration of the Turkish government by the young Turkish party, who prepared to resist to the unmitigated despotism in the territory of the west, including Bosnia and Herzegovina. Austria and Germany by this time desired strong control of Constantinople by the Turks, but objected to their control in the west on account of Austria. This marks an aggressive policy toward the Slavic states on the part of Austria and naturally provokes intense jealousy and antagonism. Under this act of the Austrians the Balkans in 1912 engaged in a common cause against Turkey and with unforeseen success drove the Turk to the very border of Servia into Bosnia. Stirred by this situation, anti-Austrian or pro-Servian propaganda is rampant. It spreads across the border of Servia into Bosnia where, upon a visit of Prince Ferdinand, the unfortunate murder by incensed Servians occurs at Servijevno in July, 1914. This unfortunate affair becomes the pretext for Austria to use in pursuing her policy of removing Servia from her way. Her demands were so exacting as to preclude acceptance by Servia if she hoped to maintain her national existence and dignity. The matter might rightfully have been submitted to arbitration for adjustment, but Germany, the ally of Austria as well as of Turkey, refused to sanction such procedure on the part of Austria and without hesitation mobilized ready for action. She first demands that Russia cease her mobilization already undertaken as the friend of Servia. Germany also sends an ultimatum to France, the leader of the Triple Entente, demanding that France in Germany directing her first attack through Belgium with the expectation of humbling France before Russia could get under motion, after which the other would subdue Russia with ease. The situation reminds one of the wars of the sixties by which German unity was accomplished. In at least three respects the present conflict is a war fought for ultimate domination of the world. We see it now. Again no justifiable reason existed for nations engaging in conflict of arms and a well laid plan for a quick decisive campaign is evident whereby the desired end could be attained before the opponents could possibly organize their resources. Two reasons stand out as the cause of the Germans' failure. Little Belgium with unexcelled bravery contested that drive for Paris, while the threat of Russia on the east seems to have unnerved the Germans but at the very moment of possible victory.

The foregoing recital of events reflects the occasion and motives of each nation's entering into the struggle. It seems apparent that the claims of Germany in calling it a war of defense are absolutely absurd. Rather her appearance as a leader of a great Pan-German ambition, with Austria and Turkey her close allies, stands forth in uncontrollable evidence. The wonder is that the world has been so deaf to the persistent warnings of Charadame, the French writer, who for a score of years has foreseen this scheme embodying a plan sure to make a strong appeal to the commercial and capitalistic classes of the German nation. Pan-Germanist ambitions being frustrated along with the ambitions of Servia. The recent Balkan war has terminated disastrously for Bulgaria, her ambitions being frustrated along with the ambitions of Servia. The problem for Bulgaria was to know which side would bring her the desired territory and prestige. Realizing that France and England had been strongest in the near east except to maintain peace and at the same time knowing that Germany would be concerned in carrying forward her scheme for aggrandizement in southeastern Europe, Bulgaria seems to have cast her lot with the Teutons in the belief that the greatest good to herself would result therefrom.

H. RAY KINGSLEY WITH '03 TELLS OF FRENCH AMB. SERVICE.

The following are extracts from a letter of H. Ray Kingsley with '03, now Captain Engineer R. C., Fort Mills, P., Va.

"I believe I have the honor of being the first M. A. C. man to serve in this war and in France, because I enlisted at Paris in September, 1916, for three months service in the American Ambulance Service of the French Army, seven months before America declared war on Germany and at that time it looked as the America never would enter the war. My sympathies were entirely with the Entente Allies and I believed that America should be in the war for her own ultimate independence and for humanities sake and for that reason and the fact that I wanted to be able to tell my children in after years it occasion came that I had served in the great struggle and done willingly my little bit for humanities sake, I volunteered for three months service. I paid all my expenses to and from France, bought my own uniform and served for three months without receiving a "sou" for my services. A "sou" is 5 centims, French money and is equivalent to one cent in American currency. Found reason for her demands in the fact that great numbers of Italians live on the north and east shore of that sea under the jurisdiction of Austria. Italy, it might have been related had we possessed space, had received concessions from the Triple Entente in recent years which it was to her advantage to withdraw her friendship from the Triple Alliance. Early in the war, she found excuse for so doing on the score that the present conflict was a war of aggression while the alliance was purely defensive. Having taken this stand she immediately engaged in the struggle with a view of extending the Italian territory to comprehend the areas along the eastern shore of the Adriatic in which the Italian population existed in considerable numbers.

In closing this very hasty sketch of the historical setting of the war we should not fail to account for Bulgaria's being an ally of the Germans. The recent Balkan war has terminated disastrously for Bulgaria, her ambitions being frustrated along with the ambitions of Servia. The problem for Bulgaria was to know which side would bring her the desired territory and prestige. Realizing that France and England had been strongest in the near east except to maintain peace and at the same time knowing that Germany would be concerned in carrying forward her scheme for aggrandizement in southeastern Europe, Bulgaria seems to have cast her lot with the Teutons in the belief that the greatest good to herself would result therefrom.

THE M. A. C. RECORD.

money. Believe me it was some hard work. I was raised on a farm and used to the hardest of farm work and have worked in shops, shoveled coal, sawed wood and dug ditches, but I never worked harder in my life than I did while handling the wounded in France, handling an average of about 200 a night and sometimes over 500 a night. There were many other Americans doing the same as I was. All we received was our subsistence and the appreciation of the French and her allied peoples. I served during September, October, November and December and returned to my Chicago home January 12, 1917, and was soon after ordered to return to Manila. I was on the ocean, bound for the Philippines when war was declared. As soon as I landed at Manila I went to Department Headquarters for the Army at Fort Santiago and applied for examination to get a commission in the Officers Reserve Corps. Later I took the examination and was commissioned a Captain of Engineer Reserve Corps. Dec. 24, 1917, I was called to active service and assigned to the 3rd Reg't Engineers, in command of and Unit Supply Officer for Co. A, Fort Mills, P. I. As I expect to be sent on to Russia, or France at any time I will not have my address changed for mailing the RECORD till I receive orders.

Another piece of news that may be of interest to M. A. C. readers is that we have another daughter in our family. She was born March 1, 1918. Our family to date consists of one boy and two girls. My wife will be remembered by our friends as Mabel Downey, with '05.
