Mr. Schleif also reported briefly on the Food Safety Toxicology Building.

7. Chairperson's Report and Trustees' Comments

A. Chairperson Mawby expressed appreciation for the arrangements and hospitality extended to the Board of Trustees during their visit to the Traverse City area. The programs presented at the Northwest Michigan Horticultural Research Station are dramatic evidence of the relationship of the agricultural community with Michigan State. Dr. Mawby spoke of the significance of the commencement exercises being held that day at Northwestern Michigan College which are a result of Michigan State's collaborative relationship by interactive television.

B. Trustees' Comments:

1) Mr. Weiss spoke of his enthusiasm for the educational activities in agriculture that are taking place in northern Michigan and how proud he is of those who represent Michigan State out in the communities. He believes it is important for the people of the state to know that Michigan State is their university and is hopeful that future meetings will be held away from the main campus. Mr. Weiss thanked Trustee Nugent for the hospitable welcome.

2) Ms. Cook complimented President McPherson for the picnic honoring University employees who had responsibilities associated with the Convocation on May 5. She was impressed by people who said their work was part of the great Spartan spirit and family. The Convocation was an example of the entire community being caught up in the spirit of producing a wonderful event that reflected so well on the University.

Trustee Cook thanked everyone for the concern shown to her and Byron since his accident.

3) Mr. Shingleton acknowledged President McPherson and Mr. David Armstrong for the cooperative relationship that has developed between the MSU Foundation and Michigan State. Trustees Cook and Shingleton serve on the Foundation Board of Directors.

4) Mr. Nugent thanked Board members and administrators for coming to the Traverse City area. He acknowledged the support and cooperation of President Timothy Quinn and his assistant, Mr. Chet Janek, of Northwestern Michigan College, for facilitating the meeting. Mr. Nugent spoke proudly of his involvement in the University Center concept which brings interactive and satellite television courses to a five-county area in northern Michigan.

5) President McPherson commented on the importance of Michigan State to the Traverse City area and how pleased he is that the University continues to be a part of the changes and economic growth.

8. The following individual addressed the Board of Trustees from East Lansing:

A. Nancy Soule, a graduate student, reported she had brief comments to make as a result of an unusual circumstance. She had logged on to the internet that morning and was asked to relay a message to the Board of Trustees from some Native American discussion groups about the Mt. Graham observatory project. The message was in her words, rather than the exact words of the sender, but she asked Board members to use their influence and actions when questions of diversity arise, understanding that while we may not always understand another culture, to respect the ideas they are coming from and to listen to the meaning of their words.
9. An Executive Session was not requested.

10. President McPherson thanked the "technical" people in East Lansing and Traverse City for their extraordinary skills in facilitating this important Board meeting.

Appreciation for the success of the visit was also expressed to numerous Michigan State employees: the Dean and administrators of the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources; James Nugent, Coordinator, and staff members and directors of programs of the Northwest Michigan Horticultural Research Station; and Melvin Matchett, Director, and Thomas Emling, Associate Director of MSU North, the Regional Outreach office.

11. The meeting adjourned at 12:10 p.m. Trustees, President McPherson, Provost Simon, Vice President Wilkinson, and Secretary Hesse were lunch guests of President Quinn and Board Chairperson Shirley Okerstrom of Northwestern Michigan College.

Peter McPherson, President

Dr. Martha L. Hesse, Secretary
